PHILADELPHIA MANNERS.

The manners of the Know Nothing city Author ities of Philadelphia, in refusing Independence Hall for the reception of Mr. BUCHANAN, need correction if not cultivation. We opine that when Mr. Buchanan visits that city as President of the United States; or rather if he should do so, the same authorities will have cultivated a taste for the amiable, and the present exercise of the ephemeral power of city police, in a manner quite up to the eminence of vulgar blackguardism, will be superseded by a lickspittle adoration, with any quantity of congees and salams.

But it appears that a party almost just out of its swaddling clothes, is putting on airs of manhood, and raising the arm of avengement a little too early in the season. They should recollect (the city Authorities aforesaid) that youth is never lovely only when it is amiable. Now acting in this way is very naughty, and we should not be surprised if the Man of the Constitution, the Man of the People, the Constitutional Democratic Party, should give you what the Yankees call a "licking," in November, "abeout and to and he is sgin," as the Yankees also say, throughout the whole State. No, it will not surprise us a bit if you get soundly whipped for your impudencesome thousands of votes.

SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN SOCIETY. We do not know when we have seen a truer picture of southern and northern Society, than is presented in the following, which we extract from a Speech delivered by Hon. L. M. KEITT, of South Carolina, in the House of Representatives, on the 7th of the present month, in Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union:

"I do not wish to arraign northern society, but the assaults of members here require me to send an arrow back. You show us the magnificent diorama, but not the machinery with which it is worked. Look to crime and pauperism, to disims and outcasts on your wayside to occupy all aggregate; to its arts and commerce; to its cities and its material monuments; but it does not show its well springs, and poured out like water. No: over these it throws the mantle, if not of charity at least of contumelious oblivion. To the North

we say, if you prefer your society, keep it; we prefer ours, and we mean to keep it. Let there be equal rights to each. Has the North, under the influence of the free labor system, given proof of greater virtue, intelligence, or patriotism, than the South? Read you thus our common annals?—

Where per wrote the Declaration of Independence? voice first kindled resistance in the American heart? And whose genius lead your armies to victory throughout your revolutionary strug-gle? Those of men of the southern and slaveolding and unequal States. Did not the South. in that tremendous seven years' struggle, equally with the North, give her cities to pillage, her homes to the flames, and her fields to desolation? Did she not equally with the North bare her forehead to the god of battles, when he came to his of the North? Were not Jefferson, and Madison, and Henry, and Mason, and Rutledge, and Pinckney, and Butler, the fit compeers of your proudate and impress itself upon the Concolors to the masts," and rally the courage and years ago, your eagles fluttered over the soil of a neighboring republic? Go to the battle-fields. thick strewn between Ulloa Castle and the Halls of the Montezumas, and in the graves upon them read the answer. Sir, I would tear no chaplet from a northern brow; I would rob no son of the North of his well-earned glory. I honor the me-mories of her mighty dead, and I would reverently bow before the altars upon her battle-fields; but she denies truth and history if she claims superiority over the South in virtue, intelligence, she is thus struck at?

Abolitionism, through an undeviating unity and identity of purpose, has aggregated to itself, at present, a dominating strength in the free States. Born amid jeers, contempt, and scorn, nursed in the haunts of obscurity, and fattened upon the offals of the shambles, and the garbage of the gutter, it has waxed corpulent and audacions. Under the plea of justice it commits a fraud; and under the pretense of humanity it libels truth. It has risen upon the cowardice of the old parties, and now unblushingly flaunts it-self in the face of the country. One day it skulk-ed from sight; the next, it challenged assault.— Yesterday it was a toad in the cellar-to-day it is a lizard in the garret. Its leaders, skilled in the arts and policies of the demagogue, mouth their love for the poor as did Judas Iscariot when he rebuked Mary because she poured oil of spiken-ard upon the feet of Christ, "for it might have been sold for three hundred pence, and given to

"In the Black Republican party the conserva-tive men of the North never can enter."

A MISTAKE.

The Journal of Commerce of the 23d inst. says: dents resulting in consequences more or less grave, said to have befallen Mr. Watson of St. Conis. It was the misfortune of Mr. James S. on to be present at the Gasconade Bridge disaster in Missouri, and to have been wounded by the overturning of a car on the Pennsylvania fund near Philadelphia; but with these exceptions he denies having experienced or witnessed any calamitous incident of travel. The story doubtless owes any objectionable features it possessed. to the exaggeration of some idle traveler seeking to amuse his fellow loungers."

THE FRIENDS

This respectable body of Christians is said to have in the United States 715 meeting houses, with an aggregate membership of 283,023. In Maryland they have 26 meeting houses and 7,760 members; in the District Columbia I meeting house and 200 members; in Virginia 14 meeting ses and 6,300 members, and in Pennsylvania 141 meeting houses and 80,974 members.

describe places the character of man in an inexplicable phase. Why is all this? Why should man, diverse from the impulses and feelings of his nature, do that to others which he would deprecate for herself? All these men, who present so fearful an aspect of the consummation of violence and strife, were once the charished objects of paternal care and maternal love. How merciful is Providence, that conceals the future from our penetration. Could the fond father and the doting mother have been permitted to known the sad sequel of the lives of their children, they would have wondered why this world was made to bear upon its bosom a race, whose chief aim appears to be the infliction of wrong upon each other, even to the extinguishment of the lamp of life which no earthly power can rekindle. It seems to us they would utter, from the heart, the language of Our Lord, addressed to the daughters of Jerusalem who followed him to the cross.*-Was it Fate that "frowned upon their cradles" and doomed them to the alaughter of their fellow men and themselves to pain and anguish and to this last seal of destruction-death ? Was it duty and obedience to law; the custom of nations; the urgency of self-protection? Still the foul stain attaches to man; for, by him were this duty and obedience enjoined; this custom established; this urgency created. Can philosophy establish a reason why "man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn ?" Can reason tell us why man should do these things, in the light of science, in the blaze of moral truth' and in the teachings of experience, in the remembrances of social affection? Can she tell us why 'Man, whose heaven-erected crest the smiles of love adorn," Should thus present this show of hatred and wrath? No! no! Reason can tell us only that

"Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurl'd ; "The glory, jest and riddle of the world !"

Who can unravel this riddle-that man, the onalthough it will likely give the Democratic Party | ly reasoning creature, should of all creatures be the most unreasonable; early taught the lesson of humanity and mercy, he is the most inhuman and unmerciful of all beings, when he steps aside from the path in which he is bidden to walk, and becomes the sport of every storm of passion without a guide, that would direct and keep him in the way of peace and happiness-like the ship without a helm, which no longer "goeth where the governer listeth," but is the sport of every changing breeze, and rides upon the billows of the pathless Ocean, only to meet certain destruction.

But the light of truth dispels the mystery. If our young friends will read the 3d chapter of ease and misfortune around you, and if you are good Samaritans," you will find sufficient vicand seek the inspiration that causes men to know your time and charity. The South neither needs nor asks for your vagabond philanthropy. Free the Sacred Volume, they will behold the "goodsociety points us to its civilization in the splendid ness and severity of God," in the influences of the moral elements that surround them, and the operations of the laws of their physical nature; and us its long array of starving operatives; its crowded jails and fetid hospitals; its breadless boards, and the vast reservoir of human life, poisoned in is merciful and good. is merciful and good.

After this digression, we proceed to relate some incidents which establishes to our mind the exis-

We did not then know, nor can we to this moment, call to our recollection, any incident or thought that est and noblest names? Several of our comrades had seen us go in, but none had observed our coming out. Many rushed to the spot and hunted among the fragments, for our mutilated remains, from which they were diverted by our loud laugh at their perplexity. Such is the reckless thoughtlessness of youth, even in times that should inspire quite different sentiments.

Another case occurred not long after the above. We were in the habit of going up to Head Quaror patriotism. Why, then, should the South be assailed and stigmatized, and her citizens be denied equality under the Federal Government?—
What is this Union worth to her when through it On our return one morning, from no especial motive that we are aware of, we came through the plain. During our progress a shrapnell shell burst on the causeway, apparently about four feet from the ground. Had we come down the usual way, we should have been in close proximity to the shot-could not possibly have escaped death.

One other case will suffice to illustrate our subject. We were seated on a box with our back against the parapet, early in the day previous to the attack, which we have attempted to describe in Nos. 5 and 6. We were suddenly knocked from the box and prostrated on our hands and knees. We rose and on being asked by one of the officers if we were wounded, we answered "no sir, but they have made a pretty fair calculation." The top of our leather cap was torn up more than half across. On looking for the cause, we found that a cannon ball had passed nearly through the parapet, lacking only about 2 or 8 inches. It had forced dirt and stones before it, "We gave place a few days since to a traveler's and these missiles inflicted the wound-upon our story circulating in the Hotels, of a series of acci- cap. Some persons will be ready to say "It was lucky that the ball was not propelled even by the least additional power." If it be "luck" we might add that it was "lucky" we were not even the small matter of one inch taller, for in that case DISRESPECT TO MR. BUCHANAN BY THE the ball would have done its work. All these escapes we attribute to an overruling Providence But says one, I believe in a general Providence

DR. KANE. The Library Committee of the House of Repentative have recommended that the Secretary of the Navy cause appropriate medals to be esented to Dr. Kane, his officers and men, and also that Congress purchase from the publishers, fifteen thousand copies of the Doctor's forthcoming work, containing the narrative of his explorations. There can be no objection to the proposed purchase on the score of economy, for the work will be contained in two octavo volumes, amounting together to nine hundred pages, with three finely engraved maps, three hundred electrotype cuts, and twenty-two engraved steel plates n the highest style of the art. In paper and typography, the committee say they believe it will be equal to any they ever produced in the United States. The price is five dollars per copy, which is less than an estimate by the Superintendent of eration for the appropriation. Notwithstanding the high claims Dr. KANE has ipon the country, the Resolution passed the House by a majority of four only. We believe the Senate has not yet acted upon it, but hope that body will favorably entertain the subject. The Philadelphia Times remarks:

" Besides, the narrative of Dr. Kane is not communication to a department. It is not his nere succint official report. The forthcoming work on the contrary is a minute personal narrative of himself and his co-adventurers, exhaustive of all the novel and stirring incidents of the exploration, describing the country by accurate lustrations, delineating its coasts and scenery. embodying extensive astronomical, meteorological and other scientific observations, and constituting a body of information, surpassing all that England can exhibit from the collected labors of her Baffin, Parry, Inglefield, and Franklin. Congress is asked to show its regard for the author by diffusing the work. Captain Wilkes, at great cost to the treasury, explored the Southern Hemisphere, and hundreds of thousands of dollars are expended by the government in publishing his results; Dr. Kane, supported chiefly by his own means and the liberality of private individuals and societies, carries the stars and stripes to the farthest point of the northern world, and so complete the great circle of American circumnavigation, and now when a plan is proposed whereby the treasury is relieved of the large cost of publication, such as was incurred in the case of Capt. Wilkes, and would otherwise doubtless have been incurred in the present case, our grave egislators stand chaffering whether they can afrd to render to him a just personal acknowledge ment, in which, by the way, they receive the fullest equivalent, according to the most approved philosophy of the yard-stick and red tape.

RECEPTION OF MR. BUCHANAN AT PHIL-ADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25 .- Mr. Buchanan was met at Trenton this morning on his way to this city by a committee of his friends, and on his arrival at Walnut street wharf he was greeted by a salute, and the enthusiastic cheers of the large crowd that had gathered there. He was finally welcomed to the city, by a committee of citizens headed by the Hon. Josiah Randall, after which he was conducted to the Merchants' Exchange, the interior of which was decorated with flags in honor of his presence. Here he was welcomed in an address by S. Morris Waln, Esq., to which Mr. Buchanan responded in his happiest style, eliciting the applause of his hearers. After his reception at the Exchange, he was conducted to the Merchants' hotel, which was besieged by troops of his friends and admirers.

Mr. Buchanan, in responding to the address, said he felt as if his foot was again on his native hearth, and he was rejoiced to find that in the opinion of his fellow citizens he had not discredited his country nor her principles. He had ever acted as he felt-as an American. He had often been asked if there was danger of war between England and the United States; and replied no, because he felt that the British people would never consent to involve themselves in a conflict regarding a question on which they knew we had the right side. He felt no present apprehensions, but if an insult was offered, we have millions of energetic free people to maintain our cause. He was pleased to say that during his embassy he had ever received manly and courteous treatment with much tolerance with regard to expressians of opinion.

Mr. Buchanan will meet his friends and the citizens generally in Independence Square to-mor-

CHANGE OF FEED FOR HORSES. The kind of food for animals should be changed frequently. A horse long kept on shorts, will be affected by a fever in his legs and feet, producing a result similar to founder. Shorts, corn meal, or cob meal should never be given except in a mixed state of cut hay or straw. This will require them to eat slower and the food is better prepared for digestion. If given alone, it ferments rapidly in the stomach, produces general fever, injures the digestive powers, and finally produces a stiffness throughout the limbs. When these results are discovered, the remedy is change of food. Continued feeding on oats alone will produce the same sesult as shorts, or meal, and many a founder in caused by it, as by feeding and drinking when the horse is warm. If necessity compels a person to feed a horse on shorts. corn meal or cob meal, supply of salt should be added to prevent fermentation in the stomach.

The fire originated in an untenanted building on Fourth street, near the Methodist Protes tant Church, in the Southern part of town. The buildings on the lot were entirely consumed.

A short time before the occurrence of the above fire, some shavings under the wheelwright shop of Wm. Kellog, next east of the new jail, were found to be on fire, but the fire being discovered by the guard, before it had made any progress, it was got under without doing any damage.

We cannot avoid the conclusion that incendiarism had some connection with these two fires occurring simultaneously in different parts of town We do wish that something could be done to check these outrages .- Jrurnal of yesterday.

Number 1 "deems it proper to allude to a few of the peculiar advantages aimed at by the Superin tendent of Common Schools while making efforts to have this work complete !. These are 1. THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF A FEELING OF SELF DEPENDENCE, and the enlistment of popular sentiment in behalf of the State, and its nstitutions. It was not thought important however, to have more than one number of the Readers of merely local interest.

2. TO REMEDY THE EVIL EVERYWHERE COMPLAINED OF IN COMMON SCHOOLS, OF A PERPETUAL CHANGE IN TEXT BOOKS ; an expensive habit, and one which injures the Schools by preventing the children from being classified. A series of home Readers, it was supposed, would be certainly used, and this great evil thus avoided. 3. E. ONOMY, the popular system of Reader
