MISCELLANY.

IMPORTING A WIFE. Grant Thorburn communicates to the Waterbury, Conn., American the foliolwing incidents:

"In 1847 I journeyed from New York overland to Columbia, the capital of South Carolina, making en route through North Carolina and Virginia-I spent Iwo sumtners and three winters among these barbarians, but never heard the sound of a lash. On a certain day I was invited to a tea party in Richmond, Va .- there were and maidens, old men and matrons, with a small sprinkling of bachlers who had doubled their teens, who from appearance belonged to the apper tens. Supper being ended, we commenced conversing in groups. I was much amused and edified by the conversation of an intelligent lady 1 " 1 month, who had seen eighty winters. She remarkry for captains of vessels to bring as a part of their cargo a large company of men and women, who were styled Redemptionists, women, who were styled Redemptionists, who were sold on their arrival by the captain for men servants and maid servants, to wait on the wives and children of the planters or merchants. They were often sold to serve two or three years to pay for sold to serve two or three years to pay for their passage. The old lady remarked that she had heard her parents tell, that in the early times of the settlement, it sometimes happened that bachelors and widows would select a bonny Scotch or Welsh lady, buy their time, and long before the years of probation expired, they took them for better and for worse for bed and for board, thus forming a life coparternership, which closed the concern.

"The old lady related (with all the sprightly humor of a lass in her teens) the following amusing incident:

"Says she, my gradfather came from Scotland when in his twenty-first year .-He settled in Virginia, and became a merchant and planter, and grew rich. His agent in Glasgow was Alexander McAlpin, to whom he consigned two or three cargoes of tobacco every year and received in return cash, dry goods, hardware, &c. He had flocks and herds, men-servants and maid-servants, hogs, mules, and donkeys. But one thing he yet lacked; he had no pretty little young wife to sing to him and beguile the time with her prattling, lively Yankee tongue, when he came home Mathematics.

And a full corps of Teachers in every branch. Board, including Washing, Lights, Fuel, at night fatigued with counting money, and satiated with worldly pelf—for he had Collegiate Department; more of that than heart could wish. So, after a while, he concluded to take a wife as soon as he could catch one; but there was the rub; his time was so occupied with his business that he had no time to court; and, worse than all, he was a bashful man. When threading the streets of Richmond, if he saw a sprightly maiden of eighteen advancing in his path, he would cross the street, and pass away on the other side, fearful of being killed by a shot from her sparkling eyes. He had often heard his parents speak much in praise of the bonny lassess wha played amang the heather on the hill tops in Scotland, and a bright idea now struck him. When he was leaving the office one day, his clerk was copying a duplicate order for sundries to be sent as part of the return cargo. Thinks he to himself, I'll order a young lassie for a wife as the last item on the list. The article was ordered accordingly. At the same time he wrote a private letter of instructions to his agent, Mr. McAlpin, giving a minute description of the article wanted, as to age, birth, health &c; in summing up he added, she must be a bonny Scotch lassie, to be sent by the return of his own ship, her name on the manifest, bill of lading, &c. On her arrival he promised to have her stored in the house of a respectable widow, whom he named, and if agree-

"When Sandy McAlpin had finished reading the letter of instructions, he slowly removed the spectacles from his nose, and leaning back in his huge old fashioned well stuffed arm-chair, and fixing his eyes will be sent free (on the secrept of $10,00) by Exon the ceiling in his office, he commenced muttering to himself as follows: The lad this correspondent then in his thirtieth year) is daft or crazy-he tells me to send him a wife, as if she was a barrel of salt o'er young to marry yet. All being present an hour before tea, Mr. McAlpin read the letter, and made the necessary explanation. They then set down to tea; supper being ended, each lass gave in her ultimatum; woyage of matrimonial discovery—the three agreed to draw cuts. Mary Robinson drew the longest straw, and was hailed the BonDec. 16. J. H. N. C. T. & S. Age copy 114.

"In ten days thereafter they were breasting the waves of the Atlantic Ocean; they ntered the Chesapeake Bay after a pas age of twelve weeks, which at that period was termed a good passage. In two days more they were ascending the shores of the James River, when Mr. Crawford (the hero of our tale) heard the ship had arrivstout men servants, and started to meet the ship. Mary was standing on the quarter-deck, admiring nature's wildest grandeur; she had recovered from the sea-sickness when four days out; the healthful breezes of the Atlantic had imprinted on her pretty face a beautiful freshness; there she stood, her cheeks tinged with the roses of Sharon, and her bonny brow as white as the lily of the valley. Crawford sprang on deck, and was introduced by the captain. He looked on Mary with love and admiration; her Just in store and for sale by QUINCE & COWAN.

On the thirtieath day of probation, the lovers were united in the boly bonds of wedlock The old lady remarked, she often heard her mother say a happier couple never lived. 'John Ander-son my Joe John,' was their motto and their song."

Slaves are insured for one or five years, at rates which will enable all Slaveholders to secure this class of properity against the uncertainty of life.

Slave insurance presents a new and interesting feature in the history of North Carolina, which will prove very important to the Southern States.

The last four months operation of this Company shows a very arge gmount of business—more than the Directors expected to do the first year—having already issued more than 200 Policies.

Dr. Wm. W. Harriss, Medical Examiner, and Agent, Wilmington, N. G.

Should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubiat happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.
