tion was certainly a deep laid scheme. A party in the hotel to sanction the story one sick friend, the ticket for three, another party eight miles off stationed to carry out the design, the attraction of the watch; his apparent unacquaintedness with the city and appearance around, was well calculated to take a Southerner in, all alone in a place like New.York ; and this may benefit some poor green-horn like myself, by bringing him to the conclusion to tryst no one, unless he has been previously acquainted with him.

As an offset to the above, here is a relaion in The Baltimore Argus showing a verdancy hitherto unparalleled :

At an early hour on Saturday morning, bile a country dealer from Anne Arundle was standing in the market beside his wagon of country produce, a fashionably attired young man came up, entered into a conversation, in the course of which he remarked that he was agent of a hotel, and wished to purchase for the proprietor and use thereof several quarters of yeal, fifty dozen eggs, and some hundred pounds of butter. As the articles named constituted the country dealer's stock in trade, he began to eulogize them for excellent quality and unparalleled cheapness, and at length it was agreed that both should proceed together to the hotel, where the mooth-tongued sharper alleged that the proprietor would doubtless conclude the argain forthwith and pay the dealer for all the stock in solid gold and silver. Deighted with the idea, of disposing of his. goods on such prompt and advantageous terms, the countryman left his wagon in charge of Lis little son, and proceeded to meet the hotel-keeper without delay. In few moments afterward, as both were crossing Pratt-st. Bridge to the suppose place of destination, they were stopped by a slender youth, whose sdapy locks were intended to do, no doubt, though I made shaded by a white hat. He was a stranno remark, but noticed the difference in ger, he stated, just arrived in the city, with
