Fearing Believes State Will Operate Free Ferries on 64

Also Thinks Bridges and Roads Will Be Found Cheaper

"I have good reasons to believe in a very short while we are going to get the state to take over Alligator River and Croatan Sound ferries and operate them free of tolls," Senator D. Bradford Fearing, of Manteo, wrote the Beacon this week. Continuing, Mr. Fearing said, "In my opinion, the state will find it cheaper to give us free bridges than free ferries, and I predict that if we work along the free ferries angle for the time being we will soon have bridges."

If toll-free ferries were operated or bridges built over Alligator River and Croatan Sound, it would constitute an extension of Route No. 64 from Manteo to Murphy, putting Plymouth on the highway which thousands travel every summer to attend the Roanoke Island historical drama, "The Lost Colony," as well as open up the Dare beaches to the remainder of the state.

As president of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, Inc., which promotes the "Lost Colony" presentation, Mr. Fearing believes it will be best to work for free ferries and then, when and if, the state starts operating the ferries it will find it cheaper to build bridges and roads than to maintain the ferries.

J. L. Phelps Named Delegate to G. O. P. National Convention

County Man One of Two From First District; Pledged To Taft

Republicans of Washington County were auspiciously recognized at the first congressional district convention held in Williamston last Thursday, John L. Phelps, of Creswell, being named with Wheeler Martin, of Williamston, as a delegate from the district to the national convention, which will be held in Philadelphia in June.

H. A. (Chubby) Liverman, of Plymouth, was named as chairman of the first district congressional committee, which also includes the following members: Clarence Allen, Beaufort; P. D. Burgess, Camden; M. S. Elliott, Chowan; B. C. Kinsey, Currituck; W. H. Elliott, Hertford; Harvey Mason, Hyde; Jesse Wilson Price, Martin; M. N. Tokey, Pasquotank; J. P. Jessup, Perquimans; H. R. Munford, Pitt; and F. E. Cohoon, Tyrrell.

Congressman Lindsay C. Warren will have competition from the district in the November general election, as the Republicans endorsed John A. Wilkerson, Beaufort County attorney, for that post. Neither Warren nor Wilkerson have competition in the primary.

In the harmonious meeting, which was attended by a number from this county, the group laid the groundwork for unified strength and a determination of purpose with a plan to exert most of their strength not in the subdivisional politics but in an earnest campaign for the gubernatorial and presidential offices in November.

The support of the district was pledged to Senator Robert A. Taft for president, with the delegates instructed to stick by the Ohio man in the national convention as long as there was any hope for his nomination.

New Series of B. & L. Stock on Sale April 1

More Interest Being Evidenced Than in Any Previous Series

State Official Says Earnings Justify 4 Per Cent Interest on Full-Paid Stock

Applications are being received by the Plymouth Building and Loan Association for the purchase of stock in the tenth series, dated April 1, it was announced following a meeting of the officers and directors of the association last week.

Officials of the organization start the sale of stock in the tenth series shortly after receiving a letter from the State Insurance Department stating that the rate of earnings last year on full-paid stock was in excess of 4 per cent and on the installment stock in excess of 5 per cent.

Increased earnings of the organization, figured on the basis of the 1939 report to the State Insurance Commission, will justify the payment of 4 per cent interest on the full-paid stock outstanding, amounting to $3,700, according to a letter from Geo. W. Crone, deputy insurance commissioner, received this week.

President E. F. Still said today that all officials, directors and stockholders would conduct an intensive campaign to increase the amount of stock outstanding in the association, which will make more money available for loans to improve and build homes in Plymouth.

More interest has already been evidenced in the coming series of stock than in any past series, it was learned from the secretary, M. W. Spruill, and it is hoped a record number of shares will be sold.

It is pointed out that building and loan stock is exempt from taxation, which fact coupled with the rate of earnings of 4 per cent on full-paid stock and about 5 per cent on installment stock, makes this rank among the leaders from an investment standpoint.

Superior Court in April Is Called Off By Vote of Bar

Say Number Cases Do Not Justify Expense To County

The Washington County Bar Association at a meeting held here Tuesday afternoon voted to eliminate the April term of Superior Court, according to Clerk of Superior Court C. V. W. Ausbon. It is understood the bar was divided on the question of calling off the term, but a majority felt the number of cases was not sufficient to justify the expense of the term. Only a few cases were on the calendar for the court. W. L. Whitley, Z. V. Norman and A. R. Dupree, sr., were in favor of holding the court, while the other members of the bar voted against it.

It was explained that since the April term is devoted exclusively to the trial of civil actions, there were not enough urgent cases awaiting hearing to put the county to the expense of holding the terms, which was scheduled to start on April 15.

Cases intended for the one-week April term will be put on the calendar for the two-week July term, when both civil and criminal cases are up for disposition.

Judge Q. K. Nimocks, of Fayetteville, who is now holding court in Williamston, was scheduled to preside over the court here.

Fisheries Not To Be Operated for First Time in 100 Years

W. R. Hampton Says Declining Fish Supply Does Not Justify Expense

For the first time in over 100 years the famous Kitty Hawk and Slade herring fisheries, located at the converging points of Roanoke, Middle and Cashie Rivers, about 2 miles upriver from Plymouth, will not be operated on Easter Monday, it was learned today from W. R. Hampton, owner, who stated that he did not plan to operate the fisheries at all this season.

According to Mr. Hampton, herring catches have been so small for the past two seasons that the venture has proven unprofitable, and it was decided to abandon operations altogether this year. Failure of the fisheries to be operated will mean that from 200 to 250 person usually employed there for 10 weeks each spring will be without work this year. In the past thousands of dollars were paid out in wages each season.

Mr. Hampton's father, W. H. (Billy) Hampton purchased the fisheries more than 70 years ago, and operated them each spring as long as he lived. Tremendous hauls have been made at the fisheries in years gone by, the catch from a single haul of the long seines running over 100,000 many times. Large quantities of shad, rock, perch, and an occasional sturgeon were also caught at the fisheries over the long term of years they were operated.

Mr. Hampton said the supply of fish had sharply declined for the past two seasons, with disastrous results to him financially.

Asked about the rumored pollution of the stream as a cause of the decrease in quantity of fish caught, Mr. Hampton declined to comment, simply stating that it had been decided not to attempt operation of the fisheries this year.

A pilgrimage to the fisheries on Easter Monday has become an annual custom for many people, who will miss their trip this year. They came from all sections of eastern Carolina, and in recent years many from out of the state, to see and hear the negro employees sing as they hauled in and put out the huge seines, as well as to gaze at the thousands of fluttering fish dumped on the "batteries" of the fisheries.

Operations were scheduled to begin Wednesday. Herring and herring roe will be purchased from fisheries and fishermen in this section. Much of the herring will come from their seine at Wood Island.

Sixteen white women will be employed as roe pickers, and 10 to 20 more will be employed at various other jobs in the operation of the plant, which, in addition to canning roe, will skin catfish for shipment and buy and sell many other kinds of fish.

The roe produced will be canned under the label of the Chowanoke Herring Roe.
