we leave "all the world and the rest of mankind "If science were so far advanced as to lead to the to decide."

"The question of interest to us is, in what attitude will Austria stand when she comes forward to demand reparation for the conduct of Captain Ingraham? Surely, she must expect her own proceedings in kidnapping Kossta upon Turkish ter-ritory, in violation of the laws of Turkey, by which he had placed himself under American protection, to be severely scrutinized. With what grace could the court of Vienna claim reparation in view of the fact that the force used by Captain Ingraham was the result of the lawless violence of the Austrian consul in kidnapping a man who was under the protection of the flag that floated over Capt. Ingraham's vessel? Of course we cannot anticipate the course of our government in such a case when the actual circumstances are so imperfectly known; but, taking it for granted amount $4,655. that Kossta was arrested by violence on neutral territory, and whilst under American protection. we cannot see upon what principle it can be objected that Capt. Ingraham should interpose to prevent the consummation of the outrage. maintain, that as the commander of the St. Louis. he was not only authorized to resort to "amicable interposition." but that it was his duty to his government to exert just us much power as was no cessary to arrest the Austrian outrage and prevent its con summation.

Of what avail would his "amicable interposition" have been? Kossta was set upon by a band of lawless ruffians employed by the Austrian consul; he was overpowered, put in chains, and carried to the Austrian vessel, to be conveyed to Horse expresses were immediately sent off to the Austrian dungeons. Captain Ingraham was put in command of the American vessel and intrusted with the sacred duty of guarding American citizens, and those enjoying the right of American protection, against such outrages. What was his duty in the premises? We have no hesitation in saying that it was his duty to use all the force necessary to protect Kossta; and we unhesitatingly declare it as our opinion, that if he had poured a broadside into the Austrian brig and snuk her to the bottom, that, in view of the outrage perpetrated by the Austrian consul in kidnapping Kossta the world would have regarded it as as act justifiable under the circumstances. Captain Ingraham, however, determined to try a less degree of force, and for his forbearance we are now notified that Austria may demand reparation.

Resting our opinions upon the facts as detailed by the London Times, and as they appear in the published correspondence, we think the circumstances anthorize us to give an entirely fa vorable construction to the proceedings of Capt. Ingraham." We do not see how he could have done less without incurring the risk of having been censured for want of prompiness and energy, and without producing the impression that the American flag does not furnish complete protection to American citizens against insult and outrage.

There is one point of view in which we look upon the affair as fortunate-it has occurred under circumstances which fix upon it the attention of the whole world. Captain Ingraham has displayed the true American spirit; he has shown that he comprehends the high responsibility that rests upon the commander of an American ship: he has shown that be properly appreciates the high privilege of being an American citizen. The moral effect of his example will tell well upon the American name; and we shall be greatly disappointed if the result does not prove, when Aus tria demands reparation, that our government will show its determination to maintain for our name an elevated standard in the estimation of the powers of Europe.

A FAMILY QUARREL.

There has been a quarrel in that very amiable and very pious crowd called the Abolitionists .-The Freesoilers and Garrisonians made great preparations for the celebration of the West India Emancipation, last week, at South Framingham, Mass. Instead of saying or doing any thing that had special reference to emancipation, they gave themselves up to the most bitter, uncharitable and disgraceful crimination of each other, and broke up in a row. They told the truth about each other, and that was what stuck in their several gizzards.

At 41 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, the 2 o clock P. M. train from Philadelphia and the 2 o'clock P. M. train from New York, while coming round a curve, at or near Old Bridge, on the Cam den and Amboy railroad, came into a terrible head and head collision, whereby some four or five persons were instantly killed, and a large number wounded-some of them, it is feared, fatally .and locomotives and cars were immediately dis patched to the terrible scene. The scene is des cribed as baffling all description, but the absence of all scresming and unnecessary noise was most remarkable. The details are given in the statement of two reliable gentlemen.

The names of the killed could no be ascertained; but, so far as we can learn, there were two men, one woman and a child killed. One of the men appeared to be a foreigner. The two trains took away such of the wounded as could be easily removed. The remainder were left at Old Bridge in the care of medical attendants from Amboy and other places. The conductors of the two trains which came into collision were arrested, as we learn from the statement made by the captain of the steamboat John Potter.
