A DROLL ACCOUNT.

The Turkish papers are dabbling in A merican politics. Listen to one of them, as follows, on the Kansas question. The language was translated into English by the Constantinople correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune :-

"In the Northern part of America there is a province called Kansas, which, having which there was an abundance. The a very warm climate, its inhabitants are landlord had a little son, about ten years very much given to agriculture. They of age, who accompanied me with his have, therefore, imported a large number of | rifle, and always had extremely good slaves from Africa, and employ them on luck. On one occasion the fates seemed their lands. The people who live to the to be adverse to him; for perceiving a soon after became the idol of Florence north of this province regard slavery as in- squirrel on a very high brauch of a tree, consistent with humanity, and having so he up with his rifle and blazed away, apprised the inhabitants of Kansas, urged them to desist from this improper prac-

Having repeatedly done this, and not having been listened to, the two parties assembled, and after ascertaining the number of each, deputed Representatives to the seat of American Government, called Washington, to have the matter, tried. Now, as there has been for some time past, a great coolness between the members of the Council of Nobles and that of the people in A merica, they could not fall upon any agreement on the subject of the people's quarrel in Kansas. The difficulty increasing daily in strength, it was foreseen that trouble would arise out of it. The enmity existing between the two connoils resulted in each endeavoring to prevent the labors of the other, and consequently nothing was done by either.

Moreover, as the army of the American Republic is wholly disorganized, and consists only of Bashi-Bazouk soldiers, the Council of the people desired to have them . properly trained and placed under some kind of order, with regular rations and pay assigned them. The chief of the republic likewise was in favor of this arrangement, but the Council of the Nobles continued to of the ruin of the foundations of the republic, and the destruction of its government, the chief of it decided upon settling this affair of the army in some manner or other, and for this purpose last August, called up both the Councils and gave them two weeks in which to come to a settlement of their

Now it happens that by the very singular form of rules adopted by said republic, if the People's Council do not also consent to it, the chief of the government, even together with the Council of the Nobles, can not take one aktcha out of the treasury; and as the former would not consent to give him any money for their support, he has had to dismiss all of the soldiers and sell the vessels-of-war to other governments .-Of a troth, it is clearly seen that this discord between the two Councils will very soon cause the ruin of that republic, and proves the value of the peace and happiness which we all enjoy under the benevolent protection of the shadow of our blessed Sul-

TIT FOR TAT.

The following notes passed between two our "belles:"

house, you may look at the collar as much as you please.

In a few days afterwards Miss Anna had a want of her own, and expressed it to Elle as follows:

Dear Ellen: I have engagement to take a ride on horseback this evening, will you ANNA G. lend me your saddle? Dear Anna: I make it a rule never to let my saddle go out of the house, unless used by myself. ELLEN B. P. S-If you will come around to the

Many years ago, I was conversing with my father on the wonderful skill of the Kentuckians, when he related the standing this invraisemblance, the op-following anecdote: some years ago, before the war on a surveying expedition, and had an opportunity of studying the character of the early settlers for a considerable length of time. It became necessary for me to stop a few days at a log tavern, and to while away the time, I took my rifle and explored the wood for game, of and down came the squirrel. The look of dismay with which he viewed his game, I shall never forget. Dropping the butt of his rifle on the ground he burst into tears. In the utmost surprise I inquired what the matter was .-He answerhd:

Daddy'll lick me. Lick you! - what for !

Because I didn't hit him in the head I soothed him all I could but the day's hickory, but it was of no use the applica-ion must be made, if only for example. No, no stranger, if I let him off I break standing rule of our State. I was never let off, and what was good for me is good for him. He must shoot right or put up with what he gets.

The hickory was applied but no bones broken. Such training as that, which was universal in those parts, tell the secret of Kentucky rifle shooting.

THE WEATHER.

SALEM. N. C Jan. 23 .- January has been so far a disagreeable month. And we learn oppose that of the people, and a great quar- from all parts of the country, that the rel arose between them on the subject. This weather this winter has been intensely state of things, therefore, being productive cold.

We truly had a "spell of weather" this week, It commenced snowing Saturday night and continued all day Sunday till some time in the night, when the snow, on a level, was from fourteen to fifteen inches deep. It w s indeed a "snow storm," the wind blowing a strong gale all day, which caused the snow to drift in places from four to five feet deep. The thermometer ranged from 10 to 4 degrees above zero

Up to Thursday night, we have had no Northern or Southern mail since Saturday last, and we learn the cars on the N. C. Railroad have stopped funning, owing to the huge drifts of snow on the road. Since the above, we learn the cars will probably run through again to-day, the track having been cleared of snow. As instances of the severity of the weather, we will state that the stage driver to High Point was so benumbed with eold when he reached the Point, as to be almost helpless. Another driver on the Jefferson, (Ashe County.) route, met with a similar

A CURE FOR SUICIDE.

The number of deaths from suicide in New York last year was sixtytwo. Europe; pouring their deadly fire with During the outnumber was sixty-three, so there has been no remarkable increase: Throughout England the crime of suicide has recently been much on the increase, and in London it has latterly assumed frightful proportion. So serious has the matter become, that the city magistrates propose an appeal to parliament next session, based on returns just made by the Police Commissioners which shows the suicides and attemted suicides in the city have been doubble or quadrupled within the last few years. by long practice and thorough drilling. Duke Alfonso! Thou art my fourth husband and I am a Borgia !"-This passage, in the mouth of a child so completely overthrew the gravity of the audience that an uncontrollable hurst of laughter issued from every part of the theatre, mixed with plaudits for her talent. The unsuitable nature of the character to herage and appearance did not, however, prevent her having an extraordinary amount of success, which never abandoned her, and she and other cities of Italy.

A SAD CASE

We take the following from the Chicago Times of the 10th inst.

rying a little boy in her arms, applied to Mr. Cook at the watch house for shelter, which was given. She stated that she had just arrived in the city from Milwaukie, which place she had left six days ago with her little boy. She carried the child the entire distance. She also stated that she and her child had not tasted a particle of pleasure was over. On returning to food since morning. The appearance of he tavern I interceded for him from the the poor frozen creature and of her suffering child fully attested the truth of what she asserted. Mr. Cook being unable to leave the watch house, was not able to provide for the wants of the sufferers until about ten o'clock in the evening, when he found a gentleman who kindly furnished sufficient povisions for the woman and child and one or two other destitute persons in the watch house, from his house. The woman is a native of Pennsylvania, and said her husband had just died in Wisconsin; she was going home to her relatives. On the following morning, the poor woman left the watch house, with the purpose of endeavoring to induce some one of the railroads to convey her eastward. She was not seen again until evening, when she returned to the watch house, and begged the poor privilege of passing the night there with her child. This was readily granted by Mr Cook, who gave up his odgings to her, and passed the night himself pon a chair. In the morning (yesterday) she again went forth, and had not returned when we visued the watch house in the afternoon. While there, however, a note was brought in from Mr. D. W. Boss, agent of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and hicago Railroad without the solicitation of any one, tendering to the unfortunate woman a pass over that road to Pittsburg .-We sincerely hope that she received it, not only because it would be her quickest way home, but because we would have the blessings of that mother and child rest upon the head of the gentleman who waited not to be asked, but rame or more y to their relief on first hearing of their want. LAUGH AND GROW FAT!

FUN FOR THE MILLION AND EVERY BODY ELSE PROSPECTUS OF "THE THUNDERBOLT.

THE undersigned propose to publish about the first of funuary, 1887, in the City of Raleigh, a Tri monthly paper of the above name. Except politics and religion, it will be generally devoted to every thing, and particularly to the art of merry-making. It will be the chief aim of the Editors to making. It will be the chief aim of the Editors to present to the public. a first class journal of the kind and a we'come visitor to every fireside of the Old North Etate. Having a first rate opportunity to collect matter for a newspaper, and with the flattering promises we have from taleuted writers, subscribers may expect to receive productions from some of the abiest writers in the country, and we sincerely think that they will never regret the appropriation of so small an amount as one dillar, for the amount of volumble-reading matter we shall present. Now all we ask is to give us a fair triol. All orders addressed to Williamson, Finch & Co., will be thankfully received and promptly attended to. Terms $1 per annum parable invariable in advance.
