

PROSPECTS FOR PEANUT PRICES SEEN AS BETTER

Price Stabilization Movement Gives Promise Of Success

Kinston.—Reports indicate that the agreements are being signed and that the completion of the code will make it possible for the agreements and license to be put into effect at an early date," wrote J. W. Tapp, chief of the special crops division of the AAA to N. G. Bartlett, secretary of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, with reference to the peanut marketing agreement and the peanut code. This reply came in response to an inquiry from the official of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring organization of this movement to stabilize the prices of peanuts, as to how long it would be before the marketing agreement would be put into effect and the three cents minimum price to be made effective for the peanut growers of the section.

Since December 2nd, when the formal hearing was held in Washington, the peanut growers of the peanut belt have been anxiously waiting for news from Washington to the effect that the agreement had been put into effect. Now that this new information has come direct from the department, the growers will take new courage and hold on to their peanuts until the arrangements have been completed. Secretary Bartlett was in Suffolk this past week conferring with the millers and others as to the outlook for any early operation of the code and the marketing agreement.

The names of both J. B. Fearing, of Windsor, and Sam N. Clark, of Tarboro, have been forwarded to Washington by Dean Schaub of the Extension Department, for the Secretary of Agriculture to select one to serve on the Control Board to look after the affairs of the marketing agreement. These two nominations were sent to Dean Schaub by request of the meeting at Rich Square last week. There is much speculation among the peanut section as to which man will be chosen to represent the peanut growers from North Carolina on the control board. Both of these nominees have been very active in the campaign to stabilize the prices of peanuts and both are members of the steering committee appointed by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce early in the summer to handle the campaign.

Gives Fertilizer Mixture For Early Irish Potatoes

Experiments conducted with Irish potatoes in Eastern North Carolina during the past five years have shown the value of a mixture of 7 per cent phosphoric acid, 5 per cent nitrogen and 5 per cent potash. E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at N. C. State College, says.

Mr. Morrow also emphasizes the value of fine dolomitic limestone as a filler in the place of sand. Sand serves as a filler and nothing more, he says. But the limestone also has a beneficial action on the land and may be considered as an important ingredient of the fertilizer.

He gives two formulas for the 7-5-5 mixture, one prepared commercially and the other mixed at home. Both are good, he says, but the use of limestone in the home mixture

SOUTH LEADER IN RECOVERY

General Improvement and Happier Feeling All Over Cotton Belt

The South is leading the nation's drive toward recovery, according to dispatches and editorials appearing in the metropolitan newspapers throughout the country. General improvement in conditions and a much happier feeling about the immediate future are reported by all who travel through the cotton belt. That there is ample basis for this optimism is shown in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's report, recently issued, that 1933 crop values are up 42 per cent. The farm value of the 1933 cotton crop was nearly $620,000,000, compared with less than $375,000,000 in 1932.

In planning for 1934, people are deeply impressed by these visible evidences of the establishment of a new economic order. Their response has been prompt and generous, as revealed by reports of a widespread trend back to normal buying habits, especially among farmers. Compelled by the adverse conditions of recent years to buy sparingly, at the cheapest price, and without regard to quality, farmers are being greatly encouraged to find that in many lines, quality merchandise is offered at prices well within their ability to pay. An example is to be found in the case of Chilean natural nitrate, a fertilizer of south-wide importance which has been used in the United States for more than 100 years. In this case, farmers can satisfy their preference for a high standard of balanced quality without paying anything extra for it, even though the presence of a number of valuable impurities in the natural nitrate gives it a position of distinguished usefulness among the rather large number of other materials, not of natural origin.

The real significance of this and similar instances of improved conditions in our agricultural sections is to be fully appreciated only by those who know how complete has been the change in the farmers' frame of mind during the past years. He is beginning again to think in terms of the future, a future that holds for him the promise of constructive and profitable enterprise in partnership with Mother Nature.

Best To Feed Chickens Milk Before Clabbered

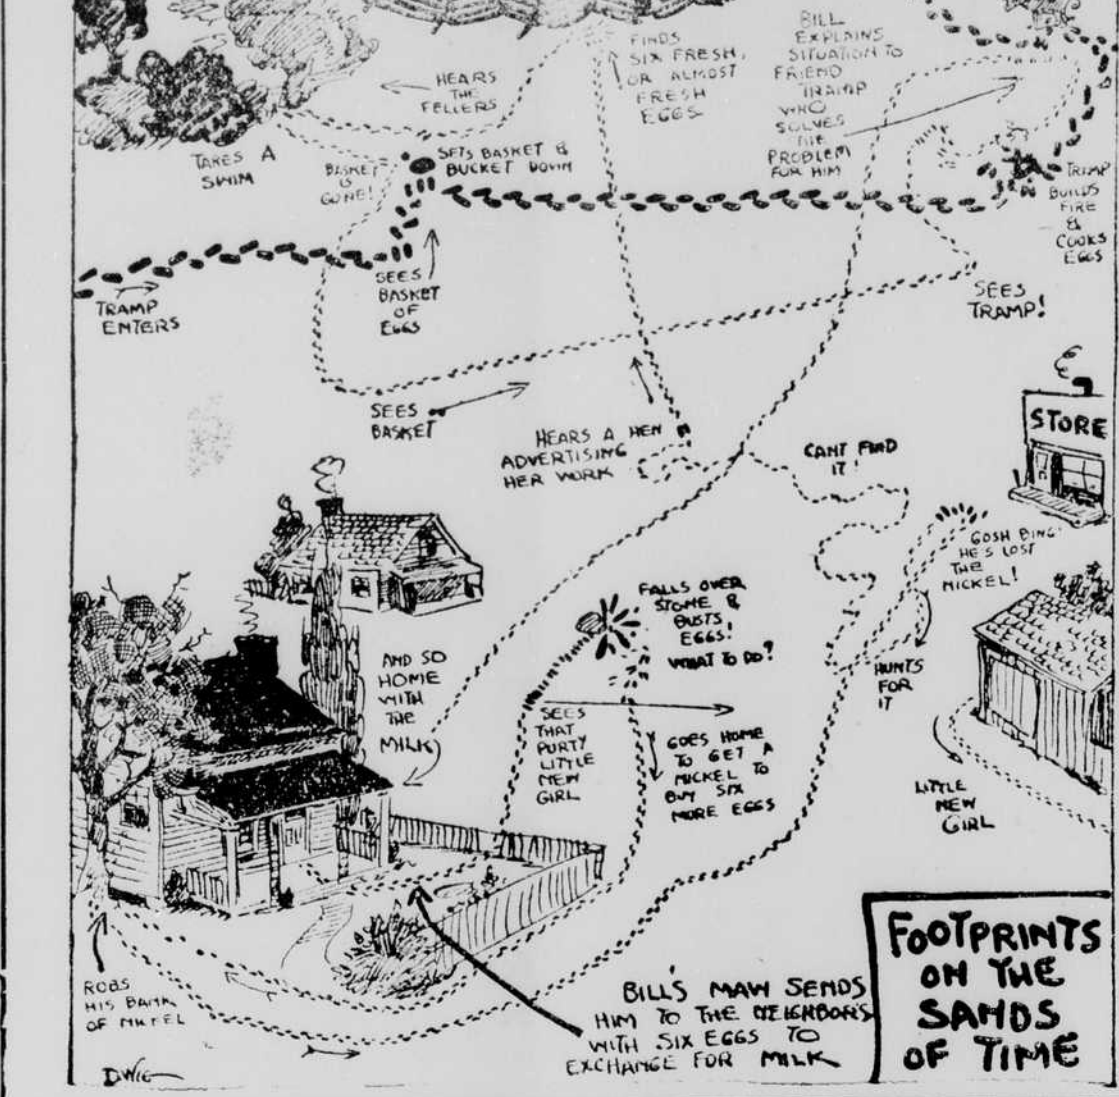

The feeding of clabbered milk in pans or shallow receptacles, unless cleaned and scalded daily, will cause loose, yellowish voidings. Where the clabber is fed, it is best to have two sets of drinking vessels so that one may be thoroughly cleaned each day. The best way, however, is to feed the milk before it clabbers which will eliminate any accumulation of the harmful bacteria.

One ton of the commercial mixture is composed of the following materials: nitrate of soda, 222 pounds; sulphate of ammonia, 167 pounds; cottonseed meal, 556 pounds—the three of which give 100 pounds of nitrogen; superphosphate, 788 pounds—which, along with the cottonseed meal, gives 140 pounds of phosphoric acid; and muria, 184 pounds—which gives approximately 100 pounds of potash. The cottonseed meal also contributes a part of the potash. Eighty-three pounds of sand for filler completes the ton.

In the home mixture, the nitrogen is carried in the nitrate of soda, 200 pounds; sulphate of ammonia, 200 pounds, and cottonseed meal, 500 pounds. The phosphoric acid is contained in the 800 of superphosphate. One hundred pounds of muriate of potash provide the bulk of potash required. And 100 pounds of dolomitic limestone are used to make the filler. Mr. Morrow will supply definite information about potato fertilizer to any grower requesting further details.

New Cotton Contract Leads To Adjustment

Extension workers at State College are studying the new cotton acreage reduction contracts, which provide for reducing the 1934 and 1935 crops and continuing the fight to lower the burdensome cotton surplus.

First copies of the contracts were made available by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration last week and every effort is being made to speed printing and distributing the full supply that the sign-up campaign may be started at an early date. Regulations and other necessary forms will be sent out with the contracts.

No definite dates have been fixed for the start of the actual national campaign, but Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton of the AAA, has advised Dean I. O. Schaub, that signing of contracts in more than 800 cotton counties of the South would begin as soon as the necessary forms could be gotten to the field, probably before January 10.

Restriction of cotton planting for 1934 to 25,000,000 acres is the general goal of the new program, Mr. Schaub said. This would be a reduction of approximately 40 per cent from the "base acreage," or average acreage for the period 1928 through 1932. The contracts also provide for a possible acreage reduction in 1935, if the secretary of agriculture finds this to be necessary. The 1935 reduction would not exceed 25 per cent of the "base acreage," under the terms of the contract.

"Rental payments, based on the productivity of the acres rented to the secretary of agriculture under the contract, and parity payments of not less than one cent per pound on their farm allotments will be made to growers who take part in the program," says the extension director. "The rate of rental for each acre will be 3-1-2 cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre for the farm during the base period, 1928-32, with a maximum of $18 per acre.

The parity payments of "not less than one cent per pound" will be paid on the individual "farm allotment," which is 40 per cent of the average annual cotton production for the farm during the base period. This 40 per cent of the individual's production compares with the percentage of the national crop which is used domestically, and may be referred to as the individual's "domestic allotment."

Mr. Schaub points out that producers who sign the contracts will agree to reduce the acreage they plant to cotton in 1934 to at least 35 per cent and to not more than 45 per cent under the base acreage. The retired or rented acres must represent, in productivity, a fair average of the cotton land on the farm. Other provisions of the contract concern use of the rented acres, assignability of the rental payments, increase in total crop acres on the farm, problems involved in various landlord-tenant re-

Relationships, and other special matters of direct concern to the grower.

The rental payments provided under the contract will be made in two equal installments, the first between March 1 and April 30, 1934; and the second between August 1 and September 30, 1934. The parity payment will be made between December 1, 1934, and January 1, 1935.
