POETRY.

SONNET TO SPRING.
Come gentle Spring, ethereal midmost come,
The Spring has come, the gay green Spring in her beauty
bright and fair,
And to put her buds and her blossoms forth in the sunny and fragrant air;
She has banished the gloom from the dark old boughs
where the withered'st south was seen;
And flung over their naked forms again her glittering robe of green.
She has smiled on the streams that long were bound in the thralldom of winter's chain;
And they dance along with a joyous song in their playfulness again.
She has hidden the flowers from their hidden beds in the chambered earth about up,
And poured in their open bays the incense of her up.
Her voice is heard on the mountain top, and the echoing vale resounds--
Through the starry night and the bland bright day with her thousand varied sounds:
Hall bellows Spring, as they lo'd approach the land
with thy music rings;
And the floods rejoice, and the hills are glad, and the bird exulting sings.
The earth's sad face is lit with smiles, and the dim cold sky has Looked down with a warm unclouded glance, and the soft winds whisper love.

MISCELLANY.

EXTRACTS FROM A MODERN DICTIONARY.
Steam Boat.—A machine invented for the express purpose of checking the too rapid growth of population, by scalding to death two or three thousand people annually.
Debtor.—A vile wretch, whose crime of subsistence being gone, he is kindly and promptly supplied by the charity of our laws with comfortable apartments, where he has plenty to eat and nothing to do.
State Prison.—A large, airy, commodious building, erected at public expense for the more comfortable accommodation of the above.
Fishing.—The act of a fool of one species trying to deceive a fool of another, not always successful however.
Parasol.—A light screen, carried by a fashionable belle, for the purpose of overshadowing one quarter of her bonnet.
Low Creature.—A beautiful, modest girl, who is too poor to dress in the extremity of the fashion.
Taking a light Supper.—Gormandizing late in the evening for the purpose of having the night-mare till morning.
Charity.—Sending to a poor, hard-working family, the refuse of the kitchen, which your servants, cats, and pigs, have successfully declined tasting.
Friends.—Your daily associates, who will do any thing but assist you in distress.
Old Maid.—A lady who has attained the age of twenty-four or five, without having married a fool, a knave, a gambler, or a drunkard.
Stupid Fellow.—One who allows his tongue some rest in the course of twenty-four hours.
Water.—A clear fluid, once used to drink.
Marriage.—The gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted visions and returns to earth.
Death.—An ill-bred fellow, who visits people at all seasons, and insists upon their immediately returning his call.
Jury.—Twelve persons in a box to try one or more at a bar.
Young Attorney.—A useless member of society, who often goes where he has no business to be, because he has no business where he ought to be.
Vineyard.—In a court of Justice, a kind of pillory, where a person is obliged to receive every species of verbal insult without being able to resent it.
Beauty.—An optical delusion.
Rural felicity.—Potatoes and turnips.
Woman's love.—A rainbow melting in tears.
Moral rectitude.—Great care not to be found out.
Public abuse.—The mud with which every traveller is spattered on his road to distinction.
Slander.—An invisible venom spit out by toads and serpents in the human shape.
Political honesty.—Previous lexicographers have not noticed this word, treating it, I presume, altogether as fabulous; for definition, vide supradictum.
Happiness.—A dream.
Hope.—A traitor.
The grave.—An ugly hole in the ground, which lovers and poets wish they were in, but take uncommon pains to keep out of.
Modern literature.—Fragments of the feasts of old writers served up in new dishes.
Constable.—A species of snapping turtle.
Modesty.—A beautiful flower that flourishes only in secret places.
Lawyer.—A learned gentleman, who rescues your estate from your enemy and keeps it himself.
Enemies.—Borrower and lender.
My dear.—An expression used by a man and wife at the commencement of a quarrel.
Watchman.—A man employed by the corporation to sleep in the open air.
Honesty.—An excellent joke.
Dentist.—A person who finds work for his own teeth by taking out those of other people.
INSULTS GIVEN AND RECEIVED.
The Irish Beauty and the French Empress in a Row.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times tells the following story:
Two years ago when Miss Smead first came to Paris, the Emperor paid her marked attention, as you readers already know. The consequence was, that when ever afterwards Miss S. came to see the Emperor, she was received with a ball at the Tuileries, the Empress Eugenie was careful to have the name stricken off—Miss S. received no invitation, and soon discovering the nature of the difficulty, she conceived a violent hatred for the Empress, and determined to have her revenge.

A few nights ago, the Emperor and Empress were present at a soiree at Lord Cowley's. Miss Smead was also there. The Empress passed through a room where Miss S. and other ladies were seated, and all rose as Her Majesty passed but Miss Smead. The Empress noticed the act and felt the insult. Her Majesty has become notoriously irritable within the last few months, and every care is taken to avoid violent emotions. The good of the country, of posterity, of the world at large, but especially of the Bonaparte dynasty, depends upon it. An officer of the household of Her Majesty approached Miss Smead and remonstrated with her for her conduct. Miss S. replied that it was not the habit in England to rise thus for the Queen, and certainly she would not do it for the Empress of France.

What passed between the Emperor and Empress in another room may be imagined, for soon Napoleon entered the room where Miss Smead was, and seeing her standing on the floor in conversation with a gentleman, he approached them, and bowing coldly to the lady, stepped between them, turned his back to Miss S., and engaged the gentleman in conversation for some minutes.

It must have been a great sacrifice for as polite a man as Louis Napoleon, and as great an admirer of beauty, but the interests of the dynasty mount above the caprices of the individual.

INCIDENT OF THE WAR OF 1812.
A military officer, with whom we have been long intimate, relates two incidents connected with Croghan's gallant defence of Fort Stevenson; one of which affords a strong position, and the other a stronger negative proof of the often quoted adage that "Fortune favors the brave."

As the British and Indians in their operations had violated their pledge, and the usages of civilized warfare, by wantonly murdering their prisoners, the member of Croghan's little band, (only one hundred and thirty, with a single six pounder, and surrounded by about six hundred British troops and thrice that number of Indians), had mutually agreed to stand their ground to the last, and sell their lives as dearly as possible.

When all was ready the British commander sent a message, under a flag of truce, to treat for the surrender of the fort. Croghan, pointing to him as he approached, exclaimed—

"It will not do to let him enter here, and see our weakness: who will volunteer to meet him?"

It was pretty certain whoever should leave the fort on such a mission, would be murdered by the dastard foe, there was a brief pause, when Ensign Shipp replied—

"I will, upon one condition."

"What is that?" asked the Captain.

"Pledge me your word, as an officer and a man of honor, that you will keep the gun bearing directly upon me, and that you will fire it off the moment you see me raise my hand."

The pledge was given, and Shipp went forth.

To all the arguments and persuasions of the enemy was—

"I am instructed to say that we defend the Fort."

Soon the Indians began to surround him. One clutched his epaulette, another his sword. Shipp who was a man of herculean frame, released himself by a powerful effort, and turning to the envoy, coolly said—

"Sir, I have not put myself under the protection of your truce without knowing your mode of warfare. You see that gun, and it is well charged with grape, and I have a solemn pledge of my commander that it shall be fired the moment I give the signal. Therefore restrain these men and respect the law of war, or you shall instantly accompany me to the other world."

This was enough. Shipp was no more molested; he returned to his comrades in safety, fought out the desperate action that ensued, and obtained promotion for his bravery.

The counter instance referred to at the head of our paragraph, was told as follows:

After the British and Indians had withdrawn, Croghan missed one man, (only one) who had belonged to his little band, and all efforts for his discovery were, for some time, unsuccessful. At length his remains were discovered in the garret of one of the block houses, where he had crept for safety, and was cut in two by a cannon ball.

All the rest considering their chances of life not worth a thought, had only sought to do their duty, and escaped alive from perhaps the most desperate fight on record. The only man that was killed, happened to be the only man who proved himself a coward.

"POPPING THE QUESTION" IN PERU.
The story appears on the appointed evening with a gaily dressed troubadour under the balcony of his beloved; the singer steps before her flower-bedecked window, and sings her beauties in the name of her lover. He compares her size to that of a palm tree, her lips to two blushing rose buds, and her womanly form to that of the dove. With assumed harshness the lady asks the lover:

"What are you, and what do you want?" He answers with ardent confidence: "The dove I adore; the stars live in the harmony of love, and why should not we, too, love each other?"

Then the proud beauty gives herself away; she takes her flower-wreath from her hair, and throws it down to her lover, promising to be his forever.

APPALING FIRE.
Intelligence received at Charleston, from Knoxville, Tenn., states that the town of Sevierville, in that State, was almost entirely destroyed by fire on Tuesday last. It originated in the house of Mr. Dugan, sheriff of the county, and involved the destruction of the jail, court house, store-houses—in fact, the whole village, with the exception of three or four buildings. The only person in the jail was a man recently committed, and he was burned to death; every effort to rescue him having proved unavailing.

CHRISTINE.
OR, Woman's Trials and Triumphs. By Laura Maria. One vol. 12mo., 324 pp. Cloth; price $1.
This work, just published, is highly commended by those who have examined it, in speaking of the two principal characters of the work, says: "A fine moral and instructive lesson is presented in both these splendidly drawn characters." The stern old father, the beautiful and heartless son, the rough, gloom and good-hearted Elder Wiggin, are all admirably portrayed. Upon the whole, we think this is the most interesting book we have ever read, and feel sure that no one who once examines it will ever lay it down till finished. For sale at March 29. S. W. WHITAKER'S.

PROSPECTUS OF THE PLYMOUTH BANNER.

THE subscribers having purchased the "Village" establishment, will commence publishing a weekly Newspaper of the above title, about the middle of January, 1856.

Our paper will be "independent in all things, and neutral in nothing," giving all parties and creeds a respectful hearing. It will be devoted to the interests of Plymouth, North Carolina, and the South—to the cause of Education, Agriculture, Internal Improvements, and the development of the resources of the State.

We will do all in our power to make our paper interesting to the general reader, as well as to the business man. Proper attention will be given to the Marine List and Price Current. In short, we will try to make the "Banner" a neat paper, and a companion, to all classes, from the Parlor to the Counting Room, and a worthy the support of those favoring us with their patronage.

TERMS.
1 copy in advance $2 per annum
1 copy at the end of six months, $2 50.

FOUNDRY AND MACHINE SHOP FOR SALE.
THE CLARENDON IRON WORKS, located in the town of Wilmington, North Carolina, now in successful operation, are offered for sale on accommodating terms; or an interest will be sold to a man of experience in the business, who has capacity to superintend the same.

The property consists of a spacious and well-arranged MACHINE SHOP, PATTERN ROOM, BOILER SHOP, BLACKSMITH SHOP, IRON AND BRASS FOUNDRY, DRAFTING ROOMS AND OFFICES.

all well supplied with tools, and capable of doing work of any kind that can be done at first class shops. The building will accommodate 500 hands, and the present tools are sufficient for 300 men. The land and water front is of sufficient extent to admit of any enlargement or addition that may be desired.

The present demand for work is sufficient to keep the establishment employed with a force of 200 hands, and will increase. The prices obtained for work are such as to be profitable to the proprietor, and compare favorably with prices at other points to the purchaser.

In addition to the many advantages possessed by this location for the business, the opening of the Cape Fear and Deep River works, and the building of the Wilmington, Charlotte & Rutherford Railroad, will create additional demands for work, and furnish a supply of fine quality Coal and Iron.

If the whole, or an interest is not sold before the 16th day of April next, the property will be offered at public sale on that day, on the premises.

As the Establishment will continue in operation, orders for new work or repairs, will be attended to as heretofore.

Any information that may be desired, will be promptly furnished by application to the subscriber at Wilmington, N. C., or to A. H. VANBROCK, Pres. C. I. W. Co. March 5. 152-16A
