Ten lines or less make a square. If an advertisement exceeds ten lines, the price will be in proportion.

All advertisements are payable at the time of their insertion. Contracts with yearly advertisers, will be made on the most liberal terms.

No transfer of contracts for yearly advertising will be permitted. Should circumstances render a change in business, or an unexpected removal necessary, a charge according to the published terms will be at the option of the contractor, for the time he has advertised.

The privilege of Annual Advertisers is strictly limited to their own immediate business; and all advertisements for the benefit of other persons, as well as all advertisements not immediately connected with their own business, and all excess of advertisements in length or otherwise, beyond the limits engaged, will be charged at the usual rates.

No advertisement is included in the contract for the sale or rent of houses or lands in town or country, or for the sale or hire of negroes, whether the property is owned by the advertiser or by other persons. These are excluded by the term "immediate business."

The announcement of marriages or deaths will be considered as news, and inserted free of charge, but all additional matter, beyond the simple announcement of the death of the person, will be charged on the same terms as advertisements.

All advertisements inserted in the Tri-Weekly Commercial, are entitled to one insertion in the Weekly Post in superior style.

RIGHTS OF WOMEN.

BY LAURIE TOWN.
(Concluded.)

This small respect that is paid to the Rights of Women is another instance of the folly of the sovereign people. Thomas Jefferson (and he was the greatest sovereign among all the sovereign people) in his notes on Virginia, says that "man is made with strength of body and powers of mind to direct and protect his weaker companion, the woman; but, instead of directing and protecting, he too often employs the cunning, subtle, devil-like powers of his mind, and the brute strength of his body to work her destruction. But I cannot better describe this operation than by quoting from Mrs. L. Maria Child's Letters from New York. Mrs. Child is a lady of modest worth and an eloquent writer. Had she been born in Europe, she would have been a pangen here:

"For many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air."

Mrs. Child was paying a visit to the penitentiary, when the editor of the Weekly Rake (a scurrilous paper) was brought in to do penance for his evil deeds. She asked: "Why should the 'Weekly Rake' be shut up when daily takes walk Broadway in his broadcloth and silk velvet?" She added: "More than half of the inmates of the penitentiary were women; and of course, a large proportion of them were taken up as 'street walkers.' The men who made them such, who, perchance, caused the love of a human heart to be its ruin, and changed to a desperate, into a criminal, and crime—these men live in 'cellular houses' on Broadway, and sit in council in the City Hall, and pass regulations to clear the streets they have filled with sin—Do you suppose their poor victims do not feel the injustice of society thus regulated?"

Yes, my dear Mrs. Child, they do feel it; and, as it is held in our model republic to be just, right and lawful for men to kill tyrants now and then, provided they may thereby recover their just and natural rights, so we need not feel surprised when we hear, now and then, that one of these pirates are shot by the hand of a woman in Leonard's or any other street, nor did I wonder the other day, when one of these injured sisters dragged the usurper of her rights from the steps of the Aator, and made him strut through the mud, like a crow in the gutter. Served him right. He had broken his oath and his promise, and had robbed her of all that is dear to a woman. If the ladies only knew their power, and were rightly to improve it for their own advantage, they could twist the whole male generation, like a thread of law, around their fingers.

There seems to be something wrong in society with regard to the rights of woman. Why should the woman be driven away into the wilderness, like a sheep-goat for her head? and hearing his sin on her own head? She is cast out to perish, or he, the first transgressor, is carried and courted by all, as if to sacrifice one of the weaker sex were an honor to the man, whom God and nature has appointed to be her protector.—You may see him in Broadway, at mid-day, escorting a female whose emperer as yet is unshuffled. She meets and receives the salutation of her friends without a blush for being seen in contact with the man who has worse than murdered her play fellow. But should his victim come within a hundred yards she would fly from her as from the plague.

Now, Miss Mock-Modesty, why shun your poor, young, and blasted friend, when you are not ashamed, in the face of the sun, in the public street, to be seen hanging on the arm of her destroyer? This thing ought not to be so. You say that this is the fashion; and so it is the fashion in Turkey for a man to have six wives.

I have a remedy to propose; and as this is the age of improvement, the age of experiment, and the march of intellect, I think the project is deserving of being tested by experience. I would propose that a new court be established, under the name and title of the "Court of Conscience." Let this court consist of three Maftrons, not under forty and not over fifty years, widows, otherwise their husbands—who perhaps in their deaf days were weakly or daily takes, and themselves being in the same condemnation—might best their better judgment, and thereby the perjured villain might escape, unwhipped of justice.

* A case in point occurred in that street a few years ago.
See Fourth Page

from the distinguished Professor of Chemistry and Medical Botany, Bowdoin College. Dear Sir: I delayed answering the receipt of your preparation, until I had an opportunity of witnessing its effects in my own family, or in the families of my friends.
This I have now done with a high degree of satisfaction in cases both of adults and children.
I have found it, as its ingredients show, a powerful remedy for colds, and coughs, and pulmonary diseases.
PARKER CLEVELAND, M. D.
Buxworth, Me., 1847.
From an Overseer by the Hamilton Mills, in this City.
Lowell, Aug. 10, 1849.

Dr. J. C. Ayer: I have been cured of the worst cough I ever had in my life, by your "CHERRY PECTORAL," and never fail, when I have opportunity, of recommending it to others.
Yours, respectfully,
S. D. EMERSON.
Read the following, and see if this medicine is worth a trial. This patient had become very feeble and the effect of the medicine was unmistakably beneficial.
UNITED STATES HOTEL, SARATOGA SPRINGS, }
July 5, 1849. }

Dr. J. C. Ayer: I have been afflicted with a painful affection of the lungs and all the symptoms of settled consumption, for more than a year. I could find no medicine that would reach my case, until I commenced the use of your "CHERRY PECTORAL," which gave me gradual relief, and I have been steadily gaining my strength till my health is well nigh restored.
While using your medicine, I had the gratification of curing with my favored friend, Mr. Truman of Sumner District, who had been suspended from his parental duties by a severe attack of bronchitis.
I have pleasure in certifying these facts to you, and am, sir, yours respectfully,
J. F. CALHOUN of South Carolina.
