

FULL STEAM AHEAD ON CANNING.—WHY?

- BECAUSE:
1. Canning saves the crops
 2. Canning saves transportation
 3. Canning saves labor
 4. Canning builds up homes reserves.
 5. We can afford to waste nothing.

SLOW ON SUGAR.—WHY?

- BECAUSE:
1. German submarines sunk sugar.
 2. German submarines sunk sugar boats
 3. Boats have been released to help feed Belgium.
 4. Germans have rendered useless sugar beet factories of Northern France.
 5. Our own crop of sugar is smaller than anticipated.

Are you a "good provider" Mrs. Housekeeper? Then full steam ahead on canning. Never mind the shortage of sugar. Take care of the fruit now and the future will take care of itself.

Who says you need sugar for canning? You don't!

SAVE SUGAR IN CANNING

Sugar is not needed as a preservative if fruit is properly sterilized and sealed. By canning we can get along without the use of heavy syrups and thus save sugar.

FRUIT JUICE

Fruit juices can be bottled without sugar and used as fruit drinks, in jelly desserts, pudding sauces, and ice cream.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING FRUIT JUICES:

Prepare fruit cook until soft and strain. Put the strained juice for the amount and pour it into jars or glass bottles that have been sterilized by boiling for 15 minutes, filling the jars to overflowing. Seal the jars immediately. Stopper the bottles with corks sterilized in the same manner as the bottles, and make air-tight seal by dipping the cork and the lip of the bottle into hot paraffin. When sugar is more plentiful, fruit juices may be made into jelly.

SUGAR SUBSTITUTES.

Extensive and conclusive tests have shown that corn sugar, corn syrup, cane syrup, and sorghum syrup may be used in making preserves and marmalades which do not suffer in comparison with the same products in which sugar is used. Use substitutes!

Write to John Paul Lucas, Conservation Director, Food Administration, Raleigh, N. C., for leaflet containing formulae, recipes and suggestions for the use of sugar substitutes.
