Settling Capital-Labor Differences

The Labor-Capital problem would be much easier to solve if they all lived together, where each side would have an opportunity to see and contact each other, teaching them that each has rights and needs alike, and then they would be better able to adjust their differences. As it now is, each knows but one side of the controversy.

Most of our troubles have originated in those factories built and operated in the South which later fell into the hands of New Englanders. The factory demands of a New England owner do not fit well with the Southern worker. New customs and demands, though they may be equally as just as those under which they have worked for years, may not be well understood by the Southern laborer. The owners and workers need to live where they can see each other every day and Sunday, too.

Another source of trouble is a young scion who inherits a fortune and tries to tave over the 1,000 men men employed by his father, who enjoyed the workers' esteem and friendship. The young man, who has probably never earned a dollar and who has always floated along in the higher stratas of society, knowing curs the enmity and hatred of the man who does creases the enmity and hatred of the man who does the work and trouble begins at once.

It is not a new thing in life. Men who think they are imposed upon have never in any period of history been satisfied. We need a more harmonious feeling of actual frindship.

Every poor man should have that feeling of confidence in his employer to think that he would not stand by and see his children starve, and the owner should have won enough of the feeling of loyalty in his employees to think that they would gladly pull him out of a ditch if he should fall in.

Nothing short of a feeling of good honest fellowship will solve the differences between labor and apital.

Must Follow More Conservative Course

One thing we need to know is that so long as we spend more than we make we will always remain poor and get poorer because one can never fill a cash when more drains out from leaks than goes in at the bung. Unfortunately our style of living and the craving for more and more conveniences and luxuries demand more than we can make. We need to spend less on simple pleasures that make us no wiser and no richer. And unless we do follow a more conservative course we are doomed to poverty and want. When people get so hungry for pleasure that they will give up their birthright and mortgage their homes and farms to enable them to get those things they do not especially need and soon pass away without ever producing anything of lasting value. One of the necessary reforms that this generation needs to put into action is to find a way to increase its income or reduce its expenditures, and we are likely to find it easier to cut our spending than to increase our income.

Judge Meekins for President

We have nothing whatever to do with the selection of the Republican nominee for the presidency; but, in the exercise of that guaranteed right of free speech, we take the liberty of saying that of all the candidates proposed we think our own Judge I. M. Meekins is the best yet mentioned. He has the fine quality of friendliness, and he has charity and sympathy for the weak and lowly man. He is, upon the whole, at heart, too good to be a Republican.

NOTICE OF SALE
Under and by virtue of the power and authority contained in that certain deed of trust executed by W. E. Spruill and wife, Sallie Spruill, to H. D. Bateman, trustee, dated the 21st day of January, 1929, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washington County, North Carolina, in book 91, page 409 to which reference is hereby made, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured, upon demand of the holder of the indebtedness, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the courthouse door in Washington County, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 19th day of March, 1936, all of that certain property described and referred to as follows:

Tract 1: Beginning at a mulberry tree post, thence eastwardly along J. H. Spruill's line, thence southwardly along Alexander & McKay's line to a mulberry tree post at the end of a ditch; thence westwardly along said ditch to a corner at the mountain gate; thence northwardly along the road from mountain gate to the first station, containing 28 acres, more or less. For further reference see deed from W. W. Spruill and wife, Lucy A. Spruill, to D. M. Spruill, dated March 31st, 1891, and recorded in book No. 30, page 432 of Register of Deeds' office, Washington County; reference to which is made a part of this conveyance.

Tract 2: Beginning in W. W. Spruill's line, thence running northwardly along the road within fifteen feet of A. J. Spruill's lead ditch and eastwardly to A. J. Spruill's line; thence running along E. R. Spruill's line to W. W. Spruill's line; thence westwardly along W. W. Spruill's line to the first station, containing three acres more or less, being a small tract of woods land owned by said D. M. Spruill at the time of his death.

Tract 3: Beginning at the public road near the north corner of D. M. Spruill's yard on the north side of said public road two feet from a ditch leading northwardly through J. H. Spruill's field to the public road, this beginning being two feet from said ditch on the east side of said ditch running westwardly along said public road leading by E. R. Spruill's residence to the ditch named in the beginning, thence southwardly along said ditch to the beginning, containing three acres, more or less.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

The bidder at such sale will be required to deposit as much as 10 per cent of the amount bid in cash as a guaranty of good faith, pending confirmation of the sale by the clerk and the right is reserved to reject any and all bids.
This the 17th day of February, 1936.

H. D. BATEMAN,
Trustee.
