THE SAILOR'S CONSOLATION.

BY CHARLES DEDIN.

One night came on a hurricane, The ses was mountains rolling, When Barney Buntine turned his quid, And said to Billy Bowling : "A strong norwester's blowing, Bill; Hark ! don't you hear it roar now ? Lord help 'em, how I pities all Unhappy folks on shore now !

"Foolhardy chaps who live in towns, What danger they are all in, and now lie quaking in their beds, For war the roof shall fall in. Poor creatums, how they envies us,
And wishes, I a notion.
For our good luck, in such a storm, To be upon the ocean.

"And as for them who 're out all day On business from their bouses, And late at hight are coming home To cheer their babes and spouses; While you and L. Bill, on the deck, Are comfortably lying, My eyes! what tiles and chimney-pots

"And very often have we heard How men are killed and undone By overturns of carriages, By thieves and fires in London. We know what risks all landsmen run, From noblemen to tallors ; Then, Bill, let us thank Providence That you and I are sailers !"

About their heads are flying !

MISCELLANY.

A TIGER STORY-FOR LITTLE BOYS AND GIRLS.

Lucy and Fanny were two little girls who lived with their father and mother in London. When Lucy was six and Fanny five years old, their Uncle George | Christian, forgetful of the present, and abcame home from India. This was a great joy to them; he was so kind, and sad, yet soothing meditation. The few had so much to tell them about faraway purple and crimson flowers about the oots places and strange people and animals, of the tree will give him ample food for conand things, such as they had never seen. templation, as emblems of the suffering They never wearied of hearing his sto- and ensanguined death of the Redeemer. ries, and he did not seem to weary either of telling them.

One day after dinner, they both climb-Uncle, do tell us a tiger story !"

"Very well," said he, "I will tell you a story about a tiger and a baby, which happened to some friends of my own. This gentleman and lady had one bor from day to day barely kept his fami y sweet little baby, and they had to take from starvation, and he was unable to give a very long journey with it through a even a small dowry to his three pretty houses there, and they had to sleep in a marry without a dowry; and thus the and cool in a warm country where there is no rain; but then there are no doors or windows to shut as we do at night, to make all safe.

THE GARDEN OF GETHSEMANE

The clover upon the ground was in bloom, and altogether, the garden, in its aspects and associations, was better calculated than any place I know to soothe a troubled spirit. Eight venerable trees, insolated from the smaller and less imposing ones which skirt the pass of the Mount of Olives, form a consecrated grove. High above, on either hand, towers a lofty mountain, with the deep yawning chasm of Je hosaphat between them. Crowning one of them is a living city; on the slope of the other is the great Jewish cemetery-City of the Dead. Each tree in this grove, cankered, and gnarled, and furrowed by age, vet beautiful and impressive in its decay, is a living monument of the affecting scenes that have taken place beneath and around t. The olive perpetuates itself; from the root of the dying parent stem the tree springs into existence. These are accounted one thousand years old. Under those of the preceding growth, therefore, the Saviour was wont to rest; and one of the present may mark the very spot where he knelt, and prayed, and wept. No cavilling doubt can find entrance here. The geographical boundaries are too distinct and clear for an instant's hesitation. Here the sorped in the past, can resign himself to

THE LEGEND OF SANTA CLAUS.

This po, ular name of the saint who preed on his knees, and Lucy said, "O, sides over Christmas and the toy gifts of that welcome season, is derived from Saint Nicholas. The legend of his first appearance is an Italian one. According to this: a shoemaker named Giraldi, who lived in Ferrare, was so miserably poor that his lawild part of India. There were no daughters. It was not thought proper to tent. That is a kind of house made of young girls, though each had an admirer, cloth, by driving high sticks firmly into were compelled to remain single Their the ground, and then drawing curtains father, however, went every morning to all over them. It is very comfortable the shrine to pray to his patron saint. St Nicholas, that he would work a miracle to relieve him from his distress.

One of his nearest neighbors, a rich merchant, who chanced one day to overhear his simple petition, ridiculed the idea of his expecting the saint to take care of his daughters, and recommended him to The lady said, O, I feel so afraid to choose a patron saint who would be able night; I cannot tell you how frightened to do something for him. "Mine," he said. I am. I know there are many tigers "is the Jew Buonajuto; he lends money at and wild animals in the wood; and two percent. a month; and if you know how to manage, you may make four with

> The poor man was shocked at this impious speech, and assured the merchant that his religious fanth could never be shaken. He went every day to church, notwithstanding the other's mockery.

It was now Christmas day, when the merchant and the Jew settled up their yearly accounts; Buonajuto found he owboth lay me down in peace and sleep; for ed his friend three hundred ducats, and thou, Lord, only makest me to dwell in wished to give him an agreeable surprise, "In the middle of the night the lady fully fattened, to be killed and roasted, and he ordered one of the ducks he had carestarted up with a loud cry, 'O, my baby! then with his o an hands introduced the my baby! I dreamed just now that a great | three hundred gold pieces into the inside, and sewed them up. He then sent the duck to the merchant as a Christmas pres-

The merchant's wife, who shared the common prejudices against Jews, declared They ran out of the tent, and there in the she would not touch the duck, and the rich man resolved to sell it. When Giraldi passed on his way home, his neighbor, as usual, bantered him on his devotion, showand yet as quietly as they could, and very stolidity of S int Nicholas, who could not soon they came to a place where they saw even send him a piece of bread. Finally, through the trees that the tiger had laid he offered to sell the duck for a dollar, and down and was playing with the baby, just to wait for payment, as he knew Giraldi hundred ducats fell out, his first exclamation was-"Praise to Saint Nicholas." When he recovered from his surprise, he would have taken the money back, but his wife persuaded him that, as he had bought the duck, it was rightfully his own. He therefore divided the sum between the two suitors for his two eldest daughters.

The merchant, after some days, discovered his loss of the three hundred ducats, and went to the shoemaker to demand the "Yes, the poor lady was very ill after- money, which was refused. DR. JOHNSTON. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London; graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the cars and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfuness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangen ent mind, were cured immediately.

A CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent vetary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that anill-time od sense of shame, or dread of discovery. detera him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone be friend kins, delay-ing till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as aftersated sore throat, diseased nose, noctural pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, designess, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head face and extremities, progressing with frightfulra-pidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commis-seration, till death purs a period to his dreading suf-ferings, by sending him to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns." To such therefore whence no traveller returns. To such therefore, Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable sectory; and, from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease. It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful complaint, owing to the unskilfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadly poison, mercary, tuin the constitute of that deadly poison, mercury, rain the constitu-tion, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an

of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Dr Johnston.

Young men who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage hopossible, and destroys both, aind and body, should angiv immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret nabit.—Such persons, before contemplating

MARRIAGE.

Should reflect that a sound saind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote counsulate happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary piggimage: the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despuir and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of snother becomes blighted with our own.
