GREY BAYARD

AN ANCIENT STORY.

BY JAMES BARRON HOPE.

Th' camp is astir, and the men muster fast;
Good Hubert, ring out on my bugle a blast!
Thy saddle me Bayard! my noble grey steed!
Thy steed soldier had never a better at need!
He can leap any chasm I ever have found--
He can swim any river with roebuck or hound.
Ho! saddle me Bayard! the spears on the plain,
Are thick as the hairs in his torrent-like mane.
And look at the girls! see them trusty and strong
The harvest's before us--the day will be long And death the great reaper, fair gallants, ye know, Goeth forth this fair morning--Hail! Jondra's the ye!
And here comes grey Bayard! dight everest, sire,
A dight upon which ye might sooner win a spire!
What a neck! what a crest! how the strong muscles swell--
By thy feat! gallant Bayard, I love thee right well!
See his wide-spreading nostrils breathe fire and militia--
On his back I would front even Fate in the lists.
O, Bayard! ho, fellow! I am pat for the fray!
How my heart throbs when mounted, my beautiful grey.

And Bayard, remember, my banner so grand,
Was wrought in device by my fair Lady's hand.
And hark to the trumpets! and hark to the drum!
Th' the knaves are base rebels, right proud they come!
Hear the clash, and the tramp! how they swell
with a sound
That athrith the blood like the bay of a hound!
Now, Herbert, my lance! So my vizor is down,
Let us ride, my gay gallants, and win us renown!
Let us unto these false catiffs: the king's in yon group;
Shake my banner abroad; let the wild falcon stoop!

THE BATTLE.

There was wheeling of squadrons, the charge of brigades--
There was clatter of axes, and clashing of blades;
There was clangor of trumpets, and trample of steeds--
There was shouting of war-cries, and doing of deeds--
There was rending of harness, and breaking of spears--
There was slaughter of burghers, and slaughter of peers.
And where men fell thickest that mid-summer
 day,
Stoutly struck a brave knight on a dark iron
 grey.
Like a thunder-bolt cleaving its way thro' the pines,
When the tempest-cloud bursts on the blue Ap-penines--
So he made thro' his foemen a terrible path--
He was death unto all who encountered his wrath.

THE DEATH.

The moon shone serenely, The gallant knight lay Sorely wounded, and weary; and down was the grey,
Near a brook that in flowing seem'd singing a tune--
A song, as it were, to the beautiful moon.
The soldier was thirsty; he crawl'd to the bank
But ere of its waters the brave noble drank,
His helmet all batter'd he flung with his side--
He stagger'd again to his grey charger's side--
Then laid it down feebly, and never drank draught, Tho' his lips were all parching and burning with thirst.
He sat there with patience. The steed he drank long--
What a picture ye gentles, for pencil or song!
And 'tho' in the moonlight the water shone red
And redder it next to his own daisy head.
"O, Bayard! this draught is as crimson as wine-- I drink to thee--Bayard--and...fair...folies!"
A short broken pray'r, and the cross on his breast--
What need, my fair gallants, to tell you the rest!
The shadows grew long, and the silence fell deep,
Where the knight and his charger had sunk into sleep.

MISCELLANY.

A HORSE TRADE.

Mr. Havens resides in Brooklyn, and is a great admirer of horse-fleets. Recently he came to this city for the purpose of buying a grey mare belonging to our friend McCall. The grey mare is a very fine-looking quadruped, and also very fast-- She can do a mile in 2:55, with two in a wagon. Havens heard of her merits last week, and resolved on a purchase. He took breakfast at Stanwix Hall. Shortly after which he buttoned up his coat and started out to find McCall. He met him in Broadway, near the City Hotel. With "Mc" he had the following conversation:
"I understand, Mr. McCall, that you wish to sell that grey mare of yours?"
"I did want to sell her, but I imagine she is now disposed of."
"Disposed of? To whom?"
"To your friend Skerrett, of Brooklyn."
"What did he agree to give you?"
"Five hundred and thirty dollars."
"If you will let me have her, I will give you five hundred and fifty dollars cash down."
"But I've promised her to Skerrett."
"When?"
"Last week."
"Never mind that. If he should call, say she's dead--that I broke her on the Troy Road, in consequence of which we had to blow her brains out."

CIRCULAR.

A BOOK FOR EVERY SOUTHERN METHODIST.
Early in 1856, probably in the month of February, I expect to publish a new work to the particular interest of which I beg leave to call your attention.
The Annals of Southern Methodism, for 1855 will be a 12 mo volume of not less than 360 pages well printed, from stereotype plates, upon good paper. It will contain all available statistics in every department of the operations of the METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.
The design embraced in the Plan of Episcopal visitation; accounts of the sessions of all the Conferences held in 1855, the appointments, numbers, &c; a summary of all reported revivals, notices of the dedication of new Churches; reports of College Committees, with a resume of our educational movements; a resume of our Missionary operations, embracing various forms of general and special missions; reports of the Tract and Sunday School Societies; whatever appertains to our publishing interests, with announcements of all New Books published by our Concern, or written by Southern Methodists; what the Church is doing for the instruction of Slaves Historical and Biographical Essays; interesting and miscellaneous notices of a miscellaneous important facts and incidents.

"THE ANNALS."
It is believed, will be a fair and full representation of the progress of Methodism in the South.
It will occur to you, that if you have succeeded in preparing this volume with any reasonable amount of skill, it will not only be a very acceptable book to the general public, but will add to its value as showing the posture of Southern Methodism at this particular juncture of its history.

It will be especially valuable as a Book of reference.
To whatever question of general interest may arise in regard to the events of 1855, it is hoped that a ready answer will be found in the Annals.
While it is believed that the Ministers in our Church will desire copies as soon as they can be obtained, I have not neglected myself to procure of the tasteful general readers. The older members of the Church will find sketches that carry them back to their earlier careers, as in this department of the year, but have collected whatever has appeared during the year, which, as history and biography, presents a more complete and interesting view of the early men of Southern Methodism.
The work will be published at One Dollar a copy.
Those who subscribe in advance, shall receive the copy immediately, and shall be given a gold gold.
In return a copy will be sent well wrapped and prepaid.

PROSPECTS OF THE
PLYMOUTH BANNER.

THE subscribers having purchased the "Villager" establishment, will be commencing publication a weekly paper, under the above title, about the middle of January, 1856.
Our paper will be "independent in all things, and neutral in nothing," giving all parties and views a respectful hearing. It will be devoted to the interests of Plymouth, North Carolina, and the South--to the cause of Education, Agriculture, and the development of the resources of the State.
We will do all in our power to make our paper interesting to the general reader, as well as to the business man. Proper attention will be given to Marine Lists and Price Currents. In short, we will try to make the "Banner" a neat paper, and a complete one in all classes, from the Farmer to the Statesman, and one worthy the support of those favoring us with their patronage.

TERMS.
1 copy in advance $2 per annum
1 copy in advance $1.00
1 copy at the end of the year, $3.
