The people of Washington County are urged to use more whole wheat flour. The club women have studied for the past month the importance of whole wheat in the diet. Let's improve our health by using the whole wheat product in the various ways that was demonstrated at the meetings.

A war board memoranda this week states that the Office of Price Administration has amended the sugar regulations to make more liberal the amounts of sugar available for home canning. Home canners may now obtain one pound of sugar for every four quarts of finished canned fruit. An additional one pound per person for the making of jams, jellies, preserves, etc. The quota is based on the number in the family, the quantity of fruits canned in previous years, the amount of canned fruit on hand, the amount of sugar on hand when making application and a number of other requirements. The time for accepting applications will be announced later by our local rationing board.

Farmers who have cotton crop insurance should report hail damage on cards sent them by this office for reporting loss. Adjusters will be sent to appraise the damage as early as possible. No insured land should be planted to other crops until this appraisal has been made and accepted by the county committee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The prospect of a transportation shortage which will curtail shipments of coal and oil makes it desirable that farmers substitute wood where possible for other fuels. The same is true with others in our community who could possibly use wood. Many of our farmers have wood lots and could furnish Plymouth and other towns in the county an ample supply of fuel wood. While wood is rather bulky and possibly a little more messy around the home than other fuels we could, by using wood for fuel, relieve the transportation problem and at the same time make a contribution towards the war effort. Transportation after all is one of the major problems to overcome in the present emergency.

Our State Division of Game tells us that if we would have more game this fall to shoot we must raise more more game birds this summer. We must have more feed for them. A few extra rows of plant food around the edge of fields, ditch-banks and hedgerows if seeded would produce an abundance of feed. A good game management program could be a profitable sideline to any farm. In most sections of this country shooting permits are sold in the same way that we sell peanuts, tobacco, etc.

The War Production Board order freezing steel and iron permits farmers to repair buildings and certain maintenance additions. The order freezing pine lumber does not apply to ground mills sawing 5000 or less feet per day. Farmers are advised to secure needed materials for all farm repair and maintenance at once. Also storage bins for oats, soybeans and other feed should be made at the earliest possible date. Prices on bags for grain, seed and peanuts have been fixed but bags are scarce and where possible farm storage should be done in bins. The increased production of soybeans and peanuts for oil under the War Program will take up much of the oil mill storage space as well as warehouses which we have been depending upon for storing our seed and grain. Where possible make sufficient arrangements on the farm to store farm products for at least three or four months period.

The county office is setting up a farm tool and machinery exchange. The purpose is to assist in making exchange of equipment where there

Wilmington runner type of peanuts and these peanuts should be planted four to six inches in the drill. Less seed will not insure a good stand. Farmers having surplus soybeans on hand which they intend to deliver to designated warehouses for the Commodity Credit Corporation are advised to hold these beans until further notice. Detailed instructions for the handling of these beans will be sent this week of growers as soon as such instructions are received by the county AAA office.
