IN MEMORITM

In sad and loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, S. H. Furlough, who departed this life one year ago today, July 30, 1930. One year ago you left us,

Sad has been our lives since then; But the memory of our dear one Will be with us till the end. A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which can never be filled. The midnight stars are gleaming, Upon your silent grave The one we loved so dearly And tried so hard to save Today recalls sad memories, Of a dear one laid to rest; And those who still remember Are those who loved you best. Loving Son And Grandchildren

We may mention here that Rae’s Beach of today is not the same Rae’s Beach of yesterday. Why? Because there is law and order kept down there and anyone may go down for a dance or swim and feel perfectly at ease so far as being treated courteous is concerned, thanks to L. W. Gurkin and P. H. Darden

DEPARTMENT CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT AND LIVE-AT-HOME DRIVE

What do you know about manufacturing and manufactured products in North Carolina? The average citizens knows of the State’s leadership in the manufacture of cotton and tobacco, knows of her large towel, denim and underwear mills, but what does he know about scores and scores of individual items manufactured within the State? How many stores stock and adequately display North Carolina goods, and how many buyers call for such items when making purchases, even when price and quality and style are in favor of the home product?

In order to make it possible for the average North Carolinaian to make satisfactory answer to these and similar questions, the State Department of Conservation and Development is planning to launch a campaign in the future to advertise North Carolina made products by having them displayed, properly marked and shown by retail stores of the State. Such a campaign, it is believed will not only acquaint our own people with what is made within the State, but will also point the way for further diversification of manufacturing, stimulate the sale of goods and thereby stimulate industry and agriculture also. This program fits in with the Governor’s Live-at-Home program and secured his entire approval in a statement made public a few days ago.

A list of the principal consumers’ goods made in the State is now being compiled by the Department. This list will be placed in the hands of wholesale and retail merchants, who are willing to stock at least some goods made in the State. It is hoped that this campaign can be inaugurated simultaneously, perhaps early in September, by leading stores in all parts of the State, and that it will spread until every department, dry goods, and general store will be stocking and properly advertising and displaying North Carolina made goods.

ANOTHER FISH STORY

Does it rain fish? Ye editor was asked that question the other morning and at once he said that it did not, but on second thought he had to admit that he didn’t know.

The cause of the question is the old brick hole as it is known by most of the young boys about town. There is not any way for the fish to get into this place as it has been dug out for the purpose of getting dirt to make bricks. There is not any stream leading up to the hole which covers about an acre and has various kinds of fish in it.

Where did these fish come from?

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY

SILENCERS FOR AIRPLANES

Good news comes from Hiram Maxim’s factory in Hartford, which, since Mr. Maxim’s remarkable invention, has been making silencers for firearms. When one of these silencers is added to a pistol, the noise of its explosion is only a mild putt, heard but a few feet away. The invention is, of course, most useful in war, rendering it very difficult to locate enemy batteries; also a man may be shot, and people in full sight of the crime may hear no sound of the firing.

This fact has determined Mr. Maxim to discontinue the manufacture of silencers, but he will turn his attention to silencing airplane engines. His work will restore peace to the skies. This use of the invention is a real benefit, while the initial application of it was a curse.

How quick is the devil to utilize every means for evil, and how slow are the righteous in doing the same! Let us become more enterprising in all good. Let us apply to Christ’s work every improvement devised by skill and wisdom. Let us not allow Satan to outspeed Christianity.

GIVES BEACH PARTY

Miss Mildred Spruill was hostess to a number of her friends at a beach party at Rae’s Beach Monday evening, honoring her cousins, Misses Louise and Rose Spruill, of Columbia, S. C.

Those attending were: Misses Alice Grey Wolfe, Leah and Elizabeth Davidson, Mildred Waters, Louise Brinkley, Louise, Rose, Mildred and Eva Spruill, Eliza Hampton, Peggy Thompson and Helen Modlin and Clyde Cahoon, Harry Gurkin, George Barden, Sidney Ward, Jimmy Smith, Buddie Steir and Lyman Mayo.

Not only is L. L. Basnight Supervisor of Washington county roads but he is Supervisor of a nice farm belonging to Washington county.

A few years ago when Mr. Basnight came to Plymouth as County Road Supervisor, the present county farm contained only a few acres and those few acres were producing nothing but grass and weeds, also rotten trees. Now there is 60 acres of as fine land as can be found in the county. Through Mr. Basnight’s efforts, and with the use of convict labor, the two places known as the Oliver Place and the Craddock Place near Plymouth have been converted into one farm, containing about 45 acres. He has had to reclaim approximately 15 acres in order to do this. Now one can drive all through this large farm. There is 92 acres of land in these two pieces of property owned by the county and it is Mr. Basnight’s idea to begin cultivating at least 80 acres of it. In order to do this he will have quite a few trees to cut down and the stumps to remove.

On being asked what kind of tools he had Mr. Basnight stated that he had made his stump puller and that besides that he had four plows. He will produce enough feed this year that the county will not have to purchase anything to feed the team in the local camp. He will also produce enough meat to take care of the need at the road camp and the poor house.

SWIMMING PARTY

FOR VISITOR.

Miss Alice Spruill delightfully entertained at a Swimming Party at Rae’s Beach on Tuesday Evening in honor of Miss Eleanor Paul, of High Point. After swimming the guests roasted weiners and dancing was enjoyed.

Those present in addition to the guest of honor and hostess were: Misses Margaret, Helen, Virginia, and Edna Knowles, Mary Ainsley, Mildred Swain, Sally Atkinson, of Greenville, Elouise and Dalers Camp, of Ahoskie and Mrs. Isa G. Johnston, Messrs J. C. Shearin, Shaw, Howard Marx, Shaker Teele, Jim Smith, C. C. Parker, J. T. Hale, Dan Jones, and N. C. Thompson, of Plymouth C. E. Mizell Jr., Tom Norman, Dan Marrow, Potter Dixon, B. G. O’Brien, James Bateman, and Charles and Henry Williams, of Norfolk, Va. Pug Price, Claud Leggett and W. H. Williams Jr. of Williamston.

POET AND PEASANT

“Well,” said the Peasant, “What have you been doing these hot days to entertain yourself?”

“I have been doing as little as possible and trying to keep cool,” said the Poet.

“I got so hot the other morning, both physically and mentally that I didn’t know what to do,” said the Peasant.

“Don’t you know better than to get mad this hot weather?” said the Poet.

“Well,” said the Peasant, “you see it was like this; I wanted to use the long distance telephone and I just rang and rang, but no one answered me. I tried for about an hour then I asked a friend to try and he had the same success. This not being the first time that I had had that experience, it made me plenty mad. I am almost sure that the telephone company gets about six or eight hundred dollars a month out of Plymouth and it seems to me that we should get some service.”

“You are right about that,” said the Poet, “but I think that the service will be allright in a few days.”

“The service might get allright,” said the Peasant, “but no one has been able to do anything with their radio since this dial system has been installed. There is a leak somewhere.”

The Washington County Board of Education will use 18 truck during the coming school year for the purpose of transporting the rural children to and from school. One more school will be consolidated; all children who have been attending school at Scuppernon will be transported to Creswell.

After careful study of the situation was made by the members of the board, it was decided that these trucks could be more economically operated by employing a man mechanic to be in charge of all the trucks. Seary Wright, a local boy, was employee by the board for this position. He has had considerable experience as a mechanic and it is estimated that through his efforts the county will save $1500 during the coming year. He will be responsible not only for the various trucks, but he will have to look out for all of the machinery, consisting of light and water plants, operated by the County Board of Education.
