MISCELLANY.

ALL DEPENDS ON THE RELIGION. A few days since a certain Minister of a certain Episcopal church, in a certain village, not far from Buffalo, started in his buggy to fulfil an appointment in a town some twenty miles distant. He had driven but a few miles when he discovered that could wiz, that he is not able to designate bischorse was quite lame, and as the evening began to draw nigh, he deemed it Lto stop for the night. In a short time he same to a farm house, in front of which

sation took place:

Minister-"Ah, very good, my horse is quite lame, as you see, and I am somewhat fatigued myself Can you accommodate us for the night?"

Yeoman-"Waal, yes, we can accommodate you, but if you are a clergyman, I must tell you that the fare you will get depends on your religion." Minister-"How so, good sir?"

Yeoman-Why, you see, if a minister is a good Presbyterian, we give him the best we have got; if he is a Baptist or a Methodist he gets pretty good living; but if he is an Episcopalian he can't expect much .-We don't think much of Episcopalians out this way."

Minister-(smiling) "Well, my friend, I am sorry to know that your prejudices are so deeply imbedded; I am an Episcopal clergyman, and I suppose I must content myself with a picked up meal; but let me assure you of one thing; my horse is the bluest Presbyterian you ever saw."

The yeoman was not so obtuse that he did not discover and appreciate the Minister's joke-a joke which, by the way, procured both for man and beast the best that the farmer's larder and barn afforded. Yankce Notions.

Thus far he was exempt from those infirmities. How came it that at this advanced age he was blessed with the absence of those infirmities which are supposed to belong to it?-He owed it to the course of his early life. Franklin (whom he warmly eulogized) was once nicknamed the American Aquatic, because he drank nothing but water .-In that respect he had imitated Franklin. He totally abstained for the first half of his life and was temperate the other half. He had not only totally abstained from spirituous liquors, vinous liquors, fermented liquors, and everything of the kind, but he had kept himself free from every kind of dissipation. He had often set up all night, watching the sick, on military duty, and a book-a book-had often kept him awake; but he had never spent one night of dissi-

A GOOD STORY.

We are kindly permitted to copy the following good anecdote from a private letter just received by a gentleman of this city. from a brother now in Nebraska. The his child wrapped in flames and running Yankee refered to is the right kind of a man for aid. He immediately hastened to the to deal with the "border ruffians" in Kansas. We do not remember to have seen this story in print. Here it is:

ians subject all travellers who make their parched skin was peeling from her body appearance at any of their ferries, and ask and limbs. Poor little oreature, her suf to be crossed into Kansas. MUCH LIKE A PHARISEE.

An exchange paper says: **
Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, on Sunday vening, remarked to his hearers in church one card from another by its name; that he had never witnessed a play, nor yet an opera, and that he had never been to a circus; that he was unable to name different quors by their color or taste; and that ina yeoman, considerably advanced in years to certain improper places he had never en-

And the thanked God he was not as other men are." This is perhaps what the witty author of Hudibras characterized

"Compound for sins they are inclined to By damning those they have no mind to." Mr. Beecher informs the public of what he has not been guilty of, but says nothing about what he has done. There are commands, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," "Thou shalt not steal"-(thy neighbor's "man servant" or his "maid servant" included,) "Thou shalt not kill," which in a Christain minister might be supposed to include buying rifles to kill with, and stimulating other people to use them for that purpose. To say nothing of the negative commands of the New l'estament, to imitate One who knew not suile, and taught peace, charity, and good

A USEFUL ITEM.

Now that winter is with us, and the isually dangerous attendant of ice on the steps, we clip the following important piece of information to housekeepers from one of our exchanges, hoping it will be remembered. If profited by, it ken nose, and fewer stars will be seen with it. in daylight: We wish our readers to know that this ice at the threshold, so disastrous to limbs and so unpleasant in every way, can be removed effectually without the chopping process usually resorted to, by which the doorsteps and the bricks on the sidewalks are disfigured and injured, and more than that sprinkle salt upon it, and it will soon the great Ocean. > TERRIBLE DEATH OF A CHILD. The Richmond Dispatch of late date. publishes the following account of an interesting little girl's death by burning :

On the 5th of this month, a fittle girl named Rosa Ann, in the 10th year of her which cost her her life. In company with when suddenly her clothes took fire, and instantly she was enveloped in flames. Alarmed at her perileus condition, the little creature rushed into a quarter near at hand, but finding no one there to aid her, started for another quarter about twenty yards distant, the flames then encircling over her head. Just at this instant, her father (who, but a moment before had reached home and was enquiring as to the feelings of his sick wife,) heard shrieks and the word "fire," and looking out the window beheld rescue, and seizing her in his arms, plunged her in a pool of duty water, and rolled her in it, thus entinguished the fire; but when he took her out, her clothes had You know the test to which the Missour- been burned from her person, and the and on the evening of the 6th, death came to her relief. Mr. Howard had one of his hands dreadfully burned, but his sufthe agonies of the mind produced by witnessing the countenance of his child, and The ferryman told him his instructions hearing the shrieks and groans whilst wrapped in flames. To use his own language, "the picture of his child, as she appeared in that dreadful moment, is indelibly impressed upon his mind and heart never to be erased."

Another case similar to the above, published in the same paper, as follows:

On Saturday morning last, Dr. J. W. Royster, of Henrico county, lost his little daughter, Virginia D., aged three years, in a most heart rending manner. RESCUE OF PASSENGERS. New York, Dec. 25 .- The passengers of the New York, 300 in number, have all been saved, and landed at Barnegat. The ship lies with her head on the beach, full of water, and the sea breaking over her .-

No further particulars concerning the other wreck. The vessel ashore at South Barnegat, is the bark Tasso, of St. Johns, Newfoundland, with a cargo of coffee and log wood. She is a total loss. Four of the crew and two of the shoremen who went to her assistance, were drowned.

The passengers landed from the wreck of the New York, are in a most destitute condition. One man died last night from hunger and exposure. Seven cabin passengers who arrived at Squam Beach last night, report that after the Captain set them ashore, he returned to the ship and found the cabin in possession of the crew, who fell up n and beat him so badly, that his recovery is considered doubtful.

THE STORM.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 .- There was a heavy south east gale last night. This morning it was very cold. All the Southern bound steamers were detained by the storm. The George Law remained at Quarantine until this morning, and then took her departure.
