MISCELLANY.

INSULT AND REBUKE. A Mormon Elder was jovited to officiate as chaplain of the California Legi-lature at Mr. Shuck, Baptist, of Sacramento had been invited to officiate in the same capacity, whose feelings are expressed in the following note which he addressed to the Legislature: "I am now precluded from accepting the invitation you have extended, from the fact of the Assembly having, by a large vote of yesterday, acknowledged the Christianity of that during imposture of systematized li-rentionsness called Mormonism. And with too its relders I can have no religious affinity, sympathy, fraternity or intercourse .-I claim for myself, individually, no superiority in righteousness over other men; but as Christian minister, I do claim for Cheis unity a superiods over every order religious y tem on the face of this whole earth; and us to Marmonism itself. I regard it as a dishomer to the one living and true God, a libel Preshylerian.

SCENE AT THE REFORM SCHOOL A very affecting scene occurred at the State Reform School on Thors by. The orcaston was the entrance of two boys, of fit the years of age, in charge of the Sheriff. They were bright-booking lads, and evident ly and deepty habited with crime, yet the victims of evil companions. They were from Stratford and had been convicted of burglary. They were sent by the court to the Reform School at Meriden, and if there was not room there they were to be taken to the State prison at Wethersfield. The school has been for some time excessively filled .-Mr. Hoadley the Superintendent, told the Sheriff that he had no toom for the boysthat the number was dready greater than the building could conveniently accommodule. The reply was, Then I must take them to the State Prison.' Mr Hoadley feel ingly responded. That must not be; I had rather share my own bed with them. They shall stay here, This kindness touched the tender feelings of the boys. They were wholly overcome, and shed tears freely. The Sheriff of course left greatly relieved in being able to dispose of his charge in a way so much in accordance with his feelings. These boys may now be saved perhaps from the gallows, and possibly become or aments to society. - New Haven Palladium.

DEACHN FOSTER AND THE COAL-DEALERS. -Utility and fun never got into closer commurion than in the case of Deacon Cyrus Foster and the coal dealer, recently, in an Eastern city. The deacon is a colored gentleman a little eccentric, witty in the beststyle of his rare, and respected by everybody for his real goodness and integrity. Having bought three tons of coal which proved shore weight by 1 500 pounds, as he knew by his ed, and sent back, telling the teamster to "dump it right down dar, any whar, I don't want it." Going himself to the country room of the coal-dealer, and laying it on in the following style as the Boston Tr .nscript reports it-

Loo! hea, sa, I ordered three ton coul my bin hold just dat, and de coal don't fill 'em, and I sent it back right out dar; I don't want it-I don't want it; I dump it on de wharf dar, any whar. Now, sa, I want just nine dolla, sa, for trouble and spence, and I want just three ton sent thar sa, which must be given to me, and dar will be nothin more said about it." There was no room for argument or shuffling. The money was paid, and three tons of coal dumped into the deacon's bin, filling it to the brim, and given to him and he has never said a word about it! Dencon Foster's shrewdness, in having at hand the means of telling the weight of his coal, may suggest the same prodence to others.

TOO GOOD TO BE LOST. The boarders in one of the fashionable houses in Brooklyn were assembled in the public parlor one stormy evening a few months since, when a rather antiquated maiden lady, who never seems to have any employment but admiring her jewelry and dresses, lisped out the remark that she loved a rainy day, and always availed of one to arrange her drawers. "So do I." growled an old sea captain; "I overhaul my drawers, and shirts, too, sometimes, and sew on a button or a string where it is wanted." Made meiselle did not laint, but there was an angry rustle of her silks. as she swept from the room, leaving all to exchange a suppressed fitter for a good hearty laugh.

HIBERNIAN WIT.

"I don't know what you mean by not being an Irishman," said a gentleman who was about hiring a boy. but this I do know, you were born in Ireland." "Och, your honor, if that's all, said the boy, "small blame to that. Suppose your old cat had kittens in the oven, would they be loades of bread ?" The boy got the place.

MISERIES. To souff the candle out in company.

To be joked about a lady whom you see cretty disting To be obliged to confess poverty to a dun To make a good pun, at which nobody laughs but yoursell. Walking with ladies, to be met by a drunken friend, who insists on speaking with you.

Tight boots on a hot summer day. A short had on a cold night.

Disliking babies, to be obliged, through courtesy to daudle your friend's pretty little sweety" for an hour or so. Unluckily enlisting yourself on the wrong side of an argument, when you have ladies and learned men on the opposite side.

Visiting a young lady for the first time, and as you are being introduced, treading on the lavorite cat's tail.

HE WASN'T AN IRISHMAN. schools in West Lynn, on Wednesday says the News, which is, perhaps, worth relating One of the classes were reciting, and the teacher asked a little American girl who the first man was. She answered that she did not know. The question was put to the next scholar, an Irish child, who answered-

"Adam, sir" with apparent satisfaction.
"Lu," said the first scholar, "you needo't feel so grand about u, he wasn't an Irish-

MISCELLANY

COMPLAINING TO THE MAYOR. Mayor Wood of New York is kept pretty well occupied in listening to the thousand and one complaints that are made to him daily in that wicked city over which he presides. On Wednesday last the following are recorded in the N. Y. Sun !

A very reverend and philanthropic gentleman complained that he, as well as others, is often annoyed by women and young girls who accost him in Broadway, Broome and other streets, and endeavor to induce him to visit in He prayed that the Mayor would endeavor to suppress the evil.

Elizabeth Mallory, an English girl obout 17 years of age, stated that she had lately arrived in this country in company with a man with whom she became acquainted in Liverpoot, and who, under a solemn promise of marriage, has effected her ruin, and by false OFFICE, No. 7, SOUTH FREDERICK St. 7 promising that their wedding should be DOORS FROM BALTIMORE St., (cast side,) duly solemnized on their arrival, enticed her to come with him to this country. He has now deserted her, and carried off with him nearly all her clothing and jewelry, and she prayed that he might be arrested and properly dealt with.

A woman named Mrs. Elfen McNamara, bearing visible marks of ill-usage, complained that her husband, living in Cherry street, is, and has been for sometime past, in the habit of abusing and mal-treating her, so much so that she has often been obliged to take refuge in the houses of her friends. She asks that her husband may be compelled to pay her board, as she cannot longer live

That the congregation of the Jews' Synagogue, and others, are in the habit of congregating on the sidewalk in Henry street, between Catharine and Market streets, completely blocking up said sidewelk, and annoying the whole neighborhood, so much so that persons residing in said neighborhood are almost entirely prevented from entering their houses.

TRUE PHILOSOPHY. Air old man was toiling through the burden and heat of the day, in cultivating his field with his own hands, and erclore, depositing the promising seeds into the ing here, old man? If you are Solomon,' replied the venerable laborer, how can you ask this? In my youth you sent me to the ant; I saw its occupation, and learned from that insect to be industrious and to gather. What I have learned I have followed out to this hour." "You have only learned half your lesson,' resumed the spirit. 'Go the an'and learn from that insect to rest in the winter of your life, and to enjoy what you have gathered up."

German Allegory. FOOTE'S WIT. The Quarterly Review for the current quarter gives many specimens of Foote's wit. He was talking away one evening at the linner table of a man of rank, when, at the point of one of his best stories, one of the par-

y interrupted him with an air of most considerate apology-'I beg your pardon, Mr. Foote but your handkerchief is half out of your pocket." "Thank you vir," said Foote, replacing it; 'you know the company better than I dos' and finished his joke. Dining when in Paris with Lord Stormont, that thrifty Scotch peer, then Ambasander, as usual, produced his wine in the smallest of decanters and dispensed it in the smallest Classes, enlarging all the time on its exquaite growth and enormous age. "It is very little of its age," said Foote, holding up his diminutive glass.

Distressed on one occasion by a merantil man of his acquaintance, who had not only writted a poem, but exacted a promise that he would listen to it, and who mercilessly stopped to tax him with institution, even be fore advancing beyond the first pompous line, "Hear me. O Phobus, and ye Muses nine t" Pray, pray be attentive, Mr. Foote,"

"I am," said Foote; "nine and one are ten -go on !" A DOWN EAST EDITOR, in order to render his paper as interesting and valuable to his readers as possible, advertised for local items, offered to pay liberally for any news that might be furnished, and one morning he was almost startled out of his boots and his sanctum, by a youth who rushed in, out of breath, and exclaimed-"Mither Hathkell, you thaid you'd pay for newth itemth, didn't you?"

"Oh, yes," replied Haskell.

" Walf," shouted the youth, as he extended his itching palm for the money, " My unel'th dead, and I want a quarter-dollar for Mather Hahkell paid the quarter mechanically, having no other reply immedistely at hand, and subsequently furnished the family, gratis, with a dozen copies of he paper which contained the interesting

A CATHOLIC CHURCH ROBBED. On Sunday night week, some ruscals broke nto the Roman Catholic Church edifice, in 84th street, near 4th avenue, New York, and robbed it of silver plate to the value of $300, hesides which they demolished some images, cut and disfigured the pulpit and its appen-dages, and besmeared the walls and seals with fifth. The perpetrators of this outrage are unknown, but are supposed to be a part of a gang of vicious scamps that infest the neighborhood. This is the second time this edifice has been plundered.
