FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4 1927

What Will Happen By 1950?

There are many citizens in Plymouth who lived in the age that had neither the automobile, the radio, the movies or the airplane.
The first two of these great inventions have been developed within the financial reach of average families, and the latter has developed to a point where thirteen postoffice lines fly more than 2,000,000 miles each year. As for the movies they are in every neighborhood and millions of dollars are expended in producing a single feature.

These four great factors in modern life have come into being in the last quarter century. What will happen by 1950? The question is interesting and the answer impossible.

The further development of aerial commerce is certain and discounted. The most promising field in our opinion, is already apparent through the progress of television.
Already news photographs are sent by wire for instantaneous transfer.
Last week the reproduction of light waves was utilized to demonstrate that an audience in New York could see Secretary Hoover, in Washington, at the same time that they listened to his speech.

The radio and the telephone have successfully reproduced sound.
When the scene itself is also reproduced distance is almost annihilated. In time millions will be able to see and hear what transpired at distant places. Think of going to a little box, twisting a few dials and being able to watch and listen to a Presidential inauguration, an athletic contest, or some other great spectacle!

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A man's head is like his pocketbook—it's not the outside appearance but what it contains that counts.

In order to forecast the weather with a reasonable degree of accuracy all you have to do is to predict anything you don't expect.

Even in the "fatherland" they invariably speak the "mother tongue."

A halting speech may be the result of a lame excuse.

An idle brain is the advance agent of a busy tongue.

Chickens that come home to roost have more sense than some people.

Sometimes a bank cashier saves up enough to pay his running expenses.

The eye of liberty is eternal vigilance—and it is always payable in advance.

If you want anything done well, do it yourself. Always laugh at your own jokes.

Confidence is seldom lost, but it is often sadly misplaced.

Somebody is always getting in the way of the man who is in the pursuit of happiness.

A girl isn't necessarily timid because she jumps at a conclusion.

Be sure of your fatted calf before essaying the role of the prodigal son.

Every married woman thinks that all her husband's bachelor friends envy him.

Many things may be preserved in alcohol, but law and order are not on the list.

Camel

An honest cigarette honestly advertised

Delightful tobaccos, the choicest grown. Blended with skill and care. Sold without bunk of any kind, and it leads the world by billions.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobaccos.
