ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER. DR. J. S. HOUGTON'S GREAT DYSPEPSIA CURER!

The True Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice Prepared from Rennet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a great Natural Remedy for Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, curing after Nature's own Method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice. Pepsin is the chief element, or Grent Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice-the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and, Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the On, thus forming an Artificial Digestive Fluid, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice, in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it. the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of in-digestion and Dyspepsia are removed just as they would be by a healthy Stomach. It is doing wonders for Dyspoptics, curing cases of debifity, emaciation, nervous decline and Dyspeptic consumption, supposed to be on the verge of the grave The Scientific Evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

Baron Leiebig, in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the Ox. in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, wil be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach." Half a teaspoonful of pure Persin, infused or dislved in water, will digest or dissolve Five Pounds Roast Beef in about two hours out of the Stom-

From Arthur's Home Go THE PUNCTUAL MAN.

BY JOHN JONES, IR.

Mr. Jestins was a practual man—a very proctual man. He was not only up to time in every thing; but, usually, a little in advance of time. Of such a thing as being too late for an engagement, so one ever knew him to be guilty. On the other land, Man, Jenkins had very little regard to the passing of time. Ask Mr. Jenkins what defect it was at any period of the day, and his answer promptly given, and without consulting his gold lever, would rarely very ten minutes from the real time. Ask Mrs. Jenkins the same question, and if she came within two hours of it, the fact would be remarkable.

'Now my dear, do hurry! We shall be too late.'

Never did Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins go upon a journey, or attend church or party. Without a dozen repetitions of this admonition, mildly urged in the beginning, but, in a nervous, impatient tone of voice, ere the lingering spouse deemed her person all in term for the spoose deemed her person all in true for the contemplated movement. In most eases, even with all the punctual husband's efforts to bring his wife up to time, but little ad vance was ever gained. Service had usually compensed, erg they reached the church on Sanday, notwithstanding Mr. Jenkins' nervous horror of disturbing, by antimely entrance, a worshipping assembly, and notwithstanding his weekly repetition of Now do, my dear, try and be ready in time to-day.

'Come dear!' said Mr. Jenkins, just as day began to dawn. Its time to get up.

for another nap. Come! rome! We shall be late."

Mr. Jenkins spoke now in a more carnest voice, for the first rays of the up isen sun were afreaming in at the chamber window. 'Plenty of time,' returned Mrs. Jenkins, showing no very strong inclination to rise.

Mr. Jenkins, who was up and partly dressed, now bethought himself of consulting his watch. When to his surprise he found that it was full an hour later than he had supposed it to be. "Come! come! said he, impatiently. 'It is nearly half-past six o'clock.

The breakfast scene, which finally ended so much to Mr. Jenkins' satisfaction, is worthy of a passing note.

Mr. Jenkins received his cup of coffee from the hand of his wife with a nervous jerk, and in bringing it down upon the table beside him, managed to spill one third of it over up-on the white cloth. Then, in putting his cup too engerly to his lips, he scalded his mouth. 'Here! give me some gream, I This coffee is as het as fire!' he exclaimed, as he haid-ed hack his cup

My office work of brenking an egg, and pouring out its contents, came next in order. Usually, Mr. Jenkins could perform this delicate operation, attending to business. In my absence, any communication left with Messrs. Whitaker of Whitfield, for me, will be handed to me.

I will attend as usual, to the sale of real estate; hiring servants; renting houses—or any other business in which an active agent is wanted.

At half past eight the carriage was to be at the door. The trunks were strapped, and Mr. Jenkins ready for the removal, some time before that period; and to Mrr. Jenkins' credit be it spoken, she was ready to the
