MISCELLANY.

FALL OF THE "OLD CHARTER OAK." HARTFORD, CONN., Aug. 23. The famous old CHARTER OAK of this city, so noted in song and history, fell with a tremendous crash during the great storm at a quarter before 1 o'clock this morning, (August 21, 1856.)

This noble old tree stood upon the beautiful grounds of Hon. ISAAC W. STUART, late the Wyllys' estate, in the southern part of the city. About three years ago, some boys built a fire in the hollow of this tree, which burnt out the punk, and though it was feared that this would kill it, such was not the fact. Fresh sprouts sprung out the next Spring, and Mr. Smart took great pains to preserve this valued relic of the original forests of New England, but more especially interesting as the tree in which the old British Charter of Connecticut was secreted and preserved .-At this time the hollow in the runk of the old Oak was so large, that a fire company of 27 full grown men stood up In it together.

Mr. Stuart had a stout door made to shut up the entrance, and he also placed tin caps upon the stumps of broken limbs and for the past three or four years, fresh sproms have grown on most of its limbs, though other timbs were decaying. At the time of its fall, young and fresh acorns were growing on every part of it. Thousands of people are visiting the tree, and bringing away such sprigs and parts of limbs as Mr.

Watchman Butler says he stood at the head of the street at the time of the crash. The wind had been blowing freshly from the North-West for an hour or more. He first heard a loud crack, and saw the Old Oak swaying in the breeze; a crackling noise followed, then the crash-all within the space of half a minute—and the famous monarch of the forest, whose history is so intimately intwined in that of Connecticut, was prostrate upon the earth! One thousand years ago, when it was in the prime of lite-when its years were half swift-winged winds. But now, since tull two thousand years have smiled and waned upon its youth, its prime, and its decline, it had become grey and decrepit, but was still tenacious of life; it still clung to the lovely spot which gave it birth, by its far reaching roots, ful hill-side, and downward to the sharp cut below. Firmly, aye, proudly, the Oak stood, seemingly conscious that Nature had marked out for its own ac commodation, one of the most enchanting retreats in the State, and that destimy had accorded to it a notable and everlasting historic page in the story of Connecticut—one of the patrotic and

Proudly it had stood, and when tottering with age, and reduced to a mere shell of a few inches, by the steady inroads of Time itself, it still clung with had witnessed the decay and downfall of manny of its associates-the path and the bloody wars of the red man, and the red man's decay-the birth and death of generations of the white man, whose axe had cut away its towering comrades of the olden time. But whilst preserving a fair exterior, it was inwardly wasting away, and was obliged to yield and fall in a storm far less severe than many thousands that had prece-ica, he sent his steward forward to pre- mind, and begged him to come back .pare a place for his residence. As he He did so, and after the lessons were was cutting away the trees upon the finished, he took him into a private room hill-side of the beautiful "Wyllys place." a deputation of Indians came to him and er hearing what had occurred, he loadrequested that he would spare this old ed his gun and went and shot the hollow Oak. They declared that it had "been the guide of their aucestors for centuries." It was spared, to fall this day, having finally yielded to the process of natural decay.

The tree measured 33 feet in circumference at the bottom; and it has broken off so as to leave 8 feet of stump on the Supreme Circuit Court, it appears, one side and 6 feet on the other-the stump measuring 21 feet in circumference at its top.

The Charter of King Charles the 2d. for the Colony of Connecticut, arrived in Hartford in 1662, probably in the month of September, though the precise time is not now known. On the 9th of October it was publicly read to the assembled free men of Connecticut, and was declared to "belong to them and their successors," and the people evinc-ced their gratitude by appointing a Committee to take charge of it, under the solemnities of an oath, and to preserve this palladium of the rights of the people. It contained many liberal provisions, as may be seen on examing it in the Secretary of State's office, where the original copy is still preserved with care. It was the organic law of Connecticut till. the present Constitution took its place

He was received with courtesy and coldness. He entered the Assembly room, and publicly demanded the charter. Remonstrances were made, and the session was prothe last moment of the Colony had come, when suddenly the lights were all put out, and total darkness followed! There was no noise, no resistance, but all was quiet. The candles were again lighted, but the charter was gone! Sir Edmund Andross was disconcerted. He declared the Government of Connecticut to be in his own hands, and that the Colony was annexed to Massachusetts and other New England Colonies, and proceeded to appoint officers .-Whilst he was doing this, Capt. Jeremiah Wadsworth, a patriot of those times, was concealing the Charter in the hollow of Wyllys, now known as The Charter Oak.

In 1689, King James abdicated, and on the 9th of May of that year, Governor Treat and his associate officers, re- Missourians, and Richardson is second in sumed the government of Connecticut command. Orders had been issued to conunder the charter, which had been preserved in the Old Hollow Oak.

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT. The velvet moss grows on sterile rocks; the mistletoe flourishes on the naked ruins; the pine and cedar remain fresh and fadeless amid the mediation of the receding year,-and, Heaven be praised, something green and beautiful to see, and grateful to the soul, will, in the darkest hour of fate, still/twine its tendrils around the crumbling altars and broken arches of the desolate temple of the human heart.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons London; graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Petis, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; Many troubled with ringing in the care and head when asleep, great nervousnass, being slarned at sudden sounds, and bashfuness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A CERTAIN DISTARD

A CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the scede of his painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, determined from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone be friend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this beautiful and the constitutional symptoms of the particular and the constitution of the cons ing till the constitutional symptoms of this disease make their appearance, such as alcorated sore throat, diseased nose, noctural pains in the head and limbs, dimness of right, desintes, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightial rapidity, till at last the palute of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration, till death puts a period to his dreadus and ferings, by sending him to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore, Dr. Johnston piedges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrety; and, from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disense. It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful complaint, owing to the unskifulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimety grave, or clast make the residue of life miserable.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE Dr. J. addresses all those who trave injured themselves by private and improper indulgences.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects, produced by early habits of youth, viz:

Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Palme in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy. Nervous
