

MISCELLANY.

HONEST LABOR.

Labor, honest labor, is mighty and beautiful. It is the ruling element of life, and the highest relief. Luxuries and conquests are the result of labor; we can imagine nothing without it. The noblest man of earth is he who puts hands cheerfully and proudly to honest labor. Labor is a business and ordinance of God. Suspend labor and where is the glory and pomp of earth—the fruit fields and palaces, and the kingdoms of matter for which men strive and war? Let the laborer scorn look around him, look to himself, and learn what are the trophies of toil. From the crown of his head to the sole of his foot, unless he is a Carib, made as the beast, he is debtor and slave of toil. Where gets the garmenting and equipage?—Let labor answer. Labor—which makes music in the mine, and the furrow, and at the forge. O, scorn labor, do you—who man never yet earned a morsel of bread. Labor pities you, proud fool, and laughs you to scorn. You shall pass to dust forgotten; but labor will live on forever, glorious in its conquest and monuments.

A singular triumph of affection and art is related by the Portsmouth (N. H.) Chronicle. Johnathan Dearborn, of that place, lost an interesting little daughter of eight years, of whom no likeness remained except such as was pictured in the memories of surviving friends. A brother of the deceased, a mere boy, insisted that a good portrait of his little sister might be obtained from such a description as he could give, and the artist, and in spite of remonstrances he started for Boston with the purpose of carrying out the idea. His plan was to visit all the picture galleries to which he could obtain access, and by selecting one feature from one picture and another from another thus get a combination that should answer to the picture that was so vividly impressed upon his memory. And, strange to say, after numberless discouragements and two outright failures, the enthusiastic boy succeeded even beyond his own ardent expectations, and had the satisfaction of returning home with a portrait that was recognized as a most beautiful and correct likeness of the dear lost one.

Springfield Republican.

A CONCLUSION.

A nervous old fellow up town, whose ideas of preaching are not of the most exalted character, came into a neighboring store the other Monday morning, with, "Neighbor, what do you think of preaching?" The question was abrupt and the neighbor was rather puzzled how to take him, whether he meant critically, or morally, or intellectually. "Why?" said he by way of answer. "Oh!" responded the old one, "I think preaching is good, sometimes. There's my son, in there now, fine boy, excellent boy, why he sells some days a hundred and fifty dollars' worth of goods, I think preaching is good, sometimes; Saturday night a woman stole a pair of shoes, worth seventy five cents, carried 'em off, went to church next day, minister told her all about bell and things, to-day she brings 'em back; guess they didn't fit her, very sorry for it, oh, yes, preaching is good, sometimes; I think, preaching is!" The old gentleman having concluded his oration, walked out as abruptly as he had entered.

BOARDING.

"What do you charge for board?" asked a tall Green Mountain boy, as he walked up to the bar of a second-rate hotel in New York; "what do you ask a week for board and lodging?" "Five dollars," "Five dollars! that's too much; but I s'pose you'll allow for the time I am absent from dinner and supper?" "Certainly; thirty seven and a half cents each. Here the conversation ended, and the Yankee took up his quarters for two weeks. During this time he lodged and breakfasted at the hotel, but did not take either dinner or supper, saying his business detained him in another portion of the town. At the expiration of the two weeks, he again walked up to the bar, and said: "S'pose we settle that account; I'm going in a few minutes." The landlord handed him his account: two weeks board at five dollars—ten dollars; "Here stranger," said the Yankee, "this is wrong; you've made a mistake; you've not deducted the times I was absent from dinner and supper—14 days, 2 meals per day; 28 meals at 37 1/2 cents each—10 dollars and 50 cents. If you've not got the 60 cents that's due me, I'll take a drink and the balance in cigars."

A little boy, not over four years of age, while going down Broadway, N. York, was stopped by a crowd of men, seated in front of the Broadway Hotel. One of the company, who had during the evening made repeated efforts at wit, said to the boy:

"Sonny, does your mamma know you're out?" "The little fellow very coolly answered: "Yes sir, my ma gave me three cents to buy a monkey—are you for sale?" and then passed on, whistling "Yankee Doodle," leaving the crowd convulsed with laughter.

"A married lady, who was very fond of her husband, notwithstanding his extreme ugliness of person, once said to a witty acquaintance—"What do you think my husband has gone and laid out fifty dollars, for a large monkey on purpose to please me!" "The dear little man," cried the other; "well, it is just like him."

AN INTERESTING RELIC.

The Jackson Association of Washington, D. C., have presented to the Empire Association of Baltimore, Md., a six pounder brass cannon, captured from the British at the battle of New Orleans by Gen. Jackson.

"Did you know," said a cunning Yankee to a Jew, "that they hang Jews and Jackasses together in Poland?" "Indeed! then it is well that you and I are not there," returned the Jew.
