

not insisted on the absolute necessity of inculcating its principles and its precepts upon the minds of the young ? In what age, by what seet, where, when, by whom, has reli-gious with been excluded from the educaon of youth? Nowhere; never. Everywhere, and at all times, it has been, and is, regarded as essential. It is of the essence, the vitality, of useful instruction. From all this Mr. Girard dissents. His plan denies the necessity and the propriety of religious instruction as part of the education of the timents of Christian mankind, from all logue ; but there is another, a first commandment, and that is a precept of religion, and it is in subordination to this that the moral pro cepts of the Decalogue are proclaimed. This there is one, and only one, great First Cause, one, and only one, proper object of human rship. This is the great, the ever fresh. the overflowing fountain of all revealed truth. Without it, human life is a desert of no known termination on any side, but shut in on all sides by a dark and impenetrable horizon.--Without the light of this truth, man knows nothing of his origin, and nothing of his end. the Jews, with this great announcement and command . its head, what said the inspired lawgiver? that it should be kept from children? that it should be reserved as a communication fit only for mature age? Far, far otherwise. "And these words, which 1 children, and shall talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest thou riseth up."

There is an authority still more imposing and awful. When little children were brought into the presence of the Son of God, his disciples proposed to send them away; but he said, "Suffer little children to come unto me." Unto me; he did not send them first for lessons in morals to the schools of the Pharisees the precepts and lessons phylacteried on the garments of the Jewish priesthood; he said nothing of different creeds or clashing doctrines, but he opened at once to the youthful mind the everlasting fountain of living waters, the only source of eternal truths :--"Suffer little children to come unto me."-And that injunction is of perpetual obligation. It addresses itself to-day with the same carto me."

of the place, because the ordinary means not take place, because the ordinary means of observing it are excluded. I know that I shall be told here, also, that lay teachers would come in again; and I say again in re-ply, that, where the ordinary means of at-taining an end are excluded, the intention is to exclude the end itself. There can be no Sublicit in the intention of the second secon to exclude the end itself. There can be no re-Sabbath in this college, there can be no re-ligious observance of the Lord's day; for there are no means for attaining that end.— It will be said, that the children would be permitted to go out. There is nothing seen of this permission in Mr. Girard's will. And I say again, that it would be just as much opposed to Mr. Girard's whole scheme to al-low these children to go out and attend places low these children to go out and attend places would be to have ministers of religion to W. Brown, John Dawson, O. G. Parsley, and Thos of public worship on the Sabbath day, as it preach to them within the walls ; because, if H. Wright, Esqrs. they go out to hear preaching, they will hear just as much about religious controversies, and clashing doctrines, and more, than if apyouth. He dissents, not only from all the pointed preachers officiated in the college .-Hisobject, as he states, was to keep their a conviction, and from the results of minds free from all religious doctrines and crience, but he dissents also from still sects, and he would just as much defeat his higher authority, the word of God itself.- ends by sending them out as by having re-My learned friend has referred, with propri- ligious instruction within. They are far from their friends, they have no one to accompany them to any place of worship, no one to show them the right from first great commandment teaches man that the wrong course ; their minds must be kept clear from all bias on the subject, and they are just as familirom the ordinary observance of the Sabbath as if there were no Sabbath day at all. And where there is no observance of the Christian Sabbath, there will of course be no public worship of God.

And I would ask, would any Christian man consider it desirable for his orphan And when the Decalogue was delivered to children, after his death. to find refuge within this asylum, under all the circumstances and influences which will necessarily surround its inmates? Are there, or will there be, any Christiau parents who would desire that their children should be placed in this school, to be for twelve years exposed to the command thee this day shall be in thy heart. pernicious influences which must be brought And thou shall teach them diligently unto thy to bear on their minds ? Another important point involved in this ucation is, what becomes of the Christian Sabbath, in a school thus established ? I de not mean to say that this stands exactly on the same authority as the Christian religion, at I mean to say that the observance of the Sabbath is a part of Christianity in all its forms. All Christians admit the observance of the Sabbath. All admit that there is a Lord's day, although there may be a differ-ence in the bellef as to which is the right day to be observed.
