

STRONG PROOF IS OFFERED BY TATE

"Hardly a man comes to the shop I don't tell about Tanlac," said J. S. Tate, 503 E. Main St., Charlottesville, Va., Battery Repairer for Irwin-Way-Hill Co.

"All my life I suffered from constipation and for three years past my stomach was in such terrible shape I could eat barely enough to keep body and soul together. My nerves were shattered, neuralgia almost blinded me at times, and I was losing ground so fast it was a question how much longer I could last.

"I was tempted to quit taking Tanlac after my second bottle, but fortunately, I stuck to the treatment, and it increased my weight and made me a well man. I took my last dose last spring but haven't felt a touch of constipation or any other ailment since. Just put me down in black and white as being strong for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

POULTRY

Real Meaning of Term "Sports" Not Understood

The real meaning of the term "sports," as applied to fowls, is not quite understood by a good many poultry keepers. Now, in breeding many varieties there will often come a chicken that is contrary to the parent birds, and the reason for this sometimes seems very strange.

For example, those who have bred Silver Laced Wyandottes know that frequently a white one, and occasionally a black one, will be produced, and it was the breeding together of these so-called sports that gave us the two distinct colors, the White Wyandotte and the Black Wyandotte, as we know them today. Where very lightly laced birds are used there is a greater tendency to white, and just the opposite when a very heavily laced bird is used, the sport here coming black. Partridge Wyandottes will also throw a few white ones, and those who breed them in big quantities will produce perhaps four or five white ones during the year.

Another common example of "sports" is found in the fact that oftentimes a rose comb breed will throw a single comb fowl. There is always an occasional tendency in this direction, and it does not prove that the parent stock is bad, nor that it does not measure up to the required purebred standard. Many of our present-day breeds are the results of working from sports. The Black Plymouth came first from the barred, and for years no one ever heard of a male chicken coming black, these being all females. Today we have a distinct breed known as the Black Rock.

It is probable that all of our more than a hundred modern varieties of poultry descended from the one kind of original jungle fowl. In fact, most of our now numerous varieties have been created during the past 40 or 50 years. The old breeds, like the Black Langshans, do not often produce sports, for the reason that they have been bred pure for many hundreds of years, perhaps for thousands of years. But modern breeds, such as the Orpingtons, Rhode Island Reds, etc., are given to producing sports.

Movable Roosting Coops Good for Young Fowls

When the chicks are old enough to leave the brood coops and when they are weaned from broody hens or brooders, they grow so rapidly that they need more room. To meet this requirement, poultrymen use what are known as roosting coops. These are structures about six feet long, three feet wide, three feet high in front and two feet high at the rear. They have waterproof roofs, but the front side and one end, or the front side and two ends, are covered with wire so that the air can circulate through freely in warm weather, but hostile animals cannot get in.

To keep out driving rains or for use in cooler weather, particularly when the chicks are first put in and the nights are chilly, curtains of cloth or burlap are attached to the tops of the open sides so that they can be rolled down and fastened to protect the chicks when necessary. The curtain covering each side is made separate from the others so that much or little space may be left open according to requirements and according to which way the wind blows or the storm drives.

These little buildings should be movable and it is a good plan to place them on skids with rounded ends so that they can be drawn from place to place, thus affording a fresh, new location every day or two. Many poultry keepers block up these little houses so that there is a space between the floor and the ground which affords a cool, shady place for the chicks during hot days.

Poultry Notes

Don't crowd; better sell some of the birds and make room.

When lice come into the hen house, profit usually goes out.

Lively chicks come from the eggs laid by hens of good breeding and vitality.

A hen that will lay during the fall shows her persistence and value as a good producer.

Ducklings need plenty of fresh water in dishes deep enough for them to wash their eyes and nostrils.

Oatmeal and buttermilk, either fresh or in the dried form, are two of the best developers for growing chicks.

The warm-weather chick is not of so robust a type, as a rule, as the early one, the parent stock often being run down and less vigorous.

Vigorous breeding stock is the first essential for healthy chicks, but sometimes when a good start is made neglect and improper care work havoc.

Duck eggs and ducklings are more readily available, and about 20 cents apiece is a fair price for fresh eggs. Ducklings can be shipped fairly successfully.

The Girl I Love.

Several days ago Ed L. Hall, of this city, came into possession of a one dollar bill, with the following inscription neatly typewritten across its face: "This is my last dollar, and I gave it to the girl I love."

Mr. Hall is of the opinion that a real "human interest" story awaits some budding "O. Henry," with the necessary tact and patience to find this modern lover, remarks the Indianapolis News.

Parting with one's last dollar is a circumstance which might easily be fraught with tragic significance at any time, and in this case it seems doubly so.

But, of course, "the girl I love" may have been his sister, his "last dollar" may have gone for candy, and the next day may have been his regular pay day. Who knows the answer? Some one does!

Good intentions wilt easily. Better start with new than try to save the old.
