The Lifeblood of Modern Industry

Petroleum has become the lifeblood of modern industry. It is driving 26,000,000 automobile, thousands of steamers, and all the airplanes.

And oil is the largest taxpayer in the world. Its annual bill is $1,125,246,826 for Federal, State, and local taxes. It is indeed remarkable how low the price is.

The progress made in the development of gasoline has kept pace with that in the field of electricity and it produces 1,732,000,000 horsepower, 85 per cent of which is used to operate motor vehicles.

The Republican Onslaught

The old guard Republicans are trying to scare the Democrats and the public by telling them of the grave dangers just ahead. They say that Roosevelt is going to ruin the country, when they well know there is no truth in the story.

Business is good and rapidly growing better. The mills are crowded with orders; practically everybody is able to pay income tax and pay all their other taxes and interest, as well as some on the principal.

The cry that we will never be able to pay the public debt we have contracted to save our people from starvation is entirely untrue. We can easily pay it out of the money that has been gouged out of the working man and the farmer during former administrations and have money left.

Beware of false gods. Remember the days when you could not pay your way and get enough to eat, while Mr. Morgan was making millions. As long as the Mellons, DuPonts, and Morgans were making millions the Republicans were all satisfied; but just as soon as general prosperity was brought about they claim everything went wrong.

Remember that the government is better able to owe money than you are; and with the Republicans in power nationally, both you and your government will be in debt.

Landon Changes His Tune

It would seem that Governor Landon is very much embarrassed whenever he faces his former praise of President Roosevelt and his New Deal. Now, to please his big campaign backers, he has to completely change his former attitude and turn his praise into abuse.

Now which shall we believe? The Landon who praised Roosevelt and the New Deal when the banks were saved, the people enabled to make enough money to pay taxes and interest, buy automobiles, farm and build homes; or shall we believe the Landon who speaks of the glory of the Hoover administration, with its general wholesale failures of the duties of government under the domination of the money glutters?

You would do well to remember the Hoover failures, caused by the dictatorship of the money power; and rally to the President who gave you good prices and made better business for the country at large.

What the money power dislikes about Roosevelt is that he will not permit them to fix the prices on your cotton and tobacco, as well as all other commodities and labor. Do not be deceived.

Why "They Hate Roosevelt"

Woodrow Wilson once said that no one could hate a man he knew. Real hatred, he added, could be felt only for the unknown. If this be true, it is difficult to understand the gospel of hatred that has been spread over the land by President Roosevelt's opponents. Surely, the American people know him and his human qualities.

Discussing the psychology of those who proclaim that they "hate Roosevelt," the editor of the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times wrote recently that is probably far from the truth to describe the character of the political assaults on President Roosevelt as expressions of "hatred." They are, in his opinion, rather expressions of resentment.

"It would be quite impossible for reasoning people," he wrote, "to 'hate' a man of President Roosevelt's kindly character and unquestionably high American and humanitarian ideals. But nothing could be more certain than that any such man in the White House, who would undertake to translate the highest humanitarian ideals into legislative and administrative policies, would incur the bitterest resentment of all specially privileged interests, and that is exactly what President Roosevelt has earned and is now being subjected to.

"Of course, no one 'hates' Franklin D. Roosevelt, but many persons high in business, financial and political realms so desperately resent his success in placing the country back on the road to economic recovery, in spite of them, that the effect upon their actions is not materially different from actual hatred.

"Undeniably, certain manufacturers who have seen their earnings and profits grow by leaps and bounds under the stimulus of the Roosevelt New Deal resent his success to a degree almost indistinguishable from hatred.

"Certainly some bankers, who have lost the fear of runs under the protection of the deposit guarantee system, are now in a mood of resentment. So are some capitalists the New Deal has enabled to earn sure dividends on guaranteed mortgages. Corporation executives, who have seen their dividends rise to substantial levels from the deficits of a few years ago, now have it in for him and would destroy him politically if they could. That applies to many of them.

"Who can explain this paradox? Why do those benefited most by the New Deal of President Roosevelt assume the nearest to an attitude of hatred toward him? Why would they apparently rather lose money under an archaic system than make money under new conditions, based on equal rights and opportunities to all?

"But, isn't that the answer? The fact that President Roosevelt denies the proprietary rights of special interests and stands militantly for equal rights and opportunities for all. Is there anything really mysterious about the psychology of the political 'hatred' the political reactionaries so copiously entertain for President Roosevelt?"

Ready for Dictation

Just as we expected of Candidate Landon. He heartily endorsed the New Deal in numerous speeches before he became an active candidate for the presidency. Then, for a while, he fiddled along between hot and cold, finally coming over into Pennsylvania, where they have the money to buy up voters and their independence. He entered into a secret conclave with Joseph R. Grundy, the big manufacturing boss of Pennsylvania, and Joseph N. Pew, the millionaire oil magnate, and their henchmen. When they got through with Mr. Landon, he seemed to have been pretty well hand-broken and maintained a complete silence as to his attitude toward labor. He did say that industry should be free from all government restraint, which means that labor will have no showing against industry except to receive and accept such crumbs as may be thrown to them.

So Mr. Landon has lost his identity as a statesman and evidently stands ready to take dictation, just as did President Harding, President Coolidge, and President Hoover.

We want no more presidents as proxies for big interests. Be wise—vote for Roosevelt.

The Search for Happiness

We do not take time to travel life's highway soberly and quietly. If we should, we would find much joy in life that we pass by and never see.

We seem to have no time for anything except making money. We get none of the sweet aroma from the wild flowers by the wayside; we can get only a passing glimpse of the beautiful growing crops in the fields; and we have no time for anything beautiful. It is only the mad onrush that connects time and eternity, and all is past and gone.

New methods and new opportunities seem to have crazed us. Things are so unlike they were in days past, when we had to depend on the slower methods of transportation and found more time for our social duties than we do now—when we have little time for anything except dancing and playing cards. We find no time to visit the sick, little time to bury the dead. Very few of us have the time to entertain the preacher or our friends. And while we seem to be in a continual search for pleasure, we never seem to find it; and doubtless would not understand it if we met it.

We seem to have changed worlds in these latter days; physical conditions having made such great changes in our lives.

The Comptroller's Job

Nashville Graphic

According to observers in Washington, Congressman Lindsay Warren is President Roosevelt's first choice for the highly coveted position of Comptroller General of the United States. Appointment to such a position of power will be a distinct honor for the North Carolina solon and one that should arouse pride in him from his constituents.

On the contrary, the news that Roosevelt will undoubtedly extend the position to Warren has aroused a feeling of regret in his constituents. Possibly it is natural.

Congressman Warern has been renominated to his present office for six terms and during that time he has rendered a valuable service to his district. The regret arises not because the President sets such a high value on the Congressman's ability but because the district will lose its trusted servant.

We are inclined to experience the same reaction. If Congressman Warren accepts the Comptroller's office, his district must fight it out to select his successor. Congressmen with Warren's ability are not easy to find and the searching would probably end in a lot of bitterness.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

By Miss ORA E. FINCH, Home Service Director Virginia Electric And Power Company

When a body-building food needs to be added to the menu, make the easily prepared "simple soufflé" given here.

- 6 slices bread, 1-2 lb. cheese, sliced or grated, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-3 tsp. pepper.

Put two slices bread in bottom of greased casserole. Cover with 1-4 lb. cheese. Place on this two slices of bread, cover with remainder of cheese. Top with two slices buttered bread. Beat eggs; add milk, salt, and pepper. Pour over cheese and bread. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) about 30 minutes. Serve immediately.

Orange Ice Box Cake

This tempting dessert serves eight people.

- 1 Tbsp. of unflavored gelatine, 2 Tbsp. cold water, 2 cups milk, or 1 cup of evaporated milk diluted with 1 cup of water, 2 Tbsp. cornstarch, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 3-4 cup orange juice, 1 Tsp. grated orange rind, 2 dozen lady fingers or sponge cake cut into strips.

Soften the gelatine in cold water. Scald milk in double boiler. Mix cornstarch and sugar. Add to hot milk. Cook 10 minutes, stirring until it thickens. Add beaten eggs, and cook 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add softened gelatine, orange juice and rind. Line a mold with lady fingers, then fill with alternate layers of cooked mixture and lady fingers. Have a layer of lady fingers on top. Chill in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Serve with whipped cream. Orange slices make an attractive garnish.

Rigth Fertilization Of Tobacco Crop Is Greatly Important

Deficiencies In Fertilizers And Soil Cause Serious Drawback To Crop

Since tobacco is grown for its leaves, soil and fertilizer deficiencies are much more serious with this crop than with most of the other cash crops grown in North Carolina.

Such deficiencies have a more pronounced effect upon the leaves of a plant than they do upon its seeds, fruit, or other parts, said C. B. Williams, head of the agronomy department at State College. For this reason, he continued, the agronomy workers urge farmers to give special attention to the proper methods of fertilizing their tobacco fields.

Many of the fields are deficient in plant nutrients as a result of the use of low-grade fertilizer, Professor Williams pointed out, and the tobacco crop is showing the effects.

It is particularly important that next year each field be fertilized with a mixture that will provide all the plant nutrients in which its soil is deficient, he declared.

Tobacco fertilizer recommendations for 1937, as prepared by a committee of agronomist from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the State agricultural colleges of Virginia, the Carolinas, and Georgia, are now available to all tobacco growers.

N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station published in pamphlet form by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The recommendations have been tion. Copies of the pamphlet, known as agronomy circular No. 161, may be obtained free from Professor Williams, Raleigh, N. C.

The pamphlet gives the recommendations for various types of tobacco on different North Carolina soils.

Makes $340 in Hog-Feed Demonstration

A hog-feeding demonstration conducted by N. J. Miller, Merry Hill, route 1, in Bertie County, has given him a profit of $340.51 for his labor after deducting costs of all feed consumed, reports County Agent B. E. Grant.

Twenty-two pigs were included in the demonstration, with a total weight of 944 pounds when the feeding period began. When sold the pigs weighed 4,552 pounds, or a gain of 3,558 pounds. This gain was put on at a cost of $130.50, or an average of 3.62 cents a pound. The average selling price for the pigs was $10.35 per hundred, says Grant.

L. L. Dozier, of Currituck County, planted pure-bred watermelon seed in a two-acre plot. He got an average of more than two U. S. No. 1 melons from each hill, the melons weighing from 28 to 40 pounds each.
