New Year Just Begins.

My best wishes were mingled with those of your friends. I hope you spent a pleasant holiday and entered the New Year with only such good resolutions as you can keep.

The year just passed was indeed a most prosperous one to nearly all our people. I shared the prosperity with you, and now take this method of returning thanks to each one who contributed to my success in 1911, and in wishing continued prosperity during 1912.

I ask that you continue to contribute to my success by letting me supply your wants in Dry Goods, Notions, Shoes, Etc., and especially in Groceries. I promise you the same fair, courteous treatment in the future as I have tried to give you in the past. I surely appreciate your trade and again thanking you for past patronage, I solicit a share, at least of your future orders.

Yours to Satisfy,

Clyde Cahoon.
