NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN SLAVERY. The Editor of the Tribane in alluding to the facts stated by our Correspondent, on the subject of Southern Slavery and Northern suffering, has the following:

But we beg leave to assure him that we have published a great many more and stronger facts than these to the same effect, and have given many more hours and columns to the consideration of the means of abolishing Northern than Southern Slavery, and probably incurred more obloquy and hostility in this field of philanthropic effort than the other. The worst feature of Northern Slavery he entirely overlooks—namely, that of uncer-tainty and deficiency of employment, even at the miserable wages he mentions. We have girls who work hard for a dollar per week (and board,) with men who can obtain but fifty cents per day, though the average of Northern wages is conside higher than these rates. Those who have work, even at such low rates of compensation can live; but the destitute, miseducated, unskill ed, inefficient man who would gladly work but can get no work—perhaps is unqualified to earn a decent livelihood even if he had work—is a sadder object of compassion; still more, the destitute, unemployed, unskilled woman.

The Tribune speaks boldly in regard to the wrongs and sufferings of Poverty in the Free States, and invites others to do the same.

But these accounts of want, degredation, vice and crime in the free States are all true; while the recitals of the wrongs and sufferings of the slave are mostly false. No party denies the horrible the Free States, and no one can deny but the "mo- country. ral and religious people" among whom these evils exist, cannot or will not reform the vicious or feed the starving.

But what sort of philanthropy and christianity is it, that would reduce the well-clothed, well-fed, and morally-instructed Slaves of the South to the level of that sink of moral depravity and bodily suffering in which the free population of New York. of the lowest class, wallow and engender?

There are between eleven and twelve hundred colored members of the Church to which we are attached in this town, and they are mostly slaves. and are well behaved and orderly, and make a better appearance in their Sunday costume, than most of the mediocre worshippers in Northern there are many who do not belong to any of the Churches that always appear in "good case"-some

And what would be the condition of our Bacie ty here, if all these people were free? The Tribune tells us that the chief obstacle in the way of habits of the needy" among the New Yorkers .-Well-Northern history admonishes us that such themselves; we have no warrant that the Southern freeman : in a worse condition they could not bew. must all admit that.

The Tribune says of the state of Society there: "We see it; we lament it; we try to improve it. and not without hope of ultimate success."

What is wanted ? Not benevolent and christian hearts -oh, no-there must be plenty of these hearts among a people so very zealous for moral form in southern society, that they commend a at to treason rebellion and murder, rather han the levely and leveable impulses and emotions of such hearts should not be gratified in their pi

Is money wanted? The remedy is before you Let the Northern people pay one balf as much per annum, in proportion to their means, as Son-Pianters do to Preachers for preaching the of to their Slaves-inculcating doctines that omote their happiness here and instil a hope of essedness hereafter—and the work is done. The Tribune has the following:

And if you find among our laws any that com done man to labor for another unrecompensed om childhood to old age, and give the idler the right to forbid the worker's learning to read, and thle the luxurious master to take the industrious worker's wife and children, and lash them corrupt them, or sell them to the highest bidder, we beg you not to spare the lash.

That part of the above paragraph which alludes must be judged by their fruits; they produce a greater amount of human happiness, than any others that can be devised, or any other polity in ring its sovereign pleasure. - The South intends that its existence shall be coeval with that Constitution-each State retaining the right to abolish it or not-and others to institute it or not .-Don't like this dectrine? 'The the doctrine of the Union, and must stand or fall with it.

Ax to that part which relates to the "luxurious cations, does not authorize such language. There are evils, we admit—but they are not com-mon. We heard, some time ago, that a Creditor in Boston kept the mother in jail for debt, in or-der to "corrupt" and accomplish his wicked de-signs upon her daughter—but we suppose such ings are not common there, beither.

NEW YORK ALDERMEN.

Rumors have for some months past implicated the character of the Aldermen of the city of New York. Two of the members of the Common Council have been indicted by the Grand Jury of the City and County of New York, for flagrant and corrupt mal-practices in the administration of their duties.

We copy the semarks of the Journal of Com merce on this subject, as follows:

"Such a development of corruption and fraud on the part of persons occupying positions of trust and honor, we venture to say has no parallel in the history of municipal corporations the world over In these cases of stupendous robbery, tlike the Fort Gansevoort sale, the investigation could not be prosecuted to a perfect devel opment of the details of the transactions, owing to the contumacy of witnesses, in which they were protected by the action of the Court. But the Grand Jury charge specific instances of corruption against Aldermen by name, and indictments were found on which they will doubtless be held

> MR. STUART'S LETTER. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR. Washington, February 25, 1853.

My DEAR S:R: I was surprised to learn last evening that I had been assailed in the House of Representatives yesterday, for a wrong alleged to have been committed by me, in regard to a youth named Collins, who is a clerk in the Pension office. As you were kind enough to contribute your aid in my defence, and as you are my tume diate representative. I beg leave to furnish you with a statement of the facts in the case, in the hope that you may be able to find a suitable opstate of affairs in New York and other places in portunity to present them to the House and the In the month of April, 1852, Mr. Collins, a clerk in the Pension office, died suddenly, leaving a widow and a number of children, and I was informed, in a state of great destitution. On the day of his death, and while his corpse still lay in his house, the Rev. F. S. Evans, who had been ministering to his wants during his illness, came to the Department, and, with great feeling, represented the distressed condition of the family. and begged me to appoint a son of the deceased clerk to fill his father's place. He represented him to be a boy about fifteen years of age, and candidly admitted that he was not competent to fill the position without assistance. But he informed me that, to obviate the difficulty, he with Congregations. Being reform "is the thoughtlessnes, the idle and vicious thus assured that the public interests would not suffer by the arrangement, I agreed to appoint the boy to his father's office. In regard to the would be the condition of our Slaves, if left to fur her details I knew nothing, as the parties were all strangers to me, and up to the present Slave would be much better off than the Northern hour I do not know that I have ever seen one of them. I heard no complaint from any quarter and had flattered myself that I had done a commendable act in saving a family from want, and putting a meritorious boy in the path of promotion. But in the month of September last Co. Gentry called at the Department and made some complaint on the subject to the chief clerk who addressed a letter to the Commissioner of Pensions asking an explanation of the facts.

Mr. Gentry has fallen into several errors of fact. The boy was not represented to me as sixteen years of age, but about fifteen, and, so far from being a competent clerk, he could not perform the most simple duties of the station without aid .-I had nothing to do with the negotiation of the arrangement, and certainly did nothing to require that it should be entered into. It was a family arrangement, voluntarily agreed upon by the parties interested, before I was consulted. I presume I should have known nothing about it but for the fact that it was necessary to give me some satisfactory reason for appointing a boy of such to the laws, &c. must be answered by asserting tender years, and who was acknowledged not to two facts. 1st. The taws and their operations be competent, without aid, to discharge the duties of the office.

Without some such satisfactory assurance as was afforded by the engagement of Mr Kane, I operation, North or South. 2d. The Institution certainly would not have appointed young Collins of Slavery is a right incorporated in the Federal for I would not have felt justified in following the Constitution, and each State will continue it du-dictates of humanity at the expense of the public service. When Col. Gentry called on me officially to annul this private contract between these parties I declined to do so. The family had procured the appointment of young Collins in consequence of the arrangement with Mr. Kane, and I thought that they had no right to call on me to aid them in repudiating their contract. Kane had master," do we can say that our experience of been their benefactor. I herewith submit also a statement from Rev.

The train went up as far as the 'Prairie," or Reston's flower garden. returning in good season. Every body was pleased with the trip, and with the car especially. The Texas (a passenger car of the first class) was made at the Company's work shops, and in all respects compures favorably with those of Northern manufacture. Indeed there is no perceptible difference whether in the internal arrangement or external appearance. Most easy and comfortable seamirrors, and with all the latest appliances of comfort. The painting is well done, some of the scenes represented being happily executed. The whole work reflects much credit on the builder Mr. J. H. Wilight, and his assistants, and proves that we can make just as good cars here as at the North It always affords us pleasure to re cord the success of our home industry.

The floor of the car was of our native pine smnothly varnished. When prepared in this way it is a ten tiful wood eachan !some as carled maple which it sometimes strongly resembles. We are surprised that our people do not of ener finish houses with this material, so cheap, lasting and convenient as it is. Perhaps it is not fashionable because it is so near home. We must get fashionable mean wood from abroad. The elegant residences of Jno. A. Taylor and H. Nutt, Esq's. in town, are finished with the pine, and we leave it to the personal observation of visiters whether our commendation of the wood is horne-out by truth and taste or no .- Herald of yesterday.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Boston, Feb. 27 .- A dispatch from Halifax states that the regular session of the New Brunswick Legislature has been opened by a speech from the Governor, at Frederickton. In relation to the Fishery question, he stated that the Provincial Government had not been unmindful of the importance of the fisheries and Free trade with the United States, or of the interests of the people. In the pending state of the negotiations, it was, however, impossible to give any detailed information at present. The Governor expressed himself happy in being able to state that the prosperity of the Province of New Brunswick was one of the main subjects the Queen has in view; and in any adjustment of the Fishery Question, the interests of New Brunswick will be carefully

The Provincial Secretary also presented a des patch from the Colonial Office, in reply to the Halifax address upon the Fishery question, and it was moved that an address be sent by the next steamer, deprecating any treaty in relation to the fisheries in which Nova Scotia was not a party,-This passed unanimously.
