ELECTION RETURNS.

We have made arrangements to be regularly supplied with Telegraphic dispatches of the returns of the Presidential Election, till the result is known. We are, however, more anxious to give carred than we are to give early reports. The news of defeat will come soon enough to the discomfited party, and the announcement of victory

FROM CALIFORNIA. On our last page will be found some California news brought by the Georgia; also a report of the California Markets.

THE ELECTION.

It is admitted by all, that there was never an election day here that passed off more quietly and orderly than that of Tuesday last. It is true that real and animation pervaded the ranks of the different parties-but there was nothing calculated to excite personal hostility. This is the only way in which the doctrine of republican liberty can be truly maintained. While each one acts the part of an independent freeman, he awards, without repreach the same right to his neighbor. As we anticipated, some of the anti-Scott Whigs refrained from voting at all; others voted for Pierce and King, and some few put in votes for Fillmore.

LONG CREEK BRIDGE.

The Journal of Tuesday contains the proceedings of a meeting at Long Creek Bridge, held on aturday last, to which is attached the words .-"Commercial please copy." Our Long Creek neighbors know that we are willing to insert their communications, from the experience of the past, and we would not hesitate, generally, to comply with such a request from the Editors of the Journal-for from the position of the request, being appended to and not connected with the proceedings, we are left in doubt as to the party making the request. But the request comes too late. If any of our friends desired the appearance of the proceedings in this paper, they should have sent us a copy so that we could have published it in our last issue,

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The ceremony of erecting the first column of the Crystal Palace, in New York, came off on Saturday last. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested by a large number of persons who attended to witness the spectacle. Addresses were delivered by Governor Hant, Mr. Sedgwick and others.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Hon. EDWARD EVERETT, of Massachusetts has accepted the office of Secretary of State, ten dered to him by President FILLMORE. Of this anpointment the National Intelligencer says:

"There is a peculiar fitness, we think, in the appointment. Mr. Everett was the attached personal friend of the Statesman whose lamented death caused the vacancy in the Department, as well as an irreparable void amongst the great men of the world. To this recommendation, however, may be added the higher consideration of the eminent qualifications of Mr. Everett for the office. His public services at home and abroad, uniting experience and a thorough acquaintance with our foreign affairs to his fine abilities and regulated temper, render him a worthy successor to the honors and duties of the post."

PENNSYLVANIA COAL TRADE. The anthracite coal trade of Pennsylvania continues, and the tonnage last week was 93,639 tons The Ledger says :

"The Lehigh now lacks but about 150,000 tons from the 1,100,000 tons which the Company estimated as the season's business. About four week's uninterrupted trade will accomplish this. The Reading Railroad has brought down 1.501 145 tons, and the Schnylkill Navigation Company, 675 ... 755 tons. About six week's business will be ;equired, to reach 800 000 tons, the amount claim ed for the Canal for the season. The demand tor coal is fair, and prices are firm."

CEREMONIES AT MARSHFIELD. The Boston papers contain a long and interesting account of the melancholy ceremonies at Marshfield, on Friday last, attending the interment of the mortal remains of Daniel Webster. We cannot find space for the whole, but will make some extracts which cannot fail to be interesting

"Early on Friday morning the people began to approach, in long processions, the mansions, of the dead Secretary. Innumerable carriages, heavily freighted, which had tarried for the night in the neighboring villages, came up, one after another, to the avenue leading to Mr. Webster's house Those persons who arrived before nine o'clock vere permitted to view the body in the library where it had lain in state for several days before. But the crowd became so great after that hour and the desire to see the body so general, that it house. Here, beneath the shade of a silver-leafed popular of his own planting, were exposed for general gaze the dead majesty of the country.-The countenance of the great stateman was but n the past two years easily recognized his features. In order to accommodate all who wished to take a farewell look, the people arranged it, so that the people marched in procession by the body. For three hours a constant train was in motion,-and many a sad tear upon that bier was Instructive extract: "A mind like Mr. Webster's, active, thoughtful, penetrating, sed te, could not but meditate deeply on the condition of man below, and feel its responsibilities. He could not look on this by the recent increase in imports of produce, and mighty system.

The body was deposited in the tomb-a simple structure-over the door of which were the words DANIEL WEBSTER," engraved upon a marble slab. A Boston Editor remarks: "We have refrained from any attempt to describe the desolation of the immediate family of the peerless statesman. Mrs. Webster, who, after the expiration of the present adminisration, had contemplated many years of joy and peace with her distinguished purtner, at their home in Marshfield is now the sudden victim of extreme woe-her fond anticipations blasted. The buoyonet spirit of that manly son, which was never before bent, is now broken, and for the first time in his happy life is he made to drink deep, indeed, of the cup of sorrow. He also agreed to apologise for his past conduct as too hasty, and it was thought the whole difficulty would be amicably adjusted. The Powhattan sailed for Vera Cruz on the 28th, with Judge Couklin on board.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

The National Intelligencer of Monday contains another of those painful accidents arising from the incautions handling of fire arms, which we present to our readers in addition to the thousand warnings the public have had on the subject. through the Press. The accident took place on Friday evening last, on the ferry-boat plying at the Long Bridge. As Mr Charles G Wilcox a clerk in the Bureau of Subsistence, was returning from a shooting excursion, and in the act of paying his ferriage, his fowling-piece exploded, the load taking effect on the upper part of his head blowing off a portion of the crantum, and producing instant death. It is not known whether the hammer of the barrel which exploded was down upon the cap; it is thought not; but, under any circumstances, another lesson is added to the mournful series which teach the perit of allowing for a single instant the muzzle of a loaded gun to point in the direction of the person. A loaded gun carries death within itself, and that death is as ready for its owner as for any one clse if censeless care be pretermitted. A weakness is apt to: take possession of the mind long habitrated to s
