WOMAN BEATING IN ENGLAND. The severity of Lord Palmerston's new law for the punishment of aggravated assaults does not seem to have operated as a check upon the propensity of the lower classes of him !"-Knickerbocker. London to bent their wives. It would nideed seem time that some medical inquiry into the circumstances should be instituted, and that look into the causes of these sickening phenomena. Between Nov. 1 and 19 no less than sixteen assaults of the worst character have been brought to light. The four latest came before the Courts on Monday.

The worst of the new cases was that of William Curtis, a tailor, living in the unhealthy locality of New court Gravel lane. The story; as told by his wife and a policeman who interterred, is very striking.

Emma Curtis said-On Sunday morning, between three and four o'clock, he made me go to bed stack naked, and he ripped up my stays with a penknile, took the bone out of it, and beat me on the body with the bone until it broke into three pieces. He was quite sober, and so was I, for I never drink .--He had been out, and I was ufraid to go to bed till he came home. After he had broken FiFa. the bone he beat me with my hair brush. He then dragged me out of bed, made me make the bed three times, tried to strangle me with his hands, and with the large square cut stick the policeman now holds in his hand struck me several times. I did not call out. for he said if I did he would dance upon my body. After having beaten me severely, he went down stairs and to the bottom of the court, but he immediately returned and began beating me again with the stick, and then the officers came into the room.

The Lord Mayor-How often has this occurred ?

Mrs. Curtis-Ever since we were married in January last A month ago he gave me two black eyes, and he has frequently used that stick upon me. He has also thrown boi ling hot water from the tea-pot upon me. 1 am in the utmost danger, and I throw my life upon your lordship's hands, for I believe it is his intention to kill me.

Policeman No. 28 .- I was informed that a man had locked up his wife in the house No. 14. in New-court, and I wert there with an other officer, and upon listening in the pas sage I heard a noise of tremendous blows as if they were given with a kick upon the naked flish. I heard the prisoner say, 'll' yon halloo out. I'll dance your guts out.' I then broke open the door. The woman was naked or the bed, and the prisoner had his shirt sleeves tucked up, and was in the position of a person who had been inflicting blows. I immediately seized and dragged him away. He was perfectly sober at the t.m...

The Lord Mayor asked the complainant to what she ascribed this horrible treatment. The complainant said she had made an observation upon her husband's taking a young woman who had been working with them to a public house, and he was enraged at the liberty she took in doing to; but he was in the habit of knocking her about without the least provocation. Curtis said his wife was the persons most in fault. He received the full seatence of six months imprisonment. James Wright, another tailor. living in a similarly unhealthy locality-Goodman's fields-was charged with beating his wife. Ann Wright, his wife, said; Yesterday (Junday) he said he would be hung to murdering me, as the man that was sentence ed to be hung this morning would be hung He hit me twice on the head with the sleeve bourd, and cut open my skull in two placee. I bled very much. He also struck nie with his fist in the face, and continued to knock me about for three or four minutes. I called out for assistance, and people came, and 1 went to a doctor to have my head dressed .--I have been married to the prisoner three years, and he has beaten me every month since I married him. The Lord Mayor : Is there any cause for this conduct? Mrs. Wright: Drink is the cause my lord - I believe he matried me i a wrong name, and I have asked him to marry me in his right name. I have left him a month ago on account of it, and he said ha had already murdered one woman, and that I should be the next, and I have no doubt of the effect of his future violence, if I have no protection from your lordship. The policeman who took Wright into cus tody said that when going to the station house. Wright said he was a fool for letting me apprehend him; and swore that as soon as he should get over this, he would smush his wife's brains out. The Lord Mayor sentenced him to hard labor in Holloway Prison for six calendar months. James Crosby, 36, an ill-looking collier, residing at Pye-street. Westminister, was charg ed with assaulting his wife, who is at present an inmate of the London Hospital. It appeared from the evidence of a woman named Valentine, that on the previous evening. as the prisoner and his wife were passing through Cottage-row Comberland-road East he told her to make haste. She replied that she was going as quickly as she could, on which the prisoner took up his stick and gave her a dreadful blow across the face, which witness believed broke her nose. In a moment the poor woman was covered with CLOTHS CASSIMERES. VESTINGS, de blood, and the prisoner was given into custody. The injured woman appeared to be perfectly sober. Mr, Ya dley said it was a very bad case, and inflicted the full penalty of six months hard labor. ment as this. The cheapness of the article and the strength and vigor to thousands of the most ner explanations given of its chemical action upon the yous and debilitated, many of whom had lost all hair, the scalp, and in all cases of superficial irritation, first recommended it to the attention of the invigoration of the Nervous System, the whole This was all that the inventor desired people This was all that the inventor desired -Every bottle advertised itself The effects of the fluid exceeded expectation. It acted like a charm. The indies would not be without it. Country dealers in every section of the United States found they must have it; and thus was built up a wholesale trade of an extent hitherto unheard of as regards articles of this kind. The highest point has not yet been reached, and it is believed that the sales this year will be a million and a half of bottles
