The bridal tege crossed the water in great state. A fiddler sat in the boat playing lively airs, while cannon resounded from the shore, and the church bells rang out merrily over the water.

On landing, the bride walked to the priest's and was then anayed in her weddding garments. She wore a dress of white silk, and on her head a wreath of flowers; while a veil descended over her shoulders almost to her feet, the face being left uncovered. Three o'clock P. M. was the time for performing the ceremony. The priest afterwards made an oration, and received for it a fee of twenty dollars. He is equally eloquent at funerals, provided he is paid for it. The honey-moon in this country is called Hvede-Brod-Dagen, white broad days-name indicating the scarcity of that article. The happy pair never dream of posting off, as they do in England, to spend the honey-moon out of sight of their friends.

What a strange custom, to be sure, said a young lady to me, who had been enquiring how we managed there things in England-Eny. Paper.

ANECDOTE OF THE EMPEROR ALEXANDER.

According to Russian etiquette, no subject who is not attached to the Court can dance with the princesses of the blood. A young Lieutenant of Hussars ignorant of the established etiquette, lately asked the Grand Duchess Olga to dance with him, and she who saw by his orders that he was a Crimean, consented. The Emperor who saw his sister polking with the young sub, sent for the latter as he left his partner, and where we have open door Fall and Winter styles smilingly told him that he had commit- of Gents and Boys Fashionable Hats and Capa tofor the latter as he left his partner, and smilingly told him that he had commit-ted an offence against etiquette. their consideration. The main feature of the CRITERION is its Re-views of Current Literature. In this department are given thorough and able criticisms of all the most important Books as they are issued, pointing out their chief characteristics, and indicating their moral tendencies, thus keeping its reader nformed of all new publications which deserve their attention. It also contains-

Gossip concerning Books and Writers, Announcements of contemplated Publications, and Lasts of New Books issued in America and Europe. The Drama, Music. Fine Arts, and teience, also receive attention, and several columns of carefully selected and agreeable mat er are given in each number. In addition to the above there is a department of Miscellanea for reading of an enter-taining character, corefully selected from new books and the ablest reviews, and a weekly collection of votes and Queries, which contains a great variety of curious and valuable information It is confidently believed that a journal such as the CRITERION cannot fail to have a good effect upon our national literature, and to some extent upon our national character. It will be found especially valuable in directing the attention of youth to works of real excellence, and encouraging an appreciation for valuable reading which is being rapidly destroyed by the circulation of superficial and sophistical books. To the reading man the iterary intelligence alone must render it very de-irable; and to all who wish to promote an improvement in taste, the encouragement of merit, and an uncompromising condemnation of victors style, mock sentiment, and evil principles, such an enter prise cannot-at least, should not-be indifferent. To members of Historical, Litera y and Scientific Societies, Lyceums and Debating Clubs, the subjects discussed in this paper will at all times prove of peculiar interest, and it is the design of

The editor of the Philadelphia Mercury recently attended a Spirit (not liquid, but ethereal) Circle. He thus describes the closing scene :

After a recess of ten or fifteen minutes, the medium again went into the 'state,' and wrote out-
