Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

NO MATTER what the season, black is always high fashion. Here is a grand frock for general wear come spring. It is silk crepe with detachable collar and cuffs of white mousseline de soie, which has a tiny painted black pin dot. The snug bodice buttons to the waist and terminates in two pointed ends below the belt, which is of black leather. The skirt is molded at the hipline, and flares gracefully from there. It has eight gores.

Norman Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. K. Reid who is a native of Alabama gave an interesting talk about Montgomery, Alabama.
