The Thanksgiving Season

Next month brings Thanksgiving, which is a feast worthy of our attention—not so much because we expect to feast on turkey and rich gravy but because we have received so many rich blessings from our God and from our neighbors.

Thanksgiving is a season that should remind us of our duty to do something for others. We think of the hungry, poor, and needy; the orphan, especially comes before our eyes, with the challenge that we need to divide our blessings with those less fortunate than we.

Many times we figure that all the corn we gather is ours because we planted it and gathered it. But if we take proper thought, we will find that the land is not ours; that the principal elements of the harvest are not ours; that we are only tenants and occupants by the power of that over which we have no dominion.

So let us enter the Thanksgiving season with a determination to meet in the proper spirit of helpfulness to all mankind.

Crooks Flock To Large Assemblies

The Miami city authorities have an ordinance requiring every person visiting the city who has a previous court record to register at police headquarters, giving name, home residence and a history of all crimes for which he has been convicted or charged.

Many crooks are following visitors to resorts. They go as hotel and restaurant waiters, or perhaps as experienced policemen, enabling them to get the lay of the land and pass the information over to confederates who make the raids where the most money is on hand.

They are also following big assemblies everywhere. It is always a good plan to lock up your diamonds, silverware and other valuables when shows come to town, because there are so many prowlers usually following along.

MISS EVELYN BASSINGER ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

A delightful affair among Plymouth's younger social set took place in the form of a party given on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bassinger on East Main Street, when their granddaughter, Miss Evelyn Bassinger, entertained a number of her friends.
