LOVING AND LIKING.

That women were "born to love" mas certain as that General Juckson was born to command," or that every body was "born to die." Their very dialect shows the strength of this proclivity. They use the word to indicate any sort of affection, possition, penchant, appetite or "fancy." They "love" their lovers, and their husbands, fine dresses and fine dieners. and fine dinners, sweetmeats and "sweet ribbons," with apparently the same sort and the same measure of affection. To "like" is too tame an expression for a lady's choice. She "loves" everything (that she does n't happen to hate) and can find no other word in the dictionary that is equal to her need.—
That this everlasting and indiscriminate use of the highest and holiest word in the language is improper and even indecent, there can be no ground for debate. "O' I dearly love turnips!" exclaimed a lady the other day at the table.—a lady who merely meant to say that she liked the vegetable is govern. to say that she liked the vegetable in ques-"The d-I you do !" said and a old bachelor of her acquaintance, who sat opposite. What more could you say of your husband, or that beautiful child of yours, or even of your Redeemer, madam? Love

OUTWARD ADORNINGS. A New York correspondent of the Oswego Advertiser gives the following statement as illustrating to what extent of extravagance those who wish to maintain conspicu-ous positions in external show, are driving

"How much jewelry will good taste permit a lady to wear in public, is a question lately raised among the ladies of the beau monde, by one of their number appearing at the opera, bedecked with some $30,000 worth of jewelry. Her head was covered with dia monie, so that it looked like a cluster of stars, and it quenched into indistinguishable no-thingness the pretensions to toilets in its vicinity. Of course, such a thing has caused a good deal of talk among our fashionable ladies; and as the agitation will doubtless extend to the utmost bounds of womandom, I have taken pains, for the benefit of your lady readers, to glean some interesting information on jewelry in general from the proprietors of one of our largest jewelry establishments, and who may be considered good authority on such matters. They informed me that they sometimes sell jewelry worth $25,000. Such sales are rare. Sets worth $15,000. or $20,000. 000 or $20.000 are more frequently sold; while from $3.000 to $10,000 is often paid for a necklace, bracelet, breastpin and carjewelry, and some ladies' watches, for which the modest sum of $600 cuch was asked : also rings and breastpine, at the low price of

$1,500 each. * Gold card cases, set with dramonds, were to be had at $500; and beautiful things they THE subscriber having formed a co-partnership are for lovers to present to their sweethearts. Good examples are contagions nuono the additional contributions, received at this office yesterday, to be divided between the son and David Lewis are prepared to forward Ladies Fuel and Gurment Societies, was the liberal sum of $50, from the immates of one of the Boarding Houses in this city.

The Garment Society received an appropriate contribution yesterday, in the shape of a piece of flannel, from a mercan tile house in the city—which by the way was accompanied with a request that no name should be mentioned-which will doubtless cover the shivering limbs of a number of friendless children, who will bless with their whole hearts these who were thoughtful of their distress. This appropriate charity was most acceptably received, and we trust that this move may be followed up by others engaged in the same line of business. We would delight in having our office made a semi-dry goods shop at this time, and call upon the charitable hodies who dispense these offerings to bring into requisition the services of indigent females to make up the articles at once, so that they can be servicable at this inclement season. We are sure they will lorgive us for making the suggestion, as it is made only with the view of inducing them to be prompt and energetic in their benovelest purposes.

We also have been handed thirteen dollars, from 'a few inmates of the Pavillion Hotel," to be equally divided between the Ladus' Fuel and Garment Societies, the receipt of which we were requested to ack-

We have been requested to state that the lady at the South end of Church-street, nearthe Battery, received the bank bill enclosed in a note directed to her, and has applied the same according to her best discretion, in providing fuel and clothing for the destitute, at this inclement season. The liberal donor who has done good in this secret way, wil feel the luxury of doing a generous deed, while those who have parlaken of his charity, will bless the heart and the hand, that have ministered to their necessities. In our notice of yesterday, the donation of sixty two dollars to the Ladie's Fuel Society, the word "gentleman" should have read, gentlemen," Several having been contributors to make up the sum mentioned.
