GYNCH LAW JUSTIPIED

port of the Grand Jury in the New Orleans Affair.

at An Indictment Presented-Work of Averagors Upheld by the Populace-Jury Bribing in the Hennessy Trial.

The New Orleans grand jury has just made special report embodying the result of its restigation of the mistrial of the men charged with the murder of David C. Hennessy, chief police of New Orleans, and the lynching of Leven Sicilians on Saturday, March 14, which has been the subject of correspondence be-tween the government of the United States and Italy. The grand jury has been investiting the case for six weeks. The result of in work is the conclusion that at least three, if not more, of the jurors in the case of the asains were unduly and unlawfully controlled by money influence in their decision, and that the syngathy of the community is so strong in approval of the lynching of the prisoners that no number of individuals can be held accountable that the whole parish and city of New Orleans is responsible.

THE JURY WAS BRIBED.

The report is a lengthy document. It begins by characterizing the atrocity of the as-maximation of Chief of Police Hennessy, who killed because he was the city's chief cor charged with the enforcement of the

There is no doubt these attempts were made by various parties in the service of the defense. 'When indignantly repailed, the insulting proposal would be turned off as a joke. Some of the talesmen took special care to deny any knowtalesmen took special oare to deny any know-ledge of the vile work or showed remarkable deficiency of memory. others related their experiences from a sense of duty. The grand jury says the jury lists were tampered with when drawn from the wheel and before they reached the jury-box in court. A private de-tective agency was supplied with the lists. The deputy sheriffs were unreliable, and the grand jury suspects them of sympathy with the accused calculated to embarrass the best directed efforts of the prosecution. ed efforts of the prosecution.

INDICTMENTS FOUND. The grand jury indicts six men, as follows: Thomas McCrystal and John Cooney, with D. C. O'Malley, for attempting to bribe a talesman, and. Bernard Glaudi, Charles Ganger and Ferneard Armant for attempt by each to brile three different talesmen. These parties

WERT ERS THE LAW WAS POWERLESS. The condition of affairs in this community as to a certain class of violators of the law had eached such a state that the law itself was reached such a state that the law itself was well nigh powerless to deal with them, so far-reaching was their power and influence in the trial of criminal cases. Good citizens were profoundly impressed by the repeated and signal failures of justice. The arts of the per-jurer and briber seemed to dominate in the courts, paralyning and rendering powerless the ends of justice. Certainly this was a des-perate situation. In the public meeting above referred to, general and spontaneous in char-acter—as truly indicating an uprising of the masses—we doubt if any power at the com-mand of the authorities would have been suffi-cient to evercome its intentions. Evidence is before us from official sources that eleven per-sons were killed in the stateck on the parish prison. In the careful examination as to prison. In the careful examination as to citizenship of those men we find that eight of them were beyond question American citizens, and another had 'declared his intention' in this court, which act carries with it the renun-ciation of allegiance to his native country.

NO INDIVIDUALS TO BLAME.

"It is a noteworthy fact in connection with the uprising that no injury whatever was done to either person or property beyond the one act which seemed to have been the object of act which seemed to have been the object of the assemblage at the parish prison. We have referred to the large number of citizens par-ticipating in this demonstration, estimated by judges at from 6,000 to 8,000, regarded as a spontaneous uprising of the people. The magnitude of this affair makes it a difficult task to fix the guilt upon any number of par-ticipants—in fact, the act seemed to involve the entire people of the parish and city of New Orleans, so profuse is their sympathy and ex-tended their connection with the affair.

"In view of these considerations the thor-ough examination of the subject has failed to ough examination of the subject has failed to disclose the necessary facts to justify this grand jury in presenting indictments." The report is signed by Geo. H. Vennard, O. Carriere, David Stuart, G. A. Hoosett, Jr., E. Gauch, S. R. Graham, T. W. Castleman, W. L. Saxon, G. C. Lafsye, John Jackson, Paul J. Christian, Emile E. Haley, A. S. Rau-latt, H. Haller, W. B. SECRETARY OF PUBLIC HEALTH.

A New Cabinet Officer Proposed by the American Medical Association.

The American Medical Association began its annual session in Washington, D. C. Dr. W. Y. Briggs, of Nashville, the President, said in his address that as practical physicians. surgeons and gynecologists and as dentists Americans lead the world. Even Virchow was glad to give this praise where so plainly due. The cry now is for a higher grade of education, and when this is reached the American Medical Association can congratulate itselfon having achieved one of its objects. Dr. Comeygs, of Ohio, moved that a com-mittee be appointed to petition Congress to create a Cabinet officer to be known as the Secretary of Public Health. He argued that the scientific world needs such a representative, who should be of more authority and more importance that a Commissioner can be. If a Cabinet position were held by a representative of science he might give such attention to that side of public demands as is now given to commerce or agriculture. The motion was carried, and Dr. Comeygs, Dr. N.S. Davis, of Illinois, and Dr. Richardson, of Indiana, were appointed the committee. Dr. C. A. L. Reed, of Ohio, moved to invite the profession of the Western Hemisphere to assemble in the United States for a continental congress. The motion was carried and the Committee on Nominations was instructed to appoint one physician from each State and Territory and one from each of the Army, Navy and Marine Metucal Boards to effect permanent organization and to determine the time and place for the first meeting.

He Didn't See the Joke.

This tale arrives from New Zealand The government being anxidas to ac-climatize the chamois, in order to execute this laudable object, asked parliament for a vote of one hundred and fifty pounds. When the vote came up for discussion an honorable member said indignantly .--

"I should like to hear from the government exactly what these 'sham-mies' are. I am told that they are a cross between a pig and a sheep." "There is a book about them in the library," politely replied a member on the other side of the house; "I'll go and letch it for you."

The querist, touched by this act of courtesy, graciously received the volume and began reading out, in a pompous voice, the passage pointed out to hima famous passage from one of the works of that eminent naturalist, Mark Twain. The house quickly realized the joke. Not so the queer querist. When became to the statement that the "chamois is no bigger than a mustard seed," he stopped and subsided into his seat.

An Honest King.

Whoever reads the following must own to a feeling of respect as well as liking for the honest king.

King Frederick VI., of Denmark, while traveling through Jutland, one day entered a village school, and found the children lively and intelligent and quite ready to answer his questions.

"Well, youngsters," hersaid, "what are the names of the greatest kings of Denmark?"

With one accord they cried out,-"Canute the Great, Waldemar and King Christian IV." Just then a little girl to whom the schoolmaster had whispered something stood up and raised her hand.

"Do you know another?" asked the king. "Yes; Frederick VI."

"What great act did he perform?" The girl hung her head and stammered.-

"I don't know."

"Be comforted my child ," said the king; "I don't know either."

THERE has been so much justly said about the prejudicial effects of overwork, especially in using up the powers of man and cutting short his life, that it may be hastily assumed by some that work itself is opposed to length of days. This, however, is a fatal mistake. Whatever may be proved concerning the comparative tendencies of different employments to shorten life, it will always be found that a life of idleness will surpass them all. The faculties of man, used and not abused, serve not only to benefit the world, but even more to benefit himself. His health, happiness, and length of life depends largely upon the regular, steady, and fuil-not excessive-employment of his powers. He who neglects this law and suffers them to run to waste, leading an aimless and vacant life, will reap the penality quite as much in his own in-

What is lacking is truth and confidence.

If there were absolute truth on the one hand and absolute confidence on the other, it wouldn't be necessary for the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh statement of fact by a $500 guarantee.

We want men of original action, who can open their eyes wider than to a nationality, namely, to considerations of benefit to the human race, can act in the interest of civilization; men of elastic, men of moral mind, who can live in the moment and take a step forward.

"Patent Medicines Did No Good." 52 SHEFFIELD AVE., CHICAGO, Mch. 20, '90. I received your sample bottle of Floraplex-ion, also your letter of last Monday. After considerable hesitation, I concluded to give it a trial, as I had already taken so much patent medicine, and been so unsuccessful with it, and not having benefited me any, that it seemed like money thrown away; but I procured the Floraplexion, and have taken four bottles, and feel it has greatly relieved my dyspepsia.

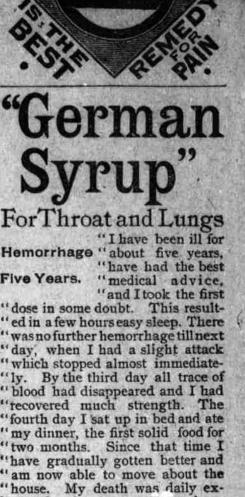

Intelligent Sparrows.

In a country town the English sparrows took possession of the eaves and the attic of the court-house, built their nests there, and fought and propagated with tireless and noisy energy. One day in the spring came a butcher bird and lighted on a tree near the court-Remedy to back up a plain house. Before the arrival of the butcher bird perhaps two hundred sparrows were hopping and flying about in peace if not in quietness. In an instant they had all disappeared. You would have not known that there was a sparrow in town had it not been for an occasional ow chirp under the eaves of the courthouse. Now, probably none of these scamps had ever seen a butcher bird before. But some instinct told them that he meant mischief, and, not standing upon the order of their going, they went at once. For two days the butch-er bird made his home in that tree, killing several robins, but not a sparrow. They, like Brer Rabbit, lay low. On the third day a clerk in the courthouse shot the butcher bird. The sparrows must have been looking on, for their dead enemy had hardly touched the ground before every one of them was there too, foraging with appetites sharpened by a two days' fast. They paid no attention to the man with the gun nor to the butcher bird, but just went industriously to work filling their little crops. What other bird has such discernment? How did they know their enemy was dead? How did they know that the same weapon which had killed him would not kill them? They did know both things in some way. If for nothing else but their smartness the sparrows ought to be encouraged by a smart people like ourselves.

"DETECTIVE O'MALLEY BLAMED. The conclusion is reached by the grand jury "that Dominick C₁ O'Malley is chargeable with a knowledge of and participation in most, if not all, of the unlawful acts in connection with that celebrated case. With his skill, as equired by years of experience, the most cumningly devised schemes were planned and exe uted for defeating the legitimate course of justice, the chief aim and object being to place its worthy men upon the jury in the trial of the nine accused. Without his assiduous and corrupting influence we believe the verdict would have been radically different, and, as a natural consequence, the tragt becurrence of the 14th of March last never yould have been recorded."

A disastrons wreck occurred on the Pan-Handle Railroad, four miles west of Denison, Ohio, at eleven o'clock A. M., being a collision between the limited mail No. 7 west, and passenger No. 10 east. Daviel Longnecker, Columbus, baggage-muster on No., 10 was instantly killed. He was formerly a conductor on the same road, and a prominent ex-soldier. Three or four cars were demolished, and trains delayed about six hours.

At the point of the accident a double track begins and it is the usual place for the trains to pass. The passenger was running at a high speed. Engineer Thomas Irwin states the air-brakes failed him at the point of the accident, and he ran out on to the single track, and was in the act of reversing to get back when the in the act of reversing to get back when the accident occurred. The two engines were fairly welded together, so great was the force. The first mail and baggage car were smashed into kindling wood.

The occupants of the rear coaches and mail car occupants of the rear coaches and mail car were badly shaken up but escaped serious in-jury. In the front cars of No. 10, however, the occupants fared diffently. Longnecker was literally crushed to death, dving almost instantly. Express Messenger Marvin was badly bruised, and Postal Clerks C. D. Rogers, Samuel Crouch and — Miller, all of the first car, were more or less injured internally, as well as bruised about the body and limbs. The dead and injured were taken to Denison, where dead and injured were taken to Denison, where medical aid was furnished.

A POLICEMAN'S CRIME.

He Goes Insane Over the Loss of His Wife and Shoots His Daughter.

A terrible deed was committed in Chicago, Ill., by Police Officer Hugh Burns, who is probably the murderer of his daughter Iva. Burns had been acting in a peculiar manner since the death of his wife, some weeks ago, and when he returned home from the station his daughter noticed that his behaviour was unusually strange. She questioned him, and in a fit of passion he drew his revolver and fired two shots at the girl.

fired two shots at the girl. The first bullet entered the left breast, just above the heart, and will probably prove fital. The second ball made a slight fiesh wound in the thigh. Burns has been on the force a number of years. He was placed under arrest. Burns is the father of eight children, the one shot being his only daughter. She was the object of his love and pride, and he was never tired of dilating on her beauty to his friends. "She is the idol of my life," he would say. When arrested he delivered up his revolver, and remarked that if he had some more cart-ridges he would kill himself and his other children. He is violently insane.
