SONG.

" I know that he loves me." I know that he loves me-I could not live on, Though loved by a thousand, if his love were gone; But my soul with the thought bounds in rapture no more, For alas! though he loves me, 'tis not as of yore! When I think what he was, and see what he is

Tho' they say his is true as heart e'er was before,

Time was when he watch'd every glanco every

And made my emotions the guide of his own ; When he look'd fond alarm if I heaved but a sigh, And his cheek lost its rose when a tear dimmed nsy eye !

But now, if I weep, he just asks, why so and ? And says when I sorrow he cannot be glad; Oh! so calmly he speaks of the gloom of my His voice never falters-it only is kind.

Yet I know that he loves me-I feel there is none For complete list of gifts, and tall and explicit That he loves half as well, or could love were I

To think, tho' he loves me, 'tis not as of yore.

Oh! why does the rainbow so soon fleet away, And affection's fresh beauty so quickly decay !-Why must time from the spirit its summer glow

Why, as once we felt, can we not ever feel!

Though lovely the fall of mild evening may be, O! the light and the glory of morning for me! 'Twas a vision of bliss, but its brightness is o'er, And I weep that he loves me-ali! not as of yore! Were not the sinful Mary's tears, An offering worthy Heaven,-

When o'er the faults of former years,

She wept, and was forgiven ?

Which shone for God alone!

Thou that hast slept in Error's sleep,

Oh wouldst thou wake in beaven,

Her day of luxury stored,

When bringing every balmy sweet

She o'er ber Savior's hallowed feet · The precious perfume poured? And wiped them with that golden hair Where once the diamond shone -Though now those gems of grief were there

Like Mary kneel-like Mary weep-Love much "-ard be forgiven!

MISCELLANY

From the New York Temes. THE SEWING GIRL Hard Times came to the sewing girl when the rest of the working world thought Conch Grand Satter Harnes, Lady's Saddles, the times were easy. From immemorial Bridles Waips de Geatlemen's Saidles, Waips time she has wrought faithfully, and taken little money for it. But when business generally grows stagnant, and money becomes unusually scarce, the poor sewing girl ex-Franks, Vallses, Saddle and Carpet Bags, periences as sad a depression as if it were a reverse in her case also. It is, as we all which he offer low for CASH, or onshorteredit know, a tough time for her at best. She Saddles, Harness, Tranks, Redient Bags, &c. earn a pittance that will scarcely pay de In addition to the above the subscriberalways | cent board even though work never falls

This Fall, prices have gone down too .-On coats for the Southern market they are paid two shillings less than on the same garments last Fall, and a similar decrease affects wages for other articles of clothing. These changes for the worse come very hard upon the girls. Very many of them support widowed mothers and orphaned 59 Broad Street, Corner of Beaver, N. York, sisters and brothers. Their one needle is Offerfor sale the following heavy Cotton Fabrics: to earn not a living only for themselves but bread for a family, coal for the household, various widths of Canvass manufactured at this cs. | and to meet besides the monthly demands tablishment comprising every variety known to the trade, and offered at the lowest rates, UNITED STATES PHOTOUCK-Woodberry wrapped in their thin shawls daily in the se paid within ninery days after proof of the death and Mount Vernou Extra. Afull assertment of this streets looking as if their fruit bodies were of the party is furnished. poorly able to stem the tide of necessary expenses that will roll down upon any family, even the smallest, that attempts to winter in New York. Grappling with a hard world's trials daily, there must be a come ready to light upon his head, who, without good cause, deducts from their small wages, or with contemptible meanness throws a straw in the way of their making the little they can make as early as possible. But many merchants who employ them think it no dishonor to make them come three or four times to the shop for work which was promised them at the first call; and if with eyes sharpened by the prospect of gain, an uneven stitch can be found, they boast that they deduct largely from their wages. Shame on the fellows who behave so ungallantly. They fawn with disgusting obsequiousness to a pert miss who bears about her person the tokens of her extravagance in dress, but when those hard-working daughters of honest and ambitious toil are less to run up and down the streets, wasting time that is exceedingly precious to them, to get the jobs, heedlessly promised to be ready many days before they excuse themselves with the remark.
