MISCELLANY.

IRISH MARRIAGES.

(FROM MR. AND MRS. S. C. HALL'S IRELAND.) Amid the want so often attendant upon the young and thoughtless marriages of the Irish peasantry, it is wonderful to note how heart clings to heart Poverty, the most severe and prolonged, rarely creates disunion and still more rarely separation. The fidelity of the Irish wife is proverbial; she will endure labor, hunger, and even ill | Ans -Long-Acre. (Long Acher.) usage, to an almost incredible extent, rather than break the marriage vow; we have known cases in abundance. 'He beat me,' said a pretty weeping girl, not nineteen, who had married from the service of an old friend-'he beat me, ma'am, long ago; but I never thought more of it since; and yet that didn't hurt me half so much as he's herb," and chew them, and let the leaves GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS. though I known he did not mane it, that saliva. In very many instances they have it was the temper that spoke in him-the weary on it for temper! I've known nothing but hardship since I married him; but I didn't complain of that; we both expected nothing else; and I don't mind a hasty stroke, for it's hard on him to see us wanting a potatoe, and he wet and wearyan old man before his time with the slavery -and though I put little Neddy to bed early to sleep off the hunger, yet ofter it's too teazing on the poor child, and wakes him in spite of me, and I know the little hungry I know all that, but he ought to know that forty cents per diem, and in ten years he pain : he ought to know it-and he does know it-I'm sure he does; and he kissed me this morning on his fasting breath leaving me the handful of potatoes for me, and saving the masther, where he gives his strength for eight-pence a day, ordered him a breakfast, which I'm sure ain't the truth. The love's in his heart as strong as ever; but the misery, ma'am, often hardens the man while it softens the woman; true, but it's hard to listen to such a word as that. He was my first love, and he'll be my last. None of us can tell what's before us, but I'd go all my trouble over again if it would do him any service !' It is also worthy of remark that second marriages are Formerly conducted by Guy C. Holchkiss. very rare among the peasantry, and, we may perhaps add, comparatively, among the higher classes. This affords a strong proof of the depth of their attachment, for it is order to have line. The quality of the work of the New Haven Com is well known in of the depth of their attachment, for it is work of the New Haven Com, is well known in this market. Builders and all persons in want of in the second instance those who take so the above articles, are requested to send in their little of her counsel in the first They do not hold it strictly right for either man or woman to marry again; and General Agent Commission and Forwarding Merif a woman does so, she prefaces it with chant. an apology: "It's a father I was forced to put over HIS children, because I had no STEAM ENGINE AND SAW MILL. way for them, God help me! and this man, ye see, says, 'Mary,' he says, 'I have full and plenty for them, and the Lord above, he knows it's justice I'll do them, and never hinder yer prayers for the man ye lost, or anything in rason, or out of rason either; an' troth he has kep' his word wonderful." And the neighbors of the married widower apologise for him after this fashion: " Well, to be sure! we must consider he had a whole houseful of soft children, and no one to turn round on the flure, or to do a hand's turn for them; so it's small blame to him after all." Or they condemn-" Yarra huish! to see an old stuckaron like that set himself up with a young wife, and grown up daughters in his house. To think of the hardness of him-passing the churchyard, where the poor heart that loved him. and put up with him, and slaved for him and his children, is powdering into dustpassing the grave where the grass isn't long, with a slip of a girleen in the place of her with the thoughtful head and the ready hand. Oh, bedad! she'll punish him, Pil engage; and I'm glad of it."-They are more angry with a woman for a second marriage than with a man, and certainly never consider a second union as holy as a first

The following is a striking and creditable instance of attachment to the memory of a wife. We once remarked to a very respectable old man, and of very prepossessing appearance, that he must have been a great favorite with the fair sex in his youth. 'Listen to me,' said he,' and the divil a word of a lie I'm tellin' you, for I can't be far from my end now. Some time afther the death o' my wife, a rich widow, and a handsome one, fell in love 60 Nov. 8. MOORE, STANLY & CO.

with me, and offered to marry me. Faith, it was a temptin' offer-my manes were small, and the family were large and helpless. But when I went home and looked at the poor childer, and thought of her that was gone-oh. I could never bring another in her place-for she was a good woman, and a lovin' woman, and a sensible woman (here his voice began to grow tremulous 1 00 1 " 6 " 8 00 with emotion, but by an enort ne added.)

ty years. We may link with this an anecdote of the other sex. We know a widow, who is now about fifty years old; she has two daughters well provided for, and two sons who " help to keep the cabin over her.' She was as susceptible as most of her country women, and in her youth had a sweetheart. He was not, however, the choice of her parents, who married her to another-the ugliest man in the parish .-We were once present when somebody asked her whether she was not crying the whole night of her marriage. The question brought out her natural eloquence .-'I was,' she said, 'I'm not ashamed to own it now; I was giving up myself to a man I didn't like, and I fond of another at the time. He was the ordinariest man in the country; but I won't wrong him; he was a good husband to me, and nobody can say I wasn't a good wife to him, thank JOB, CARD AND FANCY PRINTING, God! He was sickly eleven years before he died; and all that time I didn't lay my side on a bed for three hours together, day nor night, besides having a family of four children to look after. He left me without the means of helping them, except by the work of these two hands. I brought them up, thank God! decently; nobody can say I didn't, and never asked a meal for them

MEDICAL HOUSE,

No. 16, SOUTH FREDERICK STREET, BALTIMORE. MARY LAND.

Established in order to afford the Afflicted sound and scientific dedical Aid, and for the suppression of Quackery.

DR. 1. B. SMITH has for many years devoted his whole attention to the treatment of Private complaints, in all their varied and complicated forms. His great success in those long standing and diffi-cult cases, such as were formerly considered incurble, is sufficient to commend him to the public as worthy of the extensive patronage he has received. Within the last eight years, Dr. S. has treated more than 29,500 cases of Private Complaints, in their different forms and stages; a practice which no doubt exceeds that of all other physicians now advertising in Baltimore, and not a single case is known where his directions were strictly followed, and medicines taken at reasonable time, without effecting a radical and permanent cure; therefore, persons afflicted with diseases of the above nature, 'no matter how difficult or long standing the case may be,' would do well to call on Dr. Smith, at his office. No. 16, South Frederick St., and if not effec-tually relieved no remuneration will be required for his services. His medicines are free from Mercury and all mineral poisons; put up in a neat and com-pact form, and may be taken in a public or private house, or while travelling, without exposure or hin-drance from business, and except in cases of vioentinflammation, no change of dict is necessary. STRICTURES. - Dr. Smith has discovered a new method by which he can cure the worst form of stricture and that without pain or inconvenience to the patient. Irritation of the uretha, or prostrate glands, or neck of the bladder, is sometimes mistaken icr strictures by general practitioners or charlatans, and others afflicted with Seminal Debility, wheth eroriginating from a Certain Destructive Habit, or from any other cause, with train of bodily and men-tal evils which follow, when neglected, should make an early application, thereby avoiding much trouble and suffering, as well as expense. By his improved method of treatment, Dr. S. can safely guarantee a speedy and perfect cure in all cases of this com-

TO FEMALES. All diseases prouliar to Females (as also Suppressions, Irregularities, &c.) speedily and effectu-ally removed. The efficacy of his remedies, for the cure of theubove affections, have been well tested n an extensive practice for the last twelve years. Persons at a distance may consult Dr. S. by a letter, post-paid, describing case, and have medicine securely put up and forwarded to any part of the United States, always accompanied with full and explicit directions for use. Communications con sidered strictly confidential. Office arranged with separate apariments, so that patients never see any one but the doctor himself. Attendance daily, from S in the morning till 9 at night.

N. B.—Persons afflicted with any of the above complaints, will do well to a fold the various NOSTRUMS AND SPECIFICS, advertised by Apothecaries and Druggists as a certain cure for any and every disease. MISCELLANY

Adventures of a fast Young Man. 'Thank you, I don't care if I do,' said a fast young man, with a large pressed brick in his hat as he surged up to the Indian that stands in front of Van Cott's Tobacco Store in Broadway with a bunch of cast iron cigars in his hand. ' Pit take one, I smoke sometimes,' and he reached out to take the proffered weed, but the Indian wouldn't give it up. He hung on to the cigars like grim death. 'Look here old copperhead,' said the fast young man, 'none of that, no tricks upon travelers, or there'll be a muss, you and I'll fall out, somebody'il get a punch in the head? The Indian said never a word, but held on to the cast iron cigars. He was calm. dignified, unmoved as an Indian should be, looking his assailant straight in the face, and no muscle moving a single hair. 'Yes! Yes! Look at me old feather head! I'm one of 'em, I'm around, I'm full weight, potato measuré heaped up; and he placed himself in position, threw back his coat, and squared off for a fight. All the time the Indian said never a word, looked without the least alarm unwinkingly straight into the face of the fast young man, still holding out the cigars in a mighty friendly sort of way. The young man was plucky, and just in a condition to resent any sort of insult, or no sort of insult at all. He was ready to "go in," but the calmness and imperturbubility of the Indian rather cowed him, and he was lucrative and at the same time genteel employ-ment, should not fail to see a copy of The Whole World, which contains by far the most liberal in-I freeze to a good cigar: I'm one of the rected with notes, author's hand writing on the title page, and copy right secured -Yes, I'll take one. All right, old red skin,

I'll take one." But the Indian said not a word, looking all the time straight in the face of the fast young man, and holding on to the cigars. "Look here, old gimlet eye, I'm getting riled, my back's coming up, and you and I'll have a turn; smell of that, old copperhead," and he thrust his fist under the nose of the cast iron Indian, who said not a word, moved not a muscle, but kept right on, looking straight into the face of the fast young man as if not caring a fig for his threats, or taking in at all the odor of his fist. "Very well," said the fast young man, "I'm agreeable. I'm around, look out for your ugly mug, old pumpkin head," and he let go a right has der, square againt the nose of the cast-iron Indian, who never moved an inch, nor stirred a muscle, loc

"Hallo," cried the fast young man, in utter bewilderment, as he recled back half way across the side walk, with the blood he will be able to give entire satisfaction to all who may favor him with a call. He has now on hand. "Hallo! here's a go, here's an eye opener, here's a thing to hunt for round a corner. I'm satisfied, old iron face, I am --Enough said between gentlemen." Just then he caught sight of the tomahawk und scalping knife in the the belt of the savage, and his hair began to rise. The Indian seemed to be making up his mind to use them. "Hold on," cried the fast young man, as he dodged round the awning post "Hold, on none of that, I'll apologize, I squat, knock under. Hold on I say," he continued, as the Indian seemed to scowl with peculiar fierceness. "Hold on! Very well, I'm off. I've business business down the street, people at home waiting for me, can't stay," and he bolted like a quarter horse down Broadway, and his cry of "hold

A correspondent of the Argus ('G. M. S. Buxton,) relates the following , We have rarely met with a more marked instance of presence of mind, than that displayed by Mr. Zachariah Lord, an engineer, on the York and Cumberland Railroad, a man noted for his decision of character, and thorough knowledge of his profession. Though occurring a year or two since, his modesty prevented the incidents being extensively known, and it but recentand 22 inch, all numbers, hard and soft. This faba gravel train down 'Emery's grade,' with considerable speed; when looking ahead he discovered, at no great distance, a child of not more than three years of age standing upon the centre of the track. He immediately reversed the engine, but as the train was heavy, the grade steep, and not a single break to check the speed, it became painfully evident that he must run over the lad, who stood wondering at their approach; Mr. L. at once seized upon the only expedient to save him. Requesting the fireman to go out upon the front of the engine and stand ready to spring for the lad, he caught some wood from the tender and watched his most favorable moment to carry this project into execution. When within a few feet, he leaped from the train, and threw the wood under the wheels while at the same instant the fireman sprang upon the child, seized him and jumped from the track. The escape was so narrow that the corner of the engine struck both man and child, and threw them into the dich. Neither however, was injured; the brave men were able to present the child unscratched to his agonized mother who from a distance had beheld the peril and rescue of her darling boy. It is a curious fact in science, that glass resists the action of all acids except the fluoric; it loses nothing in weight by use of age; it is more capable than all other substances of receiving the highest degree of polish—if melted several times over, and properly cooled in the furnace, receiving a polish almost rivaling the diamond in brilliancy. It is capable of receiving the richest colors produced from gold or other metallic coloring, and will retain its original brilliancy of hue for ages. Medals, too, WM. A. GWYER, Commission Merchant.
