The 20th annual Christmas Seal Sale will be conducted in Washington county and through out the state from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas. The good the Seals do, lasts all through the year. The Sale of Seals renders possible the carrying on of a continuous educational and preventive campaign in North Carolina to fight tuberculosis and other diseases.

During the past years the tuberculosis death rate in North Carolina has been reduced 51 per cent, over one half, a result attributed mainly to the campaign of education, prevention and treatment financed largely by Christmas Seal funds, according to a statement given out yesterday by Dennis G. Brummill, chairman for the Seal Sale in North Carolina.

LOCAL AGENCY LEADS THIS DISTRICT

Six representatives of the Woodley Chevrolet Co. were present at the third annual Turkey-Bean Sweepstakes banquet held at the Garrett Hotel in Ahoskie on a night last week. At this gathering were about fifty persons representing sales agencies of the Chevrolet automobiles in the Seventh district of the sixteenth zone.

Agencies of Elizabeth City, Fargboro, Roanoke Rapids, Ahoskie, Aulander and Windsor were represented. There are about ten agencies in the district which cover about twenty-five towns. All of these agencies handed in encouraging reports of their sales efforts during the month of October.

In the Turkey-Bean Sweepstakes banquet about half of the dealers and salesmen ate turkey and the other half ate beans. Dealers are matched against dealers and salesmen against salesmen. The local agency was matched against the Elizabeth City agency in the contest. T. W. Woodley with his Staff of salesmen won in the recent sales campaign. They ate turkey while the Elizabeth City agency and salesmen ate beans.

Carl Luse, sales promotor of Charlotte, was master of ceremonies. A number of reports were heard and speeches made during the repast.

Victor Everett, local salesman, won a prize for selling the most cars during the month of October. He sold thirty-six cars during the October campaign.

Reports at the meeting revealed that this is one of the most successful years in Chevrolet history. In the last month the sales figures far exceed those of last year in the month of October. The organization is reorganizing and the sales forces have been increased and the officials of the company are looking for a large number of sales during the remainder of the year.

PROTEST MADE BY COUNTY HISTORIAN

Miss Carstarphen States That Commercial Body Should Not Honor Federal Victory

Below is a letter from Miss A. C. Carstarphen, County Historian, vigorously protesting the erection of a marker here commemorating a victory of the Federal troops in the War-Between-The-States. The local chamber of commerce and the North Carolina Historical Commission are developing plans for the erection of this marker. The letter follows:

To the Editor:-
I saw in the last issue of the Roanoke Beacon, that the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce contemplated erecting a marker to commemorate the sinking of the Confederate ram Albemarle by Lieutenant Cushing of the Federal Navy.

This seems rather strange to me for the town of Plymouth to celebrate a Federal victory.

I think that it would be more appropriate to erect a marker in memory of the help given by the Albemarle under Commander Cooke, of the Confederate Navy, to General Hoke in the capture of Plymouth.

Commander Cooke defeated the Federal fleet stationed on the Roanoke River, thus leaving the way clear for General Ransom to unite with General Hoke. Thus the ram Albemarle turned her guns on the forts surrounding Plymouth. The united efforts of General Hoke and Commander Cooke compelled General Wessels, the Federal commander, to surrender Plymouth.

A few days later the ram Albemarle sailed down the river and engaged a Federal fleet of eight vessels. One of the Federal boats was sunk and another so badly damaged it was forced to retire.

The ram Albemarle then returned to Plymouth and in October 1864, it was sunk, while moored to the Plymouth wharf, by Lieutenant W. B. Cushing, of the Federal Navy.

Respectfully,
MISS A. C. CARSTARPHEN
County Historian.
