Local Pro Won $40 At Greensboro Golf Tourney Last Week

Was Fourth Among Carolinas-Virginia Pros at Greensboro Tourney

Ellis Maples, professional at the local country club, returned Tuesday night from the golfing wars, and while the local pro did not land in any of the big money at the tournaments in Pinehurst and Greensboro last week, he did manage to pay part of his expenses with a $40 special award which he won at the Greensboro event.

Mr. Maples had some hard luck in the North and South open at Pinehurst Wednesday of last week. After turning in a first-round score of 70, which placed him in a tie for fourth place, he was disqualified at the end of his second round of play, when the scorer made an error on his card. In this event, the matches are played in threesomes, with each player keeping one of the other player's score. The man who was scoring for the local pro marked down a birdie-3 on the 13th hole, whereas Maples really had a par-4. After signing the score card and turning it in, Mr. Maples said he realized an error had been made, and he reported it to the of-

Exhibition Games Set for Week-End

Baseball fans of this section will have an opportunity to see two exhibition games at Hicks Field in Edenton during the week-end, when the Binghampton, N. Y., club of the Eastern League, plays the Norfolk club of the Piedmont League, Saturday and the Norfolk Orioles on Sunday.

The games will start at 3:30 o'clock. The Binghampton club is a farm team of the New York Yankees and is training in Edenton this spring. The Binghampton club plays class A baseball.

Officials, who informed him that under the rules no correction could be made after signing the card and turning it in, and the only thing to be done was to disqualify him. The same thing occurred two years ago to Sam Snead in the Pinehurst event at a time when he was standing second.

Maples finished the 72-hole tournament at Greensboro with 295, just 4 strokes out of the big money. However, there was a special prize fund of $300 set up for pros from Virginia, North and South Carolina, and the local man finished fourth in this class, winning $40. In this special group, Al Smith, of Martinsville, Va.,

Local High School Whips Hertford In Baseball Thursday

Plymouth Boys Come From Behind In Ninth Inning To Win 6-5

The Plymouth High School baseball team opened the season last Thursday with a 6 to 5 victory over the Perquimans County High School in Hertford with the locals coming from behind in the ninth inning to score the winning run.

Elmo Mayo held the Hertford boys to five hits while the local hitters were garnering eight blows off the Hertford twirler. Ferlton Magee and Roy Manning each smashed out a double and each double accounted for two runs. Shelton McNair sacrificed Manning home to tie the score in the eighth and the Plymouth boys got a run in the ninth to win the game.

The schedule of the local boys calls for only six games this season. The schedule is as follows: April 2, Elizabeth City here; April 7, Creswell here; April 10, Creswell there; April 14, Elizabeth City there and April 17, Hertford here.

The lineup in the Hertford game for the locals was as follows: Elmo Mayo, pitcher; Pete Browning, catcher; Roy Manning, first base; Alton Mayo, second base; Felton Magee, shortstop; Kenneth Williams, third base; Calvin Basnight, leftfield; Lloyd McNair, centerfield; Asa Rogers, rightfield.

It was explained that since the school term ends on April 26, that there would be no more games played after the game with Hertford here on April 17, as the students of the school will have to prepare and take their examinations during the remaining days of the term.

Coach Louis Trunzo has been holding practice sessions for the baseball team during the last two or three weeks.

Tracy and Hepburn Brilliant Team In 'Woman of the Year'

Picture Here Today and Tomorrow Is Triumph for the Two Stars

It was inevitable that Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn should some day appear on the screen together, and the union of these two Academy Award winners in "Woman of the Year," at the Plymouth theatre Thursday and Friday provides the screen with a completely refreshing and engrossing photoplay.

With Tracy in a made-to-order role as a newspaper sports writer and the sparkling Miss Hepburn as a sleek and sophisticated columnist on international affairs, the story unfolds the meeting of these two opposite personalities, their marriage, and the clash of temperament between the man who wants his wife to pre-occupy herself with her home life and the woman who, named "America's Outstanding Woman of the Year," believes she can combine marriage and a career.

Tracy, in the role of the sports writer, again offers that combination of naturalness and dramatic power which has made him one of the greatest performers of the screen, while Miss Hepburn has never been more striking than in her present portrayal as a woman who knows her diplomats from the ground up but who is completely ignorant of the popular American pastime of baseball.

was first with 292; Ralph Lang, of Danville, second with 293; Johnny Palmer, of Badin, third with 294; Maples, fourth, with 295; and George Slingerland, of Greensboro, fifth, with 297.

ENACT TENDER LOVE STORY FOR SCREEN

Handsome Walter Pidgeon and lovely Maureen O'Hara are teamed for the first time in the film version of "How Green Was My Valley." Together, they enact one of the most tender love stories the screen has ever told.

'How Green Was My Valley' Is Due Here Monday - Tuesday

Famous Best Selling Novel Coming Next Week With Impressive Cast

At long last the dramatization of Richard Llewellyn's best-selling novel, "How Green Was My Valley," is brought to the screen by 20th Century-Fox under the able productive genius of Darryl F. Zanuck. Here is the film that has been eagerly awaited and from the accounts of preview audiences it promises to fulfill the expectations of the most discriminating motion picture fan.

The keynote of this production which is due Monday and Tuesday at the Plymouth theatre is the fidelity of its portrayal to the novel of the same name. Laid against the colorful background of a Welsh mining village, "How Green Was My Valley" brings to life the dynamic characters who captivated the over five million people who read the outstanding book.

Seen through the eyes of the youngest member of the family—Huw Morgan—"How Green Was My Valley" traces the threads of life of the Morgan family over a period of years—revealing their trials and loves their joys and sorrows. It's the brave story of a family never conquered, not by armed men or hardship, hunger or hate—nor by the turbulent years that stole the greenness from their Valley.

The featured cast is said to take able command of the opportunity to knit together a story that demanded highly specialized dramatic ability.

Walter Pidgeon, cast as Mr. Gruffydd, the minister, is said to cap his career with a splendid performance. Beauteous Maureen O'Hara portrays Angharad, the lovely Morgan daughter, who captivates the pastor. Anna Lee in the role of Bronwen is modest Society, who has devoted thirty years to child welfare and has found happy homes for more than 2,000 babies, "Blossoms in the Dust," starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, at the Plymouth theatre, Monday.

Reveals for the first time the full beauty of the red-headed, green-eyed Irish actress who rose to stardom overnight with her memorable performance of "Mrs. Chips" in "Good-bye, Mr. Chips." Now, as Mrs. Gladney, she has been given another tender, warmly human role of equal brilliance.

The most dramatic and hearttouching story ever brought to the screen, the picture opens in the gay, colorful Gibson Girl period of 1906, when lovely Edna Kahley meets, falls in love with and marries Sam Gladney, played by Pidgeon. Mrs. Gladney becomes interested in child welfare when she observes the difficulties women workers in her husband's flour mill have in caring for their children.
