TO CORRESPONDENTS

The insertion of the communication signed "Amor Ecclesiasticus" is declined. Our personal regard for the author would prompt us to insert it, did we not think it would be contrary to that rule of justice and strict impartiality which we have marked out and followed, in our Editorial capacity, on the Border Question. Anonymous unications on this subject will be excluded. For those communications under the proper signature of the writers, we do not consider ourselves responsible; nor can we take the liberty of amending or changing their language, or suggesting change or amendment, in such cases, without becoming entangled with the subject in a way unsalted to our views of what is right and proper.

A CONTROVERSY.

The New Orleans Delta is in controversy with other papers of the city, relative to the responsi lity of aiding by Editolial remarks and the publication of Correspondence, the late Cuban adventures. We are giad the editors of that city are ashamed of a course which has resulted in such disastrous consequence s-the folly of which in all its aspects, laid its supporters obnoxious to the charge of a demented understanding or a corrupt heart. To us it appears almost impossible that any man of sufficient intelligence to conduct a newspaper respectably, should be imposed upon by either the Havana Correspondents or the leaders of the enterprise. The truth is, that in this as other matters of "intelligence," the press is too prone to minister to the public appetite for the marvellous, regardless of truth or probability.-We do not accuse the Editors of New Orleans' of being privy to the strocious mercenary speculainvolved in this affair, in consequence of which our young countrymen were inveighted in-to a scheme that resulted in disgrace and dea h At all events, it is well that the New Orleans Ediors are ashamed of their conduct.

DEATH OF THE HON. JAMES GRAHAM. We inadvertently omitted the announcement of the death of Mr. GRAHAM, last surviving brother of the Secretary of the Navy, who died at his residence in Lincoln county, on the 25th ultimo, aged 57. He was frequently a member of the Legislature, and was for twelve years a member of Congress. He was a man of estimable qualiivate-life, and a faithful and devoted

FREE NEGROES. The northern pressos, have been for some th set of excluding free negaties saing the sai from those States, and the late outrages on ted by them and their abolition allies have given animation to the parties desiring it. It is strange that the northern people will in no sense he just in their dealings with the African race. They will not permit them to remain quietly under the regulations warranted by the political compact but stir up discontent, till the South is obliged to be stringent in the government of the free blacks, whom they will not receive, notwithstanding their ler will observe from Mr. Massaton's pretended sympathy for the colored race. If there at, that he has minived, his studio are many in the north who oppose the abolition Hall, to the Room under Mr. H. > "It now begins to be time to agitate another question, and that is, the exclusion by law of the mmigration of blacks into the free States, as Indiana has already done. If every runaway negro is to bring with him a Syracuse fight, let us forbid negroes by law from coming here. We have in this State already prohibited them from voting unless they have a large property qualifiation. and no doubt, a majority to prohibit their entry here could be got just as large as that which prohibited them from voting. We cannot afford to make the free States a battle ground for runaway negroes. We cannot afford to have a repetition of Christiana and Syracuse outrages. We cannot afford the ill-will, the ad blood, the maining and murder, the abolitionists through the means of these -runaway negroes, got up between the North and South. The true remedy is to forbid the immigration of negroes, and to stop the entry of any more of them into the free States. As long as the white and the black were permitted to live peaceably together, no such law was necessary; but, as the abolitionists are bent upon bringing us into constant collisions, and the blacks especially into collisions with the law, we must remove all causes of such collision by refusing to have any more negroes come among us.

LETTER FROM COL. CRITTENDEN. The Washington Republic publishes, from the nanuscript, the last letter written by Col. Cair-TENDEN, addressed to his uncle the Hon. J. J. CRITTENDEN. It is as follows :

"SHIP OF WAR ESPERNNZA, Aug. 16, 1851. "DEAR UNCLE: In a few moments some fifty f us will be shot-we came with Lopez. You will do me the justice to believe that my motive for coming was a good one I was deceived by Lopez. Yes, (remarks the "Republic" on this Letter.) doubly was he deceived by the public press : in the first instance by the misropresentation of the nature and character of the expedition in which he was about to engage, as it was understood by the laws of the civilized world. Herein was the first and most cruel deception. He was told that a carcer of glory was before him, and that his name would live in history on the same page with that of Kosciusko and Lafavette-among the 'liberators" of mankind. He was told that in the indulgence of a "generous sympathy" he might look for a "higher law" than the statutes

VERY FORGETFUL

The English Journals, after accusing our Government of weakly permitting, or coverily assisting in the late Cuban expedition, declare it to be an outrage on the laws of nations and even on human nature itself, such as no civilized country has ever had the audacity to perpetrate before. If the case were made out it bears no comparison to depredatory demonstrations on the part of the British. But perhaps the English papers mean that nothing so base was ever done before, on a small scale: We will give a scrap of history indicative of British regard for the Law of Nations.

In 1807, a fleet of 23 ships of the line was sent up to the Sound which demanded of Denmark an offensive alliance against France, or the surrender of her Fleet as a pledge of her nentrality. Both were very properly denied. Upon this the British Army landed; consisting of 25,000 men, under I rd Cathcart; and after an unsuccessful resistance on the part of the Danes, who were unprepared for such an attack, Copenhagen was surrendered August 17. As the government repeatedly refused to yield to the British demands, which it could not do without a sacrifice of all national henor, the capital was bombarded for three days, and 400 houses laid in ashes, in the ruins of which 1.300 of the inhabitants perished. September 7, Copenhagen capitulated, and the whole fleet, completely equipped, and including 18 ships of the line. 15 frigates, &c. was delivered up to the British and carried off in triumph-and all this without a declaration of war, or any plea of reprisals So we see that John' Bull hates rascality and meanness when it is done in a small way only-he has no objection to a violation of the law of nations, on a splendid scale.

It was acts of this sort, so fruitful in British history, that made her name hateful to the friends of liberty and justice in this country. But this was a long time ago. Since the war of 1812 she has become more civilized and behaved much better than she did before. She took a few lessons about that time that she got well by heart; and this grumbling of hers arises from the little snubbing she got at the World's Fair-she did not like to see so awkward a chap as brother Jonathan take the "shine" before so much company.

MICHIGAN RAILROAD CONSPIRATORS. The Kalamazoo (Mich.) Telegraph says that Dr. Farnham, and another of the prisoners while on their way to the States prison, made a free and open confession of their guilt, in the partipation of the burning of the depot at Detroit, and stated that not only all of them were guilty, but that there were others deeply implicated who had not been arrested or even suspected. Their names he did not give.

From the National Intelligencer of Monday. DEATH OF COMMODORE WARRINGTON. It is our painful task to announce the decease of Commodore Lewis WARRINGTON, of the U.S. Navy. He died at his residence in this city yesterday morning, between 5 and 6 o'clock, in the 69th year of his age, after an illness of severe suffering. Com. WARRINGTON was a native of Virginia He was born in November, 1782, and, after passing his academic course at William and Mary College, entered the Navy in January, 1800; so that he had served nearly fifty-two yea.s. His professional services and brilliant achievements are interwoven with our history, and are conspicuous in some of its brightest pages. He was almost the only oue left of that noble roll of brave naval commanders who, in the war of 1812, achieved so much glory for their country by their brilliant victorics against an enemy till then

VERMONT.

Governor, Williams, of Vermont, transmitted numal Message to the Legislature on Saturday last. He doubts the constitutionality of the Fagisive Slave Law, but says it should be enfored, and its character left to the appropriate judicial tribunals established by the Constitution. He regrets that conscience is scouted in these latter days, but does not believe that the people of Vermont entertain a notion that they are absolved from obedience to a law which don't happen to mit their views. He says it should be rembered that laws themselves are subject to public inion and the provisions of the constitution, and therefore may be changed or annulled. It is did not know or care a rush whether it was true the province of the Judiciary to determine all Constitutional questions.

THE MAINE LIQUOR LAW.

We have always doubted the good effects of any legal regulation in regard to the sale and use of ardent spirits; thinking it best, among a free wople, to affect the heart and enlighten the mind. by reason and argument, and illustrations of the history of intemperance. But it seems we are mistaken, so far as one community is concerned at least. The Mayor of Portland, Maine, gives the following account of the operations of the Liquor Law of the State, in that place,

When it went into operation there were between two and three handred rum shops in the city; now there are no places where liquor is sold penly, and only a very few, kept mostly by for-igners, where it is sold with great accresy and aution. The wholesale trade is entirely suppresd. The Mayor thinks the results of the law, so far, "bave been more salutary and decisive than its most ardent friends had any reason to antici-The law may be partially evaded for a but steady perseverance will enable us at o bring all such persons to justice. A great re has been effected by this law in the de-sents which come under the care of the poiss. of his country, which in the conflict might be meritoriously disobeyed. This was the first deception.

The second was hardly more criminal-the manufacture and circulation of false intelligence. It is true, as CRITTEDDEN alleges, that the "public press" told him that CUBA was in a state of "prosperous revolution." We now know, from other information than that of CRITTENDEN, not only that this statement was "deceptive," but that there was no possible foundation for it In all its length and breadth it was a lic. Who were the guilty authors of this fabrication it may now be difficult to trace; but does not responsibility rest upon those who circulated it knowing it to be false, or most improbable, or who, at all events, or false 1

We hope that the "public press" will be taught by the fate of CRITTENDEN and his command to be more guarded in the doctrines it inculcates and the intelligence to which it gives circulation.

THE MICHIGAN CONSPIRATORS.

It has been stated that the parties lately convicted of arson, in what has been called the Rail Road Conspiracy, in the State of Michigan, were men of respectable standing ; fathers of families. thrifty farmers, members of churches. &c. It will be some relief to the public mind to learn that the facts are far otherwise. All of the persons con victed, except one about whose life and character previous to this affair nothing is known, were a band of villians, who had been guilty of forgery, theft, counterfeiting, fraud. gambling; men of intemperate habits; frequently arrested, and sometimes the inmates of prisons. All were criminals before this last crowning act of wickedness caused them to fall into the hands of the law. After enumerating the crimes of which they had been severally guilty, the Detroit Advertiser says :-"The public must see what respectability and standing there was among this band of villains. and how injurious it is to the reputation of Michigan to class them among the respectable portion | said, will go on rapidly. of our citizens. They generally had a reputation corresponding with their conduct, not all equally black, but all spotted in a greater or less degree."

DEATH OF A VENERABLE CITIZEN. Ebenezer T. Andrews, Esq., formerly well known as a printer and bookseller on Wa hington street, Boston, died on Thursday night last, at the advanced age of 85.
