THE STRANGE VISITANT.

A FEARFUL CASE OF DELIKIUM TREMENS BY-DH. J. E. SNODGHASS.

The inmates of one of the beautiful residences near Ploomingdale village, a new suburb, were surprised, one morning, at a rather unseasomable hour, by a call' of a very extraordinary nature which would unquestionably have created a deal of terro . in the also nee of the gentleman of the house at the moment, but for my accidental pres once as a guest of the house. It was made in the person of a man who had evidently come forth from a pretty passable trilette which, however, had seemed to have proven of fittle present avail. He was tall and gannt in figure ; his whole countenance wore he lineaments of excitement, intense and monoutrollable; his eyes glaring and unsteniv ; his facial mustbe twitching, no if almost ready to start from their tendonous attachthickly coated with mud and sand, not yet this vend. Ex. dried; his pants and even his vest, neckcloth. Fi Fa. and collar, having partaken of the same mis fortune. On his mose was a bruise, which

With faltering, stammering tongue, and fragmentary, incoherent speech, he called for water. Water; a drink of water! I'm famish-

appeared to have been produced by a recent ing with thirst! Water, if you please! There was no water near. But, turning from the ball to the breakfast table. I seized a patcher of milk, as a good substitute. He gulped it down eagerly, yet with hand quiv ering like an aspen teal.

. What in the world's the matter, man? why so muddy?' I asked, experiencing some difficulty in commanding my own reasonof en tried though it had been-because of the disconcerting effect upon terrified persons around me.

"Matter! matter!" he answered, with wildest. nervous accents. Temble calamity, eir! An earthquake in the city; one-half the city destroyed; gone! gone! sir; destroved; swallowed up, sir!

How, how. good man? · Do tell us,' interposed a stander-by. By a comet; a comet, sir!

'You're jesting, man,' I replied; how could a comes do that ?" No jest, air! It's done, sir; the whole of Long Island is in the sea-sea-deep sea, sir; people all drowned, amid screams terbreath. 'I fell down,' he continued. 'And see, see!' looking up at the telegraphic wire along Eighty-Sixth Street; they are telegraphing the news to the moon! Listen; there, hear that!' turning his car toward the Har lem railroad; 'it's rumbling still! O. me; I feel the earth quaking under me! The comet is here; here, it's following me! See it! fixing his glaring eyes upon a tattered kite, which some urchin had left upon the wife, which some urchin had left upon the people. This was all that the inventor desired is! I livel the earth quiver! We're in the exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm rarthquake! The sun is whired to the west; And he trembled and quaked, poor fellow, and stared wildly, almost demonically,

His hand rested accidentally upon a sheepskin door rug, hanging on the porch balus trade. A slight rattle struck my own ear. He started back, exclaiming, 'Don' you hear the rumbling? And see these figures: " head of Queen Victoria; a serpent; a demon! See see, see!' [They were some soil-spots on the flesh side of the sheep-skin.

Come here, sir; look between those roll ing billows, the brieze stirred shrubbery. and see that dog-fish! The sea has been turned up-life down, and the dog-fish is being thrown ashore. We'll have all the water here in a moment. We'll all be gone ! gone

I listened to this, and much more. Some one of the children suggested that perhaps it was true; that the papers had told of the excavations and extensions at the Battery, and that, may be the lower part of the cay had slid into the water, and the people re ceived a Sodom-like late! · Where did you sleep last night?' I inqui

'In town, sir; town, sir; run all the way here air !"

What's your name?' Voorbies, sir."

· Where do you live?' 'I did live at Mr. Stevens', corner of South Street and Peck-slip; a loftging-house .-But it, too, is gone, sir; gone! swallowed up; all the boarders drowned!'

Indeed! But how could they have been all drowned, and you here!" Not disconcerted in the least, he replied -1 run sir; run for my life! And there! there! O. see! see! it's after me again!' And he started for the road, as if a deer pursued by a whole pack of hounds, to re-enact the same scene, and tell the same wild.

incoherent tale eleewhere no doubt. Do you catch the cause of the man's frenzy, reader? It not ask those who have suftered, before him, the horrors; the indescribuble horrors of delirium tremens, or mania a-portu; commonly called the man with the poker. That was the cause of his strange and startling imaginings; chimeras of the time; ay, and rained hopelessly, and speeds brain deranged, shattered, ruined for the ly terminating in death! terrific death! if relie! does not come through sleep, which Dr. Dix in his aprily styled the repose of the mind? Let us hope that he has procured sleep ere this; and in the mean time let the Gothamiles congratulate themselves that they have been swallowed up by only an imaginary earthquake.

Sequel. I communicated the startling facts of the foregoing sketch-for it is faithtal to every symptom of the awful case it describes, showing how true it is that facts are frequently "stranger than fiction"-to a friend connected with the New York National Democ at in which they were published on the day after the occurrence. But, not feeling satisfied without some inquiry as to the reality and identity of the persons designated by name, and anxious to learn the fate. or the rum manine, it possible, I proceeded to the corner of South street and Peck shp. where I found-contrary somewhat to my anticipation in view of the mental delusioncommon to delirium-that the reference, as well as the memes, was correct; and, for ther that I had been advertising not only a lodging house.' but a drinking house also! I inquired for Mr. Voorbies, and learness that he had recovered, partially, from an attack to which he was not, alus! a stranger, It seems he had walked, if not "run all thway." as he asserted-about six miles !- from an imaginary earthquake. One of the bar-keepers had read the account is the morning paper, but another had not. The latter proceeded to read it in m. presence; and, as he read, he hughed un very victim of his own death-dealing business' for such was a part at least, without Joulit, poor Voorhies, "the Strange Visitant." New York Sept., 1853.

Bounded by no geographical lines, the reputation of BARRY's TRICOPHEROUS pervades the Union. The sales of this article of oute years have increased in a ratio that almost exeeds belief. Professor BARRy, after a careful x amination of his sales' book, finds that the number of bottles delivered to order, in quantities of from naif a gross apward, during the year 1852, was withn a triffe of 950,000. It is unnecessary to present at length the evidences of the wonderful properties of the Tricopherous. ment as this. The cheapners of the article and the explanations given of its chemical action upon the hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritaion, first recommended it to the attention of th adies would not be without it. Country dealers very centre of the shock and whirl of the in every section of the United States found the must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale rade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards aricles of this kind. SURGICAL INSTITUTE, No. 16 SOUTH PREDERICE STREET, BALTIMONE, MARYLAND. DR. SMITH has for many years devoted his whole a rention to the treatment of Private Complaints, in all their varied and complicated forms. this great success in those long standing and diffi-cult cases, such as were formerly considered incurable, is sufficient to commend him to the public as worthy of the extensive patronage he has received. Within the last eight years, Dr. S. has freated more than 29,500 cases of Private Completers, in their different forms and stages; a practice which no doubt exceeds that of all other physicians now advertising in Baltimore, and not a single case is known where his directions were strictly followed and medicines taken at reasonable tiere, without effecting a radical and permanent cure; therefore persons afflicted with diseases of the above nature, no matter how difficult or long standing the case may be," would do well to call on Dr. Smith, at his office. No. 16. South Frederick St. and if not effectually residued no remuneration will be required for his services. His medicines are tree from Mercury and all mineral poisons; put up in a nest and com pact form, and may be taken in a public or private
