WITH this issue the BEACON enters its second volume, for fifty-two weeks it has been issued in the interests of the people of Washington county. At all times striving to advance the political, social and financial interests of all. We are sorry to say that the success of the BEACON is not credited to the business men of Plymouth, while a few of them have given us some support the majority have appeared indifferent, taking no interest in it at all.

We hope as the BEACON enters its second volume that our people will come to our assistance. If the people of Plymouth want a good paper they must help to make it such. The editors and publishers of a paper can never give the public a first-class newspaper without the cooperation of the people. The members of the Roanoke Publishing Company are natives of this town and are at work with the determination to put the BEACON on a solid foundation. We have no gold mine to back up the paper therefore they call upon the people of the town to aid them in this and if you fail to do it, the paper will go the way of it's pre-

ANOTHER SUBSTITUTE FOR JUTE.

Progressive Farmer.

The following from Augusta will be read with interest by our readers:

William E. Jackson, a well-known lawyer of this city, has solved the jute bagging problem that has agitated cotton circles for so long. Jackson has perfected mechanical appliances for making bagging from cotton stalks, and he has just returned from New York with a roll of bagging.

Expert cotton men say that it is in every respect equal to jute bagging. He will buy the bare stalks from the farms and can afford to pay about $4 a ton laid down. An annual stalk yield will bale three years' cotton crop. The machinery comprises heavy corrugated rollers, with vats of running water, carding machines and bagging looms. It is estimated that in making bagging from cotton stalks two million dollars annually will be put into the pockets of farmers for what is now cleared from the fields at no expense.

Augusta will be headquarters for the company's mill and officers, which will extend from Virginia to Texas. Jackson had the roll of bagging which is exhibited woven by the jute bagging looms of J. C. Todd, at Patterson, N. J., and he says that experts pronounce it equal to its jute rival. Cotton stalk bagging is less inflammable and is only a shade darker than jute. Cotton circles here are jubilant.

The above would indicate that the problem has at last been solved. The Progressive Farmer, as its readers know, has time and again expressed the opinion that here in lay, not only the solution to the bagging trouble, but a vast saving to the farmers of the south. We are now investigating the claims above set forth and hope to be able at an early day to give to our readers the facts in regard to the matter. Of one thing we feel assured—bagging can and we predict will be made of the fiber of the cotton stalk at a less price than from any product known. Whether the process and appliances claimed by Mr. Jackson is the best to accomplish it is to be tested, but it can and will be done.

MARRIED

REID—DECORMIS.—On Wednesday morning the Baptist church of this place was crowded to its utmost capacity with friends and relatives who had thus assembled to witness the marriage ceremony of Mr. J. E. Reid and Miss Mamie C. DeCormis.

At 8:30 the bridal party arrived and entered the church under the sweet strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. J. E. Davenport. The bride was accompanied to the alter by her brother, Mr. J. — DeCormis and the groom by his best man, Mr. L. P. Hornthal. The ushers for the occasion were John Skittlethorpe and Clarence Latham.

The groom is one of our most prosperous young men, the junior member of the firm of Reid & Duke, and the bride is one of the most lovely ladies of our city.

Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed in a most solemn and impressive manner by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Tuttle, the happy couple left per steamer Plymouth for a bridal trip to the Northern cities.

The BEACON extends congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness. May their lives be as bright as their wedding day.

Notice.

By virtue of a mortgage executed to me by Edward Hines and wife, on July 18th 1888, and duly registered in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washington county, in Book "Z" pages 343 and 345. I will on Monday, June 2nd, 1890, at 12 o'clock m., at the Court House door in Plymouth, sell to the highest bidder for cash the land described in said mortgage. W. C. MARRINER, Mortgagee.

One of the BEST Telescopes in the world. FREE Our facilities are unequaled, and to introduce our superior goods we will send FREE to ONE PERSON in each locality, as above. Only those who write to us at once can make sure of the chance. All you have to do in return is to show our goods to those who call—your neighbors and those around you. The beginning of this advertisement shows the small end of the telescope. The following cut gives the appearance of it reduced to about the fiftieth part of its bulk. It is a grand, double sliding telescope, as large as is easy to carry. We will also show you how you can make from $3 to $10 a day at least, from the start, without experience. Better write at once. We pay all express charges. Address, H.
