WILMINGTON, N. C.:

WAR SPECULATIONS.

Many of the papers are speculating about a war with Great Britain, and are invoking the General Government to get ready as fast as possible-arm, arm, is the word. This partakes of the blustering for which we have become not a little famous. The claim now raised is because Lord Clarendon had declared that belligerent property in neutral know that this is contrary the law of nations, and that neither our America, nor any independent nation on earth, will permit a neutral power to feed and strengthen its enemy? The thing is followed up, too, through various gradations. The supposition is put forth that the Berlin and Milan Decrees, the orders in Council, the searching of American vessels and pressing seamen therefrom, will be perpetrated, and are hauled up to the mental vision as things of great monstrosity. These bugbears answer the purpose of giving wordy writers an opportunity of showing how well they can write and speculate upon facts that were and abstractions that are.

that may be wanted on some other occasion.

New York Herald of Thursday last, as follows: The United States cannot, under any circumstances, permit any foreign power to exercise the right of search upon American vessels; nor can are submit to the scizure of our ships engaged in lawful commerce, without regarding the act as an setual commencement of hostility against oursel- combatants-they fight like sheep, of course.

No other people, probably, have suffered as wuch from intolerance, first and last, as the Jews, is not strange therefore that they should sympathize deeply with the movement now in progress, for the protection of the religious rights of our citizens in foreign countries-rights which are so abundantly conceded to the citizens of foreign countries when temporarily residing in the United

MORE OF THE TRUSTEESHIP. All the world knows that the public lands are neld in sacred deposit, in the hands of the Federal Government, for the good of the people. How the Trustees have managed this matter is shown from day to day. While they squander immense quantities on the new States, for electioneering purposes, they deny the right of the old States to an aere of it, or any of the proceeds of their

Our aftention is again drawn to this subject from the Report of the Committee on the Bill to grant lands to the several States for the benefit of the insane. That Report takes the ground that Congress has no authority to dispose of the public lands for that purpose. Indeed! So Congress finds authority to dispose of millions of acres for political and partizan purposes-but when the claims of justice or humanity are instituted, the members of Congress are seized with violent constitutional spasms. They can find nerve and asked to do right.

The National Intelligencer says on this subject : How admirable is our frame of Government. vessels should be considered lawful prizes. Do the Editors nation of the Old World, and yet make it unconstitutional to grant any portion of the same for the support and comfort of the most forlorn and destitute of our own kindred and countrymen!"

> We suppose the Editors allude to the bill establishing the Domicil. We have no objection to the members doing wrong in that case, if it be wrong, if they would do right in some others. They have done wrong continually and it is their vocation to do so- but we would be thankful if they would do right for once-just for one time-but they had an opportunity and let it slip.
