

The Judge's Joke

THERE'S MANY A BANANA PEEL ON BROADWAY!

"Pa, you remember you promised to give me $5 if I passed in school this year?"

"Yes, Tom"

"Well, pa, you ain't gonna have that expense."

Gunner: "Gee, dat's a pretty boid."

Runner: "Dat ain't no boid; it's a bird."

"S'funny, it sings like a boid."

"How many times do I have to tell you, Bobby, that one must keep his eyes closed during prayer?"

"Yes, mamma, how do ya know I don't?"

"Triplets," announced the nurse to the proud father.

"Really, I can hardly believe my own census," he replied.

First Pedestrian (to man who has bumped into him) - Clumsy idiot!

Second Pedestrian - Glad to know you. Mine's Brown.

A few minutes after an alarm of fire was given in a hotel one of the guest joined the group that was watching the fire, and chaffed them on their apparent excitement.

"There was nothing to be excited about. I took my time about dressing, lighted a cigaret, didn't like the knot in my necktie, so tied it over again—that's how cool I was."

"Fine," one of his old friends remarked, "but why didn't you put on your trousers?"

"Engaged to four girls at once! How do you explain such conduct?"

"I don't know. Cupid must have shot me with a machine gun."

An Irishman who had just arrived in New York was taking his first walk under escort of his brother, who had been living there several years. In the window of a shop he saw a great mound of fresh cranberries.

"What are them?" he asked.

"Them is cranberries," said his brother.

"Are they fit to eat?"

"Are they fit to eat? Why, when them cranberries is stewed they make better apple sauce than prunes does."

Guest—Are you sure your wife knows I'm coming home with you for dinner?

His Host—She ought to. I argued with her for a whole hour about it.

Little Charles—Papa, do nuts grow on trees?

Papa—Yes, my son.

Little Charles—Then what tree does the doughnut grow on, pa?

Papa—The "pantree," my son.

Mrs. Newlywed (on Christmas morning)—What's this thing, darling?

Fond Husband—A waffle iron, dear—now you can make us some waffles.

Mrs. Newlywed—But, dear, I don't believe I've ever ironed any waffles.

Great Lecturer—In the South Sea Islands it costs eight spearheads to get a wife.

Much Lectured—In this country it only takes one bonthead.

"Why do you insist on taking only a local anesthetic?" asked the surgeon.

"Because I believe in patronizing home products," answered the public-spirited patient.

NOTICE OF SALE

Under and by virtue of authority vested in a certain mortgage deed, executed by David Garrett to John T. Ransom, dated July 10th, 1915, recorded in book 67, page 63, Register of Deeds office of Washington County, and in default in payments, the undersigned mortgagee will expose at public sale, at the courthouse door, Plymouth, North Carolina, on the 24th day of May, 1926, at 12 noon, to the highest bidder for cash the following described real estate:

First; all of my undivided interest in the estate of the late Daniel Garrett in the lot in the town of Plymouth, adjoining Leek Smith, Ed Sprull and others and lying on west side of Main Street, and also the wharves and docks thereon.

Second; all my later share in the tract of land joining the Furness land and Whaley land and Conaby Creek Swamp.

Decended to me said interest from Daniel Garrett my father.

The last and highest bidder will be required to deposit with the Clerk of Superior Court ten per cent of the bid for good faith and confirmation by the Clerk.
