WILMINGTON N. C., SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 26, 1856.

POETRY.

THE HEART'S GUESTS. When age has cast its shadows O're life's declining way, And the evening twilight gathers Round our departing day; Then we shall sit and ponder On the dim and shadowy past; Within the heart's still chambers The guests will gather fast.

The friends in youth we cherished Shall come to us once more, Again to hold communion As in the days of yore. They may be stern and sombre ; They may be bright and fair, But the heart will have its chambers, The guests will gather there.

Shall we not see dear faces, Sweet smiling as of old, Till the mists of that still chamber Are sunset clouds of gold, When age has cast its shadows O'er life's declining way, And the evening twilight gathers Round our departing day ? LOVE.

Love is a pain, love is a pleasure, It is a burden, it is a treasure, It is a pang, it is a bliss, It is a hit, it is a miss.

Love makes us proud, and makes us shabby, It makes us sad and makes us crabby ; Oft makes us wise and full of wit, But oft'ner fools, for bedlam fit.

Love's full of hope, and full of fear, Feels flattered there, and slighted here; Is selfish now, devoted then, Loves all mankind and hates all men.

Love makes oft rich, and often poor, The miser's and the spendthrift's cure ; Makes ugly fair, and stupid bright, Makes right be wrong, and wrong be right.

MISCELLANY.

TAKING THE ASSESSMENT. The following good story we find in the West Baton Rouge Sugar Planter :

When the immortal Colonel ---was Assessor of a neighboring Parish, he was wont to have a high old time. One day, choly proceeding. as he was assessing the valuables of the occupants of a log cabin, situated in the Pine woods, he, in his usual urbane manman while the old man had gone out to our long-time readers 'laugh ready to split procure some " corn cob oil " wherewith to their sides," something like a thousand regale his guest.

AN AWFUL SCENE.

The London Times, giving an account dren, says:

When the signal was given, the chair on which the wretched man was still seated. as it is under ordinary circumstances; and for life which he had evidently contemplated. The sound of the falling drop had scarcely died away when there was a shriek from the crowd of "He is up again," and to the horror of every one it was found resting upon the edge of it, and he was the rope. One of the officers immediately rushed upon the scaffold, and pushed the wretched man's feet from their hold, but in an inoughly groomed stant, by a violent effort, he threw himself to the other side, and again succeeded in getting both his feet on the edge of the edge of the drop. Calcraft, who had left the scaffold, imagining that all was over, was called back; he seized the wretch criminal, but it was with considerable difficulty that he forced him from the scaffold, and he was again suspended. Aug. 18. The relief the wretched man had obtain ed from the pressure of the rope by these desperate efforts had probably enabled him to respire, and to the astonishment and terror of all the spectators he a third time suc-April 12. ceeded in placing his feet upon the platform, and again his hands vainly attempted to reach the fatal cord. Calcraft and two or three other men then again forced the wretched man's feet from their hold, April 12. and his legs were held down until the final struggle was over. While this fearful scene was being enacted, the bells of the different neighboring churches were ringing merrily upon the announcement of

A CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the sceds of this painful disease, it too often happens that anili-tim-ed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delay-ing till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat. diseased nose, noctural pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafnerss, nodes head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightiul ra-pidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fail in. and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commis-seration, till death puts a period to his dreadful soft ferings, by sending him to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secresy; and, from his extensive prac-tice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, hean confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid dis-ease. It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fail victims to this dreadful complaint, owing to the un-skilfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercury, ruin the constitu-tion, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of life mis-RDEN TS, 0-1y.
