MISCELLANY.

ORIGIN OF "SEEING THE ELEPHANT." Some thirty years since, at one of the Philadelphia theatres, a pageant was in rehearsal, in which it was necessary to have an elephant. No elephant was to be had. The "wild beast," were all traveling, and the property man, stage director, and mandgers, almost had fits when they thought of it. Days passed in the hopeless task of trying to secure one; but at last Yankee ingenuity triumphed, as indeed it always does, and an elephant was made to order, of wood, skins, paint and varnish. Thus far the matter was all very well; but as yet they had found no means to make said combination travel. Here, again, the genins of the managers, the stage director and property man stuck out, and two "broths" were duly installed as legs. Ned Cone of the true and genuine "b'hoys,' held the responsible station of fore legs, and for several nights he played that heavy part to the entire satisfaction of the managers and the delight of the audience.

The part, however, was a very tedious one, as the elephant was obliged to be on the stage for about an hour, and Ned was rather too fond of the bottle to remain so long without " wetting his whistle," so he sets his wits to work to carry a wee drop with him. The eyes of the elephant being made of two porter bottles, with the neck in, Ned conceived the brilliant idea of filling them with good stuff. This "he fully carried out; and elated with success he willingly undertook to play fore legs again. Night came on, the theatre was densely crowded with the citizens of the Quaker city-the music was played in the sweetest strains-the curtain rose and the play began. Ned and "hind legs" marched upon the stage. The elephant was greeted with round upon round of applause .-The decorations and the trapping were gorgeous. The elephant; and the prince seated upon his back, were loudly cheered The play proceeded; the elephant was of his imprisonment, he looked on him marched round and round upon the stage. steadfastly, tears standing in his eyes, The four legs got dry, withdrew one of corks, and treated the hind legs, and then drank the health of the audience in a bumper of genuine elephant eye whiskey, a brand, by the way, till then unknown. On went the play, and on went Ned drinking. The conclusion march was to be madethe signal was given, and the fore legs staggered towards the front of the stage. The conductor pulled the ears of the elephant to the right-the fore legs staggered ry. How often or how long, he had encourse, turned the elephant, sending the prince and hind legs into the middle of the pit. The managers stood horror struckthe prince and the hind legs lay confounded, the boxes in convulsions, the actors . choking with laughter, and poor Ned, casting one look, a strange blending of drunkenness, grief and laughter at the scene, fled easily out of the theatre, closely followed by the leader, with the wreck of his fiddle, performing various cut and thrust motions in the air. The curtain dropped on a scene behind the scenes. No more held their sides. Music, actors, pit, boxes and gallery, rushed from the theatre, shrieking between every breath-" Have you to the left. The foot light obstructed the dured imprisonment for the truth's sake, way, and he raised his foot and stepped is not known, but on his final examinaplumb into the orchestra ! Down went the tion he was brought before Dr. Wilfore legs on the leader's fiddle-over, of liams, Chancellor of Glouchester, siting pageant-no more fore legs-everybody I do not."

A SUCCESSFUL RETORT. On one occasion a clergyman, meeting doctor of his acquaintance, who was a professed Deist, was accosted by the doctor in the following manner. " Do you follow preaching to save souls? ' Yes.' 'Did you ever see a soul ?' " No." 'Did you ever hear a soul ?' " No."

'Did you ever taste a soul ?' " No." 'Did you ever smell a soul ?' " No.

'Did you ever feel a soul?' 'Yes.'

"Well,' said the doctor, ' there are four of the five senses against one upon th question whether there is a soul.' The clergyman, then asked his adversa ry if he was a doctor of medicine ?" 'Yes' 'Did you ever see a pain ?' "No." 'Did your ever hear a pain ?' · No' 'Did you ever taste a pain ?' · No. 'Did you ever smell a pain ?' 1 No

' Did you ever feel a pain ?' 'Yes.' . Well then,' said the clergyman, ' there are four senses against one, upon the question whether there can be a pain, and yet, sir, you know there is pain, and I know there is a soul! THE MARTYRED BLIND BOY. In The reign of "Bloody Mary," of England when the good bishop Hooper was about to be burned to death, a blind boy, by much importunity, prevailed on the guard to bring him to the bishop.-This boy had lately suffered imprisonment in Glouscester, for confessing the truth. After the bishop had examined him concerning his faith, and the cause and said, "Ah, poor boy God hath taken from thee thy outward sight, for what reason he best knoweth; . but he hath endued thy soul with the eye of knowledge and faith. God give thee grace continually to pray unto him, that thou lose not that sight; for thou shouldst then be b'ind both in body and soul." The boy's name was Thomas Dowjudicially, with the register of the diocese in the consistory, near the south E. J. LUTTERLOH door of the cathedral church who administered the usual articles, chiefly urging that on transubstantiation, and saying: "Dost thou not believe that after the words of consecration spoken by the priest, there remaineth the very real Sept. 4. body of Christ in the sacrament of the altar ?" "No," answered the blind boy, "that "Then said the Chancellor, "thou be the same as last session.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT. A correspondent writing to us from Miss., relates a distressing occurrence at a public gathering at Bigbee Valley, on the 2d instant: "A parcel of boys were amusing themselves and the crowd by running races, and among them was a fine lad of Mr. Frazer's, about twelve years old. Young Frazer started to run with his knife open in his hand, and, falling down, the knife pierced his heart? Before his father, who had taken his stand where the racers were to come out, could get to him, he was already a corpse."-Mobile Register. THE VEILED MURDERESS. The Troy Times says Mrs. Robinson s behaving badly at Sing Sing. She conducted herself properly for some time, but lately she has become as frantic and as ungovernable as ever, so that the matron has been obliged to confine her in a cell.

Hartley Coleridge, a man abounding in amiable qualities, who inherited much of his father's infirmity of purpose, could never master his propensity to drink. He was a scholar, a gentleman, a poet, and a drunkard.

Edgar A. Poe-but why speak of him? The story of his miserable end is more fam. iliar to the people even than the melancho-ly refrain of the 'Raven.' crament. You said the sacrament was to be received spiritually, by faith, and

Charles Lamb-the gentle Charles, the kind, the tender, the beloved, could sacrifice so much for his sister, but could not help being carried home and put to bed insensibly drunk.

Douglass Jerrold is a devotee of gin-For many years, it is said, he has been impairing his fine powers by habitual excess in drink.

Byron, Burns, Steele, Hone, and a host of other names, emment or illustrious, might be added to the list of distinguished drunkards.

Burns, we are confident, had not died in the prime of life, a defeated, heart broken man, his destiny all unaccomplished, if he had not been addicted to convivial drink. ing. And who knows for how much of Byron's reckless verse the world should curse the gin bottle?

scration, till death puts a period to his dreadful suf-ferings, by sending him to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrery; and, from his extensive prac-tice in the first Hospitalsin Europe and Americs, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate vietim of this horrid dia-case. It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the un-skilfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercary, ruin the constitu-tion, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of life mis-BLACK LEAD.
