

MY OWN FAMILY USE
PE-RU-NA.

HON. GEORGE W. HONEY.

Hon. George W. Honey, National Chaplain U. S. Army, ex-Chaplain Fourth Wisconsin Cavalry, ex-Treasurer State of Wisconsin, and ex-Quartermaster General State of Texas (G. A. R., writes from 1700 First St., N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows: "I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms. Some members of my own family have used it with most gratifying results. When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence. Mr. Fred L. Hebard, for nine years a leading photographer of Kansas City, Mo., located at the northeast corner of 12th and Grand Aves., cheerfully gives the following testimony: "It is a proven fact that Peruna will cure catarrh and la grippe, and as a tonic it has no equal. Druggists have tried to make me take something else just as good, but Peruna is good enough for me."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous efforts have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which represent the solid medicinal ingredients of Peruna.

Peruna is sold by your local druggist. Buy a bottle today.

TESTING PAINT.

Property owners should know how to prove the purity and quality of white lead, the most important paint ingredient, before paying for it. To all who write, National Lead Co., the largest manufacturers of pure white lead, send a free outfit with which to make a simple and sure test of white lead, and also a free book about paint. Their address is Woodbridge Bldg., New York City.

CURES ALL ITCHING ERUPTIONS.
Glencoe, Md., Nov. 21st, 1907: "I have had eczema on my hands for 12 years, and have tried everything. I have been using Tetterine 4 days and the results are great." Signed, Mrs. M. Harvey. Tetterine is the surest, safest, speediest cure for eczema and all other skin diseases. Sold by druggists or sent by mail for 50c. by J. T. SAURFINS, Dept. A, Savannah, Ga.

Not So Much.

"Are your exercises benefiting you any?"

"Yes; I am getting a fine muscular development."

"Giving exhibitions to your friends?"

"Well, I picked up a fifty-pound cage of ice left by the iceman this morning and swung it around as though it had been a feather."

To Hold Him.

Nan—That's a beautiful solitaire Dick gave you. I wonder if you know what a fickle young man he is?

Fan—Indeed I do; that's why I made him give me such an expensive one.—Chicago Tribune.

NOT WORRYING HIM.

"Wonder what that was we had for breakfast this morning?" said the wife to her husband on shipboard.

"Oh, is that troubling you yet, dear?" replied the husband, looking toward the table. "I gave it up long ago!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Architectural Discernment.

"Will you walk into my parlor?" Said the spider to the fly
And meanwhile as he said it
He winked the other eye.
"You haven't any parlor,"
Said the nifty fly, "although
I might consent to ramble
Down through your bungalow."

Modern Methods That Are Helpful to Farmer, Fruit Grower and Stockman.

Danger in Crimson Clover Feed.

A veterinarian stopped me on the street to-day to show me a ball he had taken from a horse. It was rather larger than an ordinary baseball, and he said that in a post-mortem examination he removed eleven such balls from one horse, in which they had burst the intestines. He said that the crimson clover hay the horse had been fed had been cut as soon as in bloom, and in the balls there was no appearance of the stiff hairs that form on the heads, but the ball was made up of felted layers of very fine material like the hairs that cover the entire plant. He showed me a part of one ball that he had cut open, and this showed layers of felt as tough as an ordinary felt hat, and not a sign of stiff blossom hairs could be found.

Some time ago another veterinary practitioner in this State told me that he thought that the advice in regard to the cutting early was wrong, and that it is not the blossom hairs that injure the horses, for that in his practice he had found the early cut clover more dangerous than that allowed to get more ripe.

It seems evident that we must fight shy of crimson clover as horse feed. In the case first cited a very valuable horse was killed, and killed by clover that was cut early, too. Then, if the early cut clover is dangerous to horses, the later cut should be more dangerous, and it seems to me to be the part of wisdom to abandon crimson clover as a food for horses. For ruminating animals it will probably do no harm, but those who have made crimson clover hay should be very cautious indeed in feeding it to horses.

As a rule, I dislike to use a good feed crop as manure direct, but in the case of crimson clover we have a crop that comes at a season when the curing is difficult, and it is the hardest of all the legumes to make into good hay. But as a green manure crop, to be followed by a hoed crop like potatoes or cotton or corn, it has a great value, and I would rather advise its use in this way than to run the risk of killing valuable horses by feeding it.

Coming in as a catch crop sown among corn, it certainly makes a valuable soil cover in winter, and a crop that will largely increase the crop planted after its turning under in the spring. I have heretofore been inclined to value crimson clover mainly as a soil improver and am more than ever impressed with the necessity of using it in this way from what I have seen to-day. But it is too valuable a plant for this purpose for any farmer to neglect it, and it is well worth growing, even if we do not make hay of it. To the dairyman, the hay will be perfectly safe if he can make it right. And there is the greatest difficulty I have ever had, for while I can easily make the best of hay from cowpeas, I have never had satisfactory success in trying to cure crimson clover.—W. F. Massey, in Progressive Farmer.

Mutton Chops.

Breed for fleeces that are as uniform in all parts as practical. After a sheep is four years old its fleece commonly declines in yields and value.

Sheep help to enrich the soil and to solve the labor problem at the same time.

Spend less money in fighting grass and weeds and use sheep to make money out of them.

Do not hesitate to pay a good price for a good ram. His offspring will soon repay it with good interest. Some of the best mutton sheep produce profitable fleeces, and of course their lambs are best for mutton.

When the skin is pink or yellowish expect a good quality of wool. When the skin is off do not expect a superior fleece.

While a liberal secretion of yolk is favorable to a good fleece, the yolk should be clear and transparent—not too thick or gummy.

Fineness, length and strength of fibre are the qualities that make a good fleece. The breeder cannot build up his flock if he does not select with these points in view.

Indications are that the demand for good mutton will continue to increase as it has for some time, and suggests the advantage of breeds that give a good fleece and a good carcass.—Progressive Farmer.

Sheep Pointers.

A sheep that has a bare face and bare legs tends to be a light yielder of wool, while one that has a woolly face and woolly legs tends toward a heavier yield.

The yolk is always secreted more abundantly under high temperature, so that warm sheds stimulate its production and the growth of a better fibre.

Sheep have a tendency in the warm

South not to be heavy yielders of wool, so that if the grower wants to get a good fleece in the South he must certainly breed for it.

Thousands of acres of hilly Southern land should never be touched by a plow, and can hardly be put to better use than for sheep grazing. The land would be kept from washing and the soil would be improved.

Softness and pliancy of wool are usually accompanied by its fineness. Wool that feels hard and dry is not first-class. Such a condition of the wool may be due to poor breeding, disease, old age, or abuse.

The yolk consists principally of animal oil and potash, which promote the growth of the fleece and prevent friction. Good feeding, shelter and care induce a liberal secretion of yolk. Exposure injures the wool by diminishing the yolk.

Neglect or bad exposure, a period of sickness or anything else that makes a sheep unthrifty or impairs its vitality will reduce the length and strength of the fibre. A sheep that is not well fed cannot produce the best wool or the most of it.—Progressive Farmer.

Enemies of the Moth.

Some of the most effective enemies of the gypsy and brown-tail moths are being raised in large numbers at Superintendent Kirkland's little experimental station in the centre of the infested district. The enemies that have so far proved most active are of several classes, and are being tested and compared with some care. The large callosoma beetles climb the trees and immediately seize and devour the caterpillars. The tachinid flies lay their eggs upon the skin of the caterpillar, and when the eggs hatch the young insects bore into caterpillar and feed upon it. Another group of flies feed upon the insects in very much the same manner as the one just described. Still another is a tiny midge that lays its eggs inside of the eggs of the caterpillar, effecting its destruction. These species in addition to certain fungus diseases are relied upon chiefly to reduce the number of the moths, but it will take a number of years for these enemies to increase enough to make their presence generally noticed.—American Cultivator.

Who Will Get the Profits?

The spread of alfalfa growing may cause some to ask what will be done with so much alfalfa hay? It is being shipped a thousand miles into the South, which does not indicate that there is any need to worry about where the market will be found. The home market will take all that will be grown for some years to come. If the time should arrive when the home markets do not readily take all that is offered, live stock would be raised to eat the alfalfa on the farm, with big profit.

Alfalfa is coming South, and will get here in the form of big green fields or as baled hay. The question is not what will be done with the alfalfa, but how much of it can be grown in the South and who will pocket the big profits?—Progressive Farmer.

Don't Mix Lime With Manure.

Lime, as we have often said, should never be mixed in manure nor in a fertilizer containing nitrogen. In a fertilizer containing only acid phosphate and potash it may not do as much damage, but it will tend to make the phosphoric acid less available by reverting it to a less soluble state, and hence should never be mixed with any fertilizer. You can apply without damage where a fertilizer has already been applied to the soil after the soil has taken it. Lime may lessen the immediate value of a non-ammoniated fertilizer, but will not injure its permanent value, but I had rather not mix them before putting them in the soil.

Mutton in Hot Weather.

The small size of sheep fit them well for furnishing fresh meat in warm weather to those who do not live near the market, since the whole carcass can be eaten by a small number of families before it spoils. Neighbors usually will be glad to buy a little mutton.

Best Poultry House for South.

Open front houses are best for poultry in the South all the year, and during the hot season they are doubly good. Let the birds air off in summer. Good air costs nothing, and is just as useful as good feed. Let the birds have an abundance of it.

Fertilizers for Wet Land.

To get any results from an application of lime or fertilizer the land should be drained, and if it cannot be drained, do not waste money in putting lime or fertilizer on it.—W. F. Massey.

Dangerous Comparison.

"Well," said the man who is running for office, "suppose I do think I am bigger than my party. What then?"

"In that case," replied the cool campaigner, "your party is liable to dwindle in a way that'll leave no possible doubt as to the correctness of your estimate."—Washington Star.

AWFUL GRAVEL ATTACKS

Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills After Years of Suffering.

F. A. Rippey, Depot Ave., Gallatin, Tenn., says: "Fifteen years ago kidney disease attacked me. The pain in my back was so agonizing I finally had to give up work. Then came terrible attacks of gravel with acute pain and passages of blood. In all I passed 25 stones, some as large as a bean. Nine years of this ran me down to a state of continual weakness, and I thought I never would be better until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The improvement was rapid, and since using four boxes I am cured and have never had any return of the trouble."

DOCTOR PRESCRIBED CUTICURA

After Other Treatment Failed—Raw Eczema on Baby's Face Had Lasted Three Months.

"Our baby boy broke out with eczema on his face when one month old. One place on the side of his face the size of a nickel was raw like beefsteak for three months, and he would cry out when I bathed the parts that were sore and broken out. I gave him three months' treatment from a good doctor, but at the end of that time the child was no better. Then my doctor recommended Cuticura. After using a cake of Cuticura Soap, a third of a box of Cuticura Ointment, and half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent he was well and his face was as smooth as any baby's. He is now two years and a half old and no eczema has reappeared. Mrs. M. L. Harris, Alton, Kan., May 14 and June 12, 1907."
