NORTH CAROLINA SAFE.
The returns up to this writing is sufficient to show that North Carolina has gone Democratic by a good majority, though that party has lost heavily.

Democrats will control the Legislature by a small majority, and the Judicial ticket has been elected. The returns show that the Democratic Judges are elected with a majority of between 5,000 and 10,000.

A heavy vote has been polled all over the State. In some counties the Populists elected their county tickets, in others fusion was complete.

DEMOCRATS LOSE.
It is conceded that the Democrats have sustained heavy losses all over the country. There seems to have been a Republican landslide. New York goes Republican by over 100,000. It is now thought the next Congress and Senate will be under the Republicans. The Populists don't seem to have gained anything in the way of a victory, unless they consider the defeat of Democracy a victory on their side.

It is yet too early to say what the Republican majority is or will be.

We have to go to press too early to give a very correct report of the election, but will do so in our next.

The small pox in the city of Washington is still holding its own. It seems hard to get it under control.

The President has set apart Thursday, November 29th as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer in these United States. It is proper that a season be set apart for prayer, but the people should be thankful at all times and not wait for the President to call their attention to such a duty.

It is charged that fraud was committed in this county on the day of election. Of course it was expected that such charges would be made, as is always the case, but as an honest Democrat we hope the matter will be investigated, and if fraud has been committed by a Democrat that he may be exposed. We believe that elections should be held fairly, and the man who commits fraud should be punished. Democracy, as we understand it, means honesty, and if it proves less we are ready to condemn it. We had rather see the party forever out of power than to know it held its power by fraud.

In case of fraud, as charged in this county, it is hard to place the crime upon the proper person, therefore men should be very careful what charges they make, and should be prepared to prove them.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Washington, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhea of long standing in six hours, with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take.

LOW SPIRITS.

In the battle of life there are times when even the active and courageous are subjected to what is commonly called "blues." Some give way to the oppression as the opium addict submits to the fatal influence of the drug. Some partially resist and become irritable, nervous and unreasonably, while many, looking through the atmosphere enveloping them, see the world going wrong, and every man's hand turned against them. In most cases the failure to resist despondency makes the repetition of attacks more frequent and burdensome. The cause producing the conditions are generally physical, brought on by nervous reaction, disappointment, defeat of plans or physical ailment, and perhaps in most cases the result of dyspepsia, reducing the physical tone below normal. Every failure to exercise the will power in resisting depression of spirits makes the next effort more difficult.

It is a notable fact that many business mistakes are made under the influence of an attack of the "blues." A gentleman recently said in our office that he had suddenly given up his business, writing the request to be released from his contract obligation, while under such a spell. We doubt not that a large proportion of employees who give up work suddenly are led to make the step because of the sensitive condition of mind they are in at the time. Professional men, and some in high places, are not exempt from it. Despondency makes men hopeless and pessimistic, saps ambition and energy; while hope buoy's up and stimulates. The world sees the sparkle of hope in the eye of the earnest man, but turns its back on the pessimist.

There are notable examples of persons who recognized their weakness in this respect, and, by persistent effort, were able to resist the attack or ward it off. Daniel Webster, after one of his great efforts, was subject to a violent nervous reaction, and his remedy was to play chess for hours, if necessary, to recover his normal condition. Miss Phebe Cary, when "out of sorts," would go to her room and rest until her "serenity of soul was restored." An eminent physician once told us that it was his habit to attend some entertainment regularly once a week to relax his nerves and prevent the condition of body and mind that superinduces low spirits. A prominent minister claims to have cured himself by riding a wheel. A mother of eight boys preserved a lovely and serene condition of mind, which left its impress on her family, by retiring for a quiet prayer at the first symptom of irritation. Worn, tired and irritable people are subjects of sympathy, and their condition is often changed by a sympathetic or hopeful word, but if they lose all hope, their condition is deplorable. This is more likely to be the case with idle people. Those who are at work have less time for blues. Those who are overworked should have a change, if possible, for relaxation. Many a boy has been awakened by being put to work, or by being encouraged in his work. Let those who are inclined to become low spirited study their needs, and find in some of these or other diversion a remedy, and they will be surprised at the result.

For pain in the side or chest there is nothing so good as a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound over the seat of pain. It affords prompt and permanent relief and if used in time will often prevent a cold from resulting in pneumonia. This same treatment is a sure cure for lameness.

ONCE MORE.

Across the years that intervene,
Once more we met;
Across the river dark between,
Where fits above the waves serene,
Dim-eyed Regret.
Once more as eyes looked into eyes
And hand clasped hand,
We saw the pale young moon arise
And tremble into the sapphire skies
That kissed the land,
We saw the moonlit waves unshathe
Their blades of light;
We heard the sad-voiced night-wind
Breathe
And caught the gleam of stars that breathe
The brow of night.
The dreary Past behind us lay,
Its woes forgot;
The shadowy Future fled away,
We only knew the sweet To-day
And grief was not.
No shadow of relentless Fate;
But hand in hand,
We stood beside the golden gate
Through which we longed to pass elate
Into Love's land.
But surged the river back between,
And ever yet
Across its rippling silvery sheen,
There fits above its waves serene
Dim-eyed Regret.

Danger From Catarrh.

The most important feature about that very common complaint, catarrh in the head, is its tendency to develop into some other more serious and dangerous disease. The foul matter dropping from the head into the bronchial tubes or lungs is very liable to lead to bronchitis or consumption, that destroyer which causes more deaths in this country than any other disease. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do but little good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. The powerful action of this medicine upon the blood expels every impurity, and by so doing cures catarrh and gives health to the entire organism.

Scrofula Cured—Blood Purified by Hood's Sarsaparilla.
"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass."
"It is with pleasure that I send a testimonial concerning what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for my daughter. It is a wonderful medicine and I cannot recommend it too highly. Sarah, who is fourteen years old, has been

Afflicted With Scrofula ever since she was one year old. For five years she has had a running sore on one side of her face. We tried every remedy recommended, but nothing did her any good until we commenced using Hood's Sarsaparilla. My married daughter advised me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla because

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures
It had cured her of dyspepsia. She had been troubled with that complaint since childhood, and since her cure she has never been without a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house. We commenced giving it to Sarah about one year ago, and it has conquered the running sore,

Only a Scar Remaining as a trace of the dreadful disease. Previous to taking the medicine her eyesight was affected but now she can see perfectly. In connection with Hood's Sarsaparilla we have used Hood's Vegetable Pills, and find them the best. MRS. MARIA GRIFFIN, Xenia, Illinois.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headache, indigestion, biliousness. Sold by all druggists.
