Hail "Go West" As "Oomph" Musical At Theatre Sunday

Mirth, Music, Melodrama Blended in Picture Scheduled Sunday

A custard pie is a better bandit stopper than a blazing bullet! Upon that novel premise, Columbia is said to have hung one of the most delightful Westerns ever filmed, "Go West, Young Lady," which packs mirth, melody, melodrama and omph into a motion picture entirely new and novel. Penny Singleton, Glenn Ford and Ann Miller top the featured cast of the comedy, at the Plymouth Theatre Sunday.

Miss Singleton takes a brief sabbatical from her popular appearance as "Blondie" to appear in "Go West, Young Lady" as the lovely young heroine who tosses off a pie or a song with facile abandon, who handles a six-gun or a dance routine with delightful ease.

As her romantic lead, Glenn Ford tops even his superb performance in the recent, and only a bit less boisterous, "Texas." Ford is seen as the sun-totin' frontier marshal whose efforts to round up Pecos Pete, the

WHO BELONGS TO WHO?

Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda seem to leave no doubt in anybody's mind, but "You Belong to Me," in which they are starred today at the Plymouth Theatre, presents Mr. Fonda as an inordinately jealous husband who seems to think, because his wife is a doctor with an extensive practice, that she belongs to the world!

worst villain west of the Mississippi, lead to one blithe comedy situation after another, and the toe-tinkling Miss Miller comports herself with lovely gracefulness as the dance hall entertainer who is Pecos Pete's prettiest aide.

Stanwyck, Fonda Stars Comedy At Theatre Thursday

"You Belong to Me" Is Wacky Comedy Romance Here for One Day

Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, the comedy combination which made "The Lady Eve" one of the most rib-tickling love-and-laugh romps of the season, continue their romantic antics in Columbia's "You Belong to Me," at the Plymouth Theatre Thursday.

A Wesley Ruggles' production, based upon a screen play by Claude Binyon, "You Belong to Me" is said to belong high up in the list of such other uproarious comedies as "The Awful Truth," "Here Comes Mr. Jordan," "You Can't Take It With You" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." "You Belong to Me" is the story of a bride who wouldn't stay for breakfast, and of a husband who agrees that all the world loves a lover, but why should all the world love his wife? Miss Stanwyck is seen as a woman doctor with too many patients—all of them handsome

Womanless Wedding Tomorrow Night at Plymouth Theatre

Scheduled for Presentation Between Showings of Movie Program

As an added attraction at the Plymouth Theatre Friday night a womanless wedding will be presented by the Plymouth Junior Woman's Club, under the direction of R. B. Trotman, with a large cast of local talent in the performance.

The special performance will be staged between the two showings of "Thanks a Million," which features William Tracy, Joseph Sawyer, James Gleason and Noah Beery, jr. Matty Mainek and his orchestra will also present a screen version of "Stage Fright."

Members of the Junior Woman's Club are selling adult tickets while children must obtain their tickets at the box office of the theatre on the night of the show. The prices will be slightly increased from 17 to 22 cents for children and from 30 to 40 cents for adults.

Rehearsals are being held this week by the cast of the womanless wedding, and junior club officials say the performance will be one of the most laugh-provoking home-talent productions ever to be offered here. A number of well known local people are in the cast.

New England Artist Colony and Divorce Court Movie Scenes

"Design for Scandal" Monday and Tuesday Stars Rosalind Russell

A picturesque house, a picturesque Cape Cod artists' colony and a divorce court form three of the varied settings in the new Rosalind Russell-Walter Pidgeon romantic comedy, "Design for Scandal," playing at the Plymouth Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Since Miss Russell plays a woman judge she and Director Norman Taurog made a number of visits to a courtroom presided over by a feminine magistrate in order to make sure there would be no inaccuracies in the picture's judicial sequences.

For the Cape Cod scenes, a camera crew was sent directly to the Cape, where typical street scenes were shot, together with exterior and interior shots of New England beach cottages and picturesque landmarks.

A Los Angeles publishing building and its offices served as model for the publishing house sequences of the picture, in which Edward Arnold plays the publisher.

The picture is based on an original screen play by Leonard Hauser, and was produced by John W. Considine, jr.

Wuxtree! Man kisses judge—but the judge is a lady! Walter Pidgeon's the man, Rosalind Russell's the judge, and you'll see them together for the first time on the screen Monday and Tuesday at the Plymouth Theatre in "Design for Scandal," the new comedy which proves that every woman will weaken when the right man comes along!

PLYMOUTH AND CRESWELL HALVE TWIN BILL LAST FRIDAY NIGHT IN GAMES AT LOCAL GYMNASIUM

Creswell Girls Defeat Locals 21-8; Local Lads Get 23 to 21 Win

The Creswell girls defeated the Plymouth lassies 21 to 8 in the first game of a double-header here Friday night but the Plymouth lads managed to reverse the decision in the second game with the locals eking out a 23 to 21 victory in the third twin bill of the season.

It was the third setback for the Plymouth girls who have lost to Bear Grass and Roper but it is the second victory for the local lads who lost to Bear Grass but who have won from Roper and Creswell.

The Plymouth lassies got off to a good start in the first tilt, leading at the end of the first quarter, 5 to 3, but the visitors were ahead at the end of the half and continued to pile up a very formidable score. The Creswell boys were leading by two narrow points at the half but the Plymouth boys came back to advance to the lead.

Miss Eula Patrick set the pace for the girls by racking up 14 points to lead the scoring in the young ladies' setto. She got six field goals and two free throws. Miss Mildred Barber, with 7 points, accounted for the remainder of the scoring for the visitors. Martha Manning made five of the points for the Plymouth girls and L. Nobles made the other three.

Felton Magee, with 15 points, set the pace in the boys' fracas. Roy Manning, playing at center, made four points and Elmo Mayo and L. Sexton made two points each. This appeared to be a battle much for the centers as W. Armstrong, playing the middle position for Creswell annexed 10 points. C. Hopkins and L. Davenport made four points each and Bateman shot two. S. Woodley made good a three throw for one point.

The boys' affair was marked by the close score, only two points separating the victors from the losers. Alton Mayo and L. Sexton did some good guarding as did S. Woodley for Creswell. L. Davenport did an excellent guard job and found time to count four points for his team.

Iris Spruill, Kate Spruill and Selma Furlough did an excellent job at guarding for Creswell while the work of Grace Nobles and Mary Lillian Campbell looked good for Plymouth. The local young ladies fought a good battle but they were forced to bow to a more powerful team.

Miss Irene Dixon is coaching the young ladies while Louis Trunzo is assisted in coaching the boys by Fred Bateman, who is well qualified in this sport. Mr. Bateman coached class teams in intramural sports at Wake Forest College, where he studied law.

Personal fouls in the boys' game were made as follows: Plymouth: E. Mayo, Manning and A. Mayo, two each, and L. Sexton 1; Creswell: L. Davenport and S. Woodley two each; Girls: Plymouth: Woodard and Grace Nobles 3 each, Alexander 1; Creswell: Eula Patrick, Neva Patrick and Iris Spruill, 2 each, Hopkins 1.

Officials: girls' game: Earl Bowen, referee; D. J. Johnson, umpire; Frances Basinger and Philip Liverman, scorers; Billy Winesett, time-keeper. Practically the same officials presided at the boys' game.

Local Teams Divide Double Bill Tuesday

The Plymouth boys defeated Belhaven, 37 to 16, while the local girls lost, 19 to 5, in a basketball double-header at the high school gym Tuesday night. This made the fourth straight setback for the local girls' team, while the boys have won three out of their four games.

Repeating his pace-setting performances as top scorer, Felton Magee again led the scorers on both teams with 12 points. Roy Manning, at center, scored 11 points, while Elmo Mayo came through with 10. Glover, with 8 points, was best for the losers.

Dunbar, for Belhaven, with 11 points, topped scorers in the girls' game. L. Nobles, with 3, and Martha Manning, with 2, provided the scores for Plymouth.
