Roper Womans Club Extends Thanks To Local Merchants

The Woman's Club of Roper is undertaking to put in equipment for Home Economics according to Smith Hughes requirements in Roper High School. In this work it has met with a very sympathetic response from the people in the school district, and several valuable gifts including a sewing machine and an oilstove.

The Club particularly wishes to express its appreciation to the merchants and other firms of Plymouth who so graciously and generously contributed to this cause as an expression of their appreciation of the business accorded them by this community. It trusts that the people of the district will return the complement by giving them a larger measure of their trade whenever it is necessary to leave the home town. The following is a list of those who have contributed.

- Thompson—Clagon, Inc. $5.00
- Cahoon Quality Shop 2.50
- Abe Adler 2.50
- The O'Henry Drug Store 2.50
- Normans 2.00
- Plymouth Wholesale Co. 2.00

DR. SIMON TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

Dr. W. D. Simon, of Louisville Ky. will deliver a discourse at the First Baptist Church at this place on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. Dr. Simon is a graduate of Richmond University and the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville Ky. Recently Dr. Simon acquired the degree of Doctor of Theology.

The Baptist Young People's Union, a young folk society of the church, will render a program at the evening service. The subject for discussion among the various speakers of the young people is "The Big Question." A dozen young folk will participate in the rendition of the program, which will consist of speeches, music, Bible drills and quizzes.

Every one is urged to attend these services.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The local school building was the scene of a gala affair Tuesday evening when the Juniors entertained the Seniors of the high school at a banquet. The high school faculty were the honored guests. As the guests entered the building they were ushered into the reception room which was artistically decorated with blue and white, the Junior class colors. Here they were served punch and enjoyed dancing.

The repast consisting of three courses was served in the room of the home economics department. The room was handsomely ornamented with lavender and gold, the senior class colors. Attractive souvenirs of horns and nut baskets were presented the guests. Each guest was attired in the usual formal evening dress.

Miss Pearl Fleming was toastmistress. Ludford McNair toasted the seniors and Senior Ned Swain responded. Prof. J. W. Norman replied to the toast to the faculty made by Miss Nancy Bateman.

The class mascots were little Ann Liverman and James Howard Ward.

Globe Trotter Lecturer Barred From Church

Happy Jack Caves, noted lecturer and walker extraordinary who claims to have traveled around the world since 1919 pushing a wheelbarrow with equipment, weighing 250 pounds, was barred from lecturing at the Dardens Christian Church, which is located in a village about four miles west of here on the Plymouth-Williamston highway, Sunday when he appeared ready to deliver the instructive address at the proper hour with too much "Martin County Corn", under his shirt. The lecture had been properly advertised and the crowd assembled when the church authorities noticed the speaker under the influence of whiskey.

Happy Jack is not supposed to beg borrow, steal nor sell anything for expenses but secures money enough from his lectures to exist. He is on the last lap of his 100,000 miles journey with about 900 more miles to cover which he thinks will be covered by the fall, one year ahead of the schedule.

He hopes to win the prize of about $39,000 offered by the Johns Hopkins University medical department. Sixteen contestants registered for the trial of endurance about nine years ago but all have dropped out but this single globe trotter.

$236 RAISED FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

Eight committees composed of sixteen persons members of the churches and representing the various civic and fraternal organizations of the city, who were to solicit for the Red Cross to the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers, devoted Sunday afternoon to this duty and realized a benefit fund of $236 for these needy folk, according to W. H. Hampton, district chairman of the Red Cross.

Some fraternal organizations will meet at an early date and appropriate money and swell the amount to $300, is the opinion of Mr. Hampton.

120 names were recorded on the honors list to this fund.

JUNE FIRST DOLLAR DAY

Following traditions handed down by larger municipalities and metropolises of greater importance as a greater trading center, the local Chamber of Commerce has instigated a Dollar Day, which will be participated in by nearly every merchant and business house in the city. In other columns of this paper a full two-page advertisement appears full of bargains for the shoppers which will be drawn into the city with this great inducement. Counters in the various business houses in the city will be lined with bargains and people from over the county and other places will journey to this place and aid the natives to celebrate this commercial event. On this day King Dollar will reign supreme.

The organization sponsoring the event in this manner undertakes to aid the laborer as well as the shopkeepers. Prices will be slashed. Cost of goods curtailed in order to be an inducement to the purchasing public. Rock bottom price tags will adorn the goods in the windows of the merchants. Every day commodities will receive lower price cost tag placed on them. Attractive windows will exhibit fascinating displays of high class merchandise at a lower price than in the annals of local trading history.

Clerks will barter with the local buyer. Shopkeepers will dicker with the crowds that are expected to visit the city for this price cutting event.

These merchants invite every person in this trading vicinity to look these prices over and choose the desirable commodities, at these low prices. Compare the values offered at this great underselling event and purchase while the sale is on. Select the desired article, purchase now and save.
