ARAB ODDITIES.

An Arab. entering a house, removes his shoes but not his hat. He mounts his milks their cows upon the left side. With him, the point of a pin is its head, whilst its head is made its heel. His head must be wrapped up warm, even in summer. while his feet may well enough go naked in winter. Every article of merchandize which is liquid he weighs, but measures wheat, barley, and a few other articles -He reads and writes from right to left, but figures are read from left to right. He cats almost nothing for breakfast; about as much for dinner, but after the work of the day is done, sits down to a hot meal swimming in oil, or, better yet, boiled butter .-His sons eat with him, but the females of od to get clear of them." the house wait till his lordship is done -He rides his donkey when travelling, his wife walking behind. He laughs at the idea of walking in the street with his wife, or of ever vacating his sent for a woman. He knows no use for chairs, tables, knives. or even spoons, unless they are wooden ores. Bedsteads, bureaus, and fire places may be put in the same category. If he be an artizan, he does his work sitting, perhaps using his toes to hold what his hands are engaged upon. Drinks cold water like a sponge, but never bathes in it, unless -is deficient in affection for his kindredhas little curiosity and no imitation-no wish to improve his mind-no desire to surround himself with the comforts of life.

FIRST SPEECH

'A young lawyer from the Green Mountain State, writes a friend from the 'far west' somewhat verdant himself, very tall. very light hair, very light eyes, somewhat poinpous, looking exceedingly dignified, as other animals do between large ears, came into our little village with the full intent of astonishing the natives' with his learning, his eloqunce, and the law! He soon formed a co-partnership with an old lawyer, one Jones, and came into court at once with a case in hand. The first case in which he and Jones were engaged, he was opposed by an 'old line' Illinois lawyer, in himself a genuine charcoal sketch! Jones opened the case before the jury, and our Vermont friend followed in a long speech well announced, and delivered with great accuracy and as he supposed, with astonishing effect It was rhetorical, lofty, in short magniloquent; when he closed hewiped his brow with a fine, lavendered pocket handkerchief, and looked about him with the air of an orator upon whose efforts the welfare of the world depended; and by whose efforts he felt conscious the world had beed saved. It was his maiden speech in our court and everybody listened with attention. The opposing counsel now a rose, very gravely, [he never smiles] and in a tone and manner which no words can convey, sail: 'I've knowed him a great many years, I can foller him, but this here Jones feller I aint a goin' to try to foller. Why, gentlemen of the jury, there aint no use in trying to foller him. He's soured alolt, he's burst the clouds, he's gone clear beyond the dog-star; clean into the third heavens, gentlemen, and I put it now to you, if he has touched the blessed airth one single time since he's been a speakin' his piece.' The house came down, of course, and the Jones feller vanished from the room, while the counsel went on in the same grave and almost upconscious vent of satire, and then to follerin' Jones.'

THE FOREIGN POPULATION. By the census of 1850 it appears that of the white population of the United States. then amounting to 19,553,058, there were born in foreign countries 2,250,535 persons, viz: males 1,239,434; females, 1,001,101. Those ascertained to have been born in the United States amounted to 17,279,375, and 32,658 were reported unknow as to their nativity. It thus appears that the proportion of natives to foreigners in 1850 was nearly eight to one in the whole United States. It should be observed that since the census of 1850 was taken the foreign population has largely increased by immigration, amounting to over one million in all; so that the number of persons of foreign birth now in the United States may be stated at about three and a half millions. The proportion of Germans among the recent immigrants has been very great.

THE ANTI SLAVERY COLLEGE The Rev. Professor Goodrich, of Yale Cillege, declares that the members of the Faculty of that Institution are a unit in opposition to slavery. He takes occasion, too, to inform the South that Yale cares nothing for its patronage. It is evident, from the tone employed by this fanatic, that any Southern man who sends his son to Yale College, will be subjecting him to influences that must infallibly render him a Southern man with Northern principles. Yale is now a hot bed of abolitionism, a nursery of fanaticism. The Professors are all apolition propagandists, and employ the power which their positions confer in making their pupils as throughly anti-slavery No transfer of contracts for yearly advertising as themselves. In view of this fact, will be permitted. Should circumstances render Southern men bereafter send their children a change in business, or an unexpected removate Souteern men hereafter send their children BEDSTEADS CHAIRS, MATTRESSES, &c. &c. necessary, a charge according to the published to Yale? In the language of Professor terms will be at the option of the contractor, for the time he has advertised.

The privilege of Annual Advertisers is strictly you withdraw your parronage from Yale,

A MYSTERY EXPLAINED. The unfortunate Allison and his wife, who were recently killed by an infernal machine at Cincinnati, stated in their dying moments that they suspected William P. Connelly, of Philadelphia, to have been other persons. These are excluded by the term their murderer. It was soon afterwards "immediate business"

All advertisements inserted in the tri-weekly discovered, however, that the guilty person is a student business. is a student, known as Dr. Arrison, who effected his escape from Cincinnati, and has not yet been arrested. The following paragraph, copied from the Cincinnati Sazette, disclosed the reason why the Allisons suspected Connelly: 'Mayor Snellbaker received a letter from

Wm. P. Connelly, of Philadlphia, explaining his intimacy with the Allisons, and deeply lamenting that they should have suspected him of sending to them the box containing the bomb-shell. Mr. C. confesses that in former years he had been guilty of certain burglaries, of which Allihorse upon the right side, while his wife son and wife and others were cognizant that when in the city a few weeks since Allison requested Co nelly to make him a present of a watch, as he needed one in the nospital. When Connelly returned to New York he sent the watch to Allison. The latter then addressed a letter to Connelly requesting him to send a present to Mrs. Allison, which Connelly neglected doing Connelly is of the opinion that when the Allisons received the box they supposed it to contain the present from him to Mrs. A., and the explosion led them to believe that Connelly sent it fearing they might inform on him, and that he took this meth-

Such suffersend you the following statement in regard to my son. In the spring of 1848 he took a severe cold and after eight weeks of severe suffering the dis-ease settled in his left leg and foot, which soon swelled to the atmost. The swelling was lanced by his physician, and discharged most profusely: after that no less than eleven ulcers formed on the reg and foot at on time. We had five different Phy-sicians, but none relieved blint much; and the last winter found him so emaciated and low that he was ting pain. During this time the bone had become so much affected that piece after piece came out, or which he has now more than twenty-five preserved in a bottle, varying from one half to one and a half inches in length. We had given up all hopes of his recovery, but at this time we were induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and with its use his health and appetite began immediately to improve, and so rapd was the change that less than a dozen bottles el-

The ferry boat and life-boats went lown as far as Governor's Island-the tide going out at the time. They saw no signs of the body, but a coat, which willout doubt, belonged to the deceased, was picked up. It may be seen at the Fulton Ferin one of the pockets of the coat. It was addressed to a lady in Galway, Ireland.— He was described as a large and well dressed man. Some are of the opinion that the coat recovered was an overcoat which he carried on his arm when he jumped overboard. The Captain of the Fulton, ivertised by Apothecaries and Dangeissas a cer- however, thinks that he had this coat on the water - 16

STRANGE SUICIDE.

A few days ago some boatmen took out of the Seine, at Paris, the body of an elegantly-dressed and very handsome young female. There was found fastened round her neck with a ribbon, and carefully wrapped up in a piece of oiled cloth, the following writing: - I belong to a highly respectable family. I was five years of age when I lost my mother, and I am now twenty. Not being able to live alone, and wishing besides, to have some one to take care of me, my father married again, and of the root are concentrated in their utmost I had a sister. From that time my mothand doubtless presuming that I should one my father, wor over by her misrepresentations, withdrew his affection from me. nardon him as well as the woman from whom I have suffered so much. I wish by these few lines to make known the causes of my death, in order that they may serve as a warning to fathers who, by a second marriage, give a moings as mine are not, unfortunately, of rare occurrence in families. (Signed)

EFFECT OF POLYGAMY UPON POPULATION. "The effect upon population is decided ly deleterious. The prophet Joseph had over forty wives at Nauvoo, and the rest of the priesthood had various numbers. corresponding to their standing and inchnations, and nearly all the children of hese polygamous marriages died at that place; indeed, it is alleged by Mormons hat not one was taken to Utah Brigham Young has thirty children, of whom eight are by his first and second lawful wives; the remaining twenty two are by his spirituals He has about fifty wives. some of whom were widows of Joseph Smith, and are probably past the time of having children; but, supposing him to have thirty who are capable of having istwenty-two children would be less than degraded females could have been the horored wife of one husband, the aggregate number of children, according to the usual average of four in a family, would towed in harbor by Steamer Same be one hundred and twenty, showing a loss in population of ninety-eight.

"The children are subject to a frightful degree of sickness and mortality- This is the combined result of the gross sensuali ty of the parents, and want of care toward | TUST received, a large assortment of English their offspring. As a general rule, these saintly pretenders take as little care of their wives as of their children; and of both, less than a careful farmer in the States would of his cattle; and no where out of "Five Points" in New York city can a more filthy, miserable, neglected-looking, and disorderly rabble of children be found than in the streets of Great Salt Lake City. A HUMAN CANDLE.

The Chinese Repository tells us a very singular story of the punishment inflicted on a Chinese crimnal. His offence it seems, was unpardonable, and it was determined to make an example of him. Consequentby another young man, who professed to ly he was wound round with cotton, satuhail from 'the country' also, they repaired | rated with tallow, and having been dipped together to French's Hotel to take a drink with the avowed intention of returning to tic candle, was stuck upon his father's the Museum, and visiting it. But the grave and lighted. Of course the fellow drink' re-arranged their programme, and perished in slow torture. Was ever device

TURNING GREY FROM FEAR AND REnorthin, that the hair of Weigert, found guilty of murder in the first degree, which was formerly black, has turned white since his conviction.

An English paper says that at a grand linner given to Mademoiselle Rachael, previous to her departure from St. Petersburg, a Russian officer proposed as a toast :-· To our meeting in Paris! where we shall drink champagne to the health of the great artiste." To which Mademoiselle Rachel replied: "Champagne is very dear, gentlemen-for prisoners."

WIVES WANTED. Marriageable girls are quick in the Minnesota market We quote from a letter in he Boston Daily Advertiser :

"Several leading and wealthy citizens of Saint Paul have married Indian squawsaboriginal ladies, perhaps I ought to say. These matches are caused less by romance than by the necessity of having a wife and the scarcity of white women. When there is an importation of the latter commodity from the East, it is eagerly seized. I heard of a gentleman from our part of the country who came out to settle with his three daughters. In two weeks l.e was alone, but his family was increased by the addition of two sons-in-laws.

He Wore a Plashy Walstonate He wore a flashy waistcoat, on the night when first we met, with a famous pair of whiskers, and, an imperial of jet. His air had all the haughtiness, his voice the manly tone, of a gentleman worth forty thousand dollars, all his own. I saw him but a moment, yet methinks I see him now, with a very flashy waiscot, and a beaver on his brow. And once again I saw that brow : no neat beaver was there, but a shocking bad 'un was his hat and matted was his bair. He had worn a brick within his hat, the change was all complete, and he was flanked by constables who marched him up he street. I saw him but a moment, methinks I see him now, charged by the worthy officers with kicking up a row.
