FATAL RIOT AT SAGINAW.

Saginaw on the 17th inst. It originated in some 300 armed men attempting to burn the jail at that place and rescue the prisoners. The sheriff and others interfered to put down the riot, and in doing this the sheriff was killed. A large number of the rioters have been arrested and bound over to await an examination. Twenty-five of the rioters were arrested. One of the prisoners was retaken and the other four are concealed in a swamp, which was surrounded by 250 armed men.

AN ARTFUL YOUNG THIEF.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.-Yesterday morning, a very intelligent lad; but his course of life has dwell upon only one at this time. been that of a wandering, pilfering vagabondsometimes with a pocket full of ill-gotten money, and at others with neither shelter nor food. It is highly probable that he is from South America. In his memorandum book was found a list of all the consuls for South American States at this port. Mayor Howell bound him over for a further hearing. Officer Wall is actively engaged in ferretting out the scenes of Moore's other operations in this city, but in consequence of the absence of sufficient clues, the task will be difficult. Alwharf rats, the thief appears to have devoted considerable attention to the investigation of the commission houses along Delaware avenue; and in this connection, we may remark that in no section of Philadelphia is an active; vigilant police more wanted than on that avenue.

SUICIDE BY HANGING

BALTIMORE, April 24.- The community in the vicinity of the Camden street railroad depot was hearing that a man, named Frederick Ahlsager. residing on Eutaw street near Dover, had committed suicide by hanging himself. It appears that the unfortunate deceased, who had attained the age of about 55 years, and was a native of Germany, was mis ing on the day previous, and was not discovered until noon on the following day. A door leading to a little room in an old back building of his house was broken open as a final search, and his lifeless body was discovered hanging by the neck, his feet touching the ground and austaining a part of the weight. Immediateite, and but a few inches from him, was the family Bible, lying opened. On the upper margin was an inscription in the German language, margin was an inscription in the German language, whilst the words "God is just" appeared in Eng-lish. Mr. David Whitson immediately cut down the body, and measures at first were taken to reits, but the deed had been committed too efficiently for homan exertions to avail. The deceased has left a wife and children. For many years he was a dealer in cheese in the Legington market, and up to the time of his death kept a mail grocery state in the house near which he committed the rash net. He had placed a log of Ms. EDITOR :- We shall now close our statement of the efforts that have been made to secure a U. S. Marine Hospital for Wilmington, and enday, between a part of the guard and citizens, is deavor to show hereafter the insufficiency of the provision for sick seamen even where such a Hospital is established, and our need especially of the aid of individuals and the State to enable us to establish such institutions as are adequate to the wants of seamen. The Memorial to Congress of the citizens of Wilmington in 1862 states, "that not only are they destitute now of a Hospital, but THE INDIGENT AND INSANE.

But we have no such institution, and the arrangements by the Government of the United States for the sick and profusion, thus effectually and literally strewing disabled seamen of the port of Wilmington have always been such as would be a foul reproach to any government upon the face of the earth. The Commissioners of Navigation and Pilotage during Buffalo, April 22.—The Michigan papers conwhich sick mariners of the United States, who are so unifortunate as to be afflicted with contagions or infectious diseases, labor for the want of a suitable place for their accommodation. They call attention to the following circumstances which have transpired within the past tweive months. It was during the never to be forgotten postilential summer of 1853, even white the perpetual toll of the death bell was rolling over our land, and proclaiming in saddening tones the seenes of desolation and woe in the ill fated cities of the South, that the astounding intelligence that a floating Lazaretto, freighted with the terrible scourge, was moving on towards us like an angel of destruction. It was at such a juncture, and moved by the remembrance of the soul harrowing scenes of the same plague among us in 1821, and though not a member properly of the class of the frightful tales of mortality, that day after day were pouring in upon us, with a sense of the exposed and perfectly defenceless position is which we are left by the Government, and the necessity for prompt and vigorous measures for the protection of the community, that some among us, under the excitement of the moment, were in favor of allowing that doomed vessel to be "towed to sea," and there seek for that relief which was denied her by the Government. And we will suppose that the mandate has gone forth, and not a little excited on Saturday afternoon upon that noble vessel with our fellow countrymen. diseased, and dying is to be moved far from a Harbor of refuge, and turned a drift on the storm rocked sea, and far, far away from the sympathics of life, the companionship of the kind and good, and the ministrations of home, and with no angel of mercy in human form to whom they can give the last sad message for loved ones, one by one they die, until all are dead, and in that floating sepulchre of corruption and death, they at last sink to the depths of the sea. Such might have been the reality, but the act was not done Other measures were adopted. But yet there is a most fearful significance in that state of feeling and it speaks in thunder tones, to arouse us to a realization of our condition, and foreshadows some of the consequences which may yet result from the absence of institutious to shield ourselves and the sons of the sea, from the 'Pentilence that walketh in darkness and the destruction that

(from the English revolution in 1688, to the downfall of Napoleon in 1815.) of two thousand and twenty-three millions of pounds sterling. M. de Pradt estimates the loss of life by the French forces in the six campaigns of the Peninsula war, (Spain and Portugal) at six hundred housand men. The loss sustained by the Spanjards and their allies was probably as great, making the total destruction of human beings in the Peninsular war alone, about one million two hundred thousand

Arrest of a Female Store Thiet-The Property Found in her Posse sion. NEW YORK, April 23 .- On Friday, Sergeant De Voe, of the R. C., arrested a young German weman calling herself Mary Bride, alias Beathe, charged with stealing one piece of white silk valued at $38; one piece of black_silk worth $50; and two pieces of ribbon, valued at $6-in all, $94-from the dry goods store of Berly & Co., No. 296 Broadway. It seems that the accused entered the store and asked to be shown some silks; she purchased one piece, and by some means, her actions caused suspicion and the clerk noticing her secreting a piece of silk under her dress, she was detaine I, and the officer sent for, who, on searching her dress, discovered that she had a long opening cut through all her clothing, which formed on easy access to a large pocket-or bag, it might be called; this bag was slung around her waist with a piece of thick string. It was in this bag that the two pieces of silk and ribbon were found. On searching further about her clothing, a wallet containing $130 was discovered, fastened in one of her under garments. on or between her-shoulders. In addition to this a small portemonasie was found in her pocket, containing a few shillings. It is very evident, from her actions and the arrangement of a pocket under her dress, that she is an old offender at shoplifting. She declined to let the officer know where she resided. In her pocket she had a brass door key and several trunk or chest keys. She was committed to prison to await her trial.

LATER FROM VENEZUELA PHILADELPRIA, April 24.—The barque Venezuela has arrived from Porto Cabello, with dates of the 9th On the 24th ultime the Venezuelean Congress abolished slavery throughout the Republic, and the bill became a law the same day by the signature of the President, who had previously freed all his own slaves. Indemnity to the planters was specified, but funds for that purpose had not been set apart. The number of slaves in the Republic, is about 10,000, the greater part of them being old. Their average value will not exceed $200, which gives a total of two million dollars. Elections come off in August, when Gon.
